U. S. Dictates Drastic Code Coal Industry Must Accept

Provides 36-Hour Week, Minimum Pay and Price Fixing.

Union Bargaining In Despite Battle

Operators Given Until Tomorrow to Protest "Strait-Jacket."

The most sweeping code yet prescribed for any industry was presented to the bituminous coal industry yesterday by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

A deadline was fixed at 6 p. m. tomorrow for receipt of written objections. A public hearing was fixed for 2:30 p. m. Monday to consider objections. The code will be transmitted to the President for proclamation Monday night or Tuesday.

The industry is going to accept the code or have it imposed on it, Gen. Johnson told newspapermen after expressing the belief the distressed industry would almost unanimously welcome the action.

Calls It "Strait-Jacket."

Admitting the code was far-reaching and detailed enough to be described as a "strait-jacket," the recovery administrator said that was what the industry needed to get out of the difficulties which have beset it for years.

The code provides an average 36-hour work week, but provides machinery for reduction of that maximum later; establishes minimum basic wages, approves price-fixing machinery and incorporates the collective bargaining provisions of the recovery law.

The collective bargaining sections did not contain any of the extra verbiage which caused such bitter battling over the automobile code and made no reference to closed or open shop.

Johnson Stirs Furore.

Gen Johnson's pronouncement that neither the coal nor any other code was to have language similar to that in the automobile code is reported to have caused a furore. The administrator stuck to his decision, despite strong disapproval of industrial advisory board members.

Settlement of the capital-labor dispute in the coal industry seemed to intensify the battle along other lines both within and without the recovery administration.

Walter C. Teagle, chairman of the industrial advisory board, led the spokesmen for the industrial opponents of the collective bargaining provision before Gen. Johnson. Despite discussions, the administrator stuck by his decision.

Open Fight Averted.

What might have developed into an open scrap was forestalled, for the time being, at least, by a proposal that the entire subject of industrial relations and responsibilities of labor and capital be discussed at a joint meeting of the industrial and labor advisory boards behind closed doors last night. No announcement was made following the meeting. Sponsors evidently felt the subject too serious for anything less than a carefully considered statement.

Representatives of the public, comprising membership of the Con-

Prof. Einstein Hears Nazi Seeking Death

Undisturbed by Threats, He Plans Yacht Trip.

Blankenberghe, Belgium, Sept. 7 (AP).—Prof. and Mrs. Albert Einstein plan to leave Belgium tomorrow aboard a friend's yatcht for an unannounced destination.

Although the professor was not unduly disturbed over information a secret German Nazi organization had set a price of $6,800 on his head, police continued to guard his villa.

"I didn't know my head was worth 20,000 marks," the professor remarked on hearing the report. Mrs. Einstein, however, was alarmed.

Silent Partner Talks In Trick-Mule Schism

St. Louis, Sept. 7 (AP).—Gus Bauer, clerk of the court of criminal correction and silent partner in a trick mule named Dan, is silent no longer. He became voluble when he had Jack Wheatley arrested for embezzlement, because, he alleged, Wheatley failed to pay half the proceeds earned by the mule in a parade.

Meanwhile Bauer took Dan into hiding pending a replevin suit.

Snow Dooms Men Lost On Oregon Mountain

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 7 (AP).—High winds and swirling snow around the summit of Mount Jefferson today dimmed the hope that three Portland men, missing on the treacherous mountainside since last Monday, would be found alive.

Searchers said any tracks left were buried by the snow.

Two Balloons With 4 Pilots Believed Lost

Officials of Bennett Race Fear Missing Entries Drifted to Sea.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Fears that two balloons in the International James Gordon Bennett Balloon Races may have drifted out over the Atlantic Ocean and carried four men to their deaths were expressed by officials of the race tonight.

The United States Army, Navy and Coast Guard were asked to aid in searching for the balloons, on one of which Ward T. Van Orman, perhaps the most noted of American balloonists, was pilot.

The two balloons took off from Curtiss-Wright Airport here at 6 p. m. Saturday, and it would have been impossible for them to remain in the air longer than Wednesday noon, Manager Cliff Henderson said.

Polish Entry Missing.

Van Orman piloted the Goodyear IX, a civilian entry. The other missing balloon was a Polish entry, piloted by Capt. Francizmek Hynek.

Each of the missing balloons carried wireless equipment to receive weather reports, but had no sending equipment. They carried life preservers, oxygen tanks, concentrated food and equipment to be used in making shelter in remote regions.

The hazards of free ballooning are shown by the fact that five men were killed several years ago in the James Gordon Bennett event when their craft were struck by lightning.

Once Saved Life.

Van Orman once saved his life over the ocean by signalling to a steamship in Morse code with a flashlight.

Unless one of the missing balloons has landed safely at a greater distance, the winner of the 1933 contests is Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle, who landed on Long Island Sound.

Treasury Asks To Swap Issue

Offers New Securities to Holders of Maturing Certificates.

(Associated Press.)

To those who hold federal certificates of indebtedness maturing September 15, the Treasury last night offered to swap a new issue of such securities.

This was an innovation in Treasury financing. In the past, new issues have been offered for cash, and the cash used to meet the maturing issues.

If certificate holders object to the exchange there is money in the treasury to buy their holdings.

About $220,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness fall due September 15 and $45,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt.

The new issue will mature in nine months with interest at .25 per cent.

Labor Split Predicted At Washington Meeting

(Associated Press.)

A sharp rift next month at the American Federation of Labor's annual convention, to be held here, between the so-called progressives and reactionaries is being predicted by spokesmen for organized labor.

The opinion was expressed generally that the crown of William Green as president of the federation is safe, with no major opposition likely to be in the field against him.

Son Wrote Roosevelt But Didn't Mail Letters

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—While Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., was in Europe, he said today, he wrote two letters to his father but neglected to mail them.

"When I see my father," the President's son said on his return, "I'll just let him read them. I guess failure to write letters is a Roosevelt trait. But I sent some postcards."

New Budget Omits U. S. Pay Slashes

"Doesn't Mean a Thing," Officials Say, But Cheer Spreads.

Difference in Costs of '28 and Next Year to Be Salary Guide.

Failure of the 1935 budget estimates to provide for the 15 per cent pay cut now in effect in all old-line Government departments was declared without significance last night by officials of the United States Budget Bureau.

"It doesn't mean anything," an official close to Budget Director Lewis Douglas, told The Post.

He pointed out the amount of the cut must be determined by comparison of living costs with 1928 standards and it obviously would be impossible to determine what these will be a year in advance.

Meanwhile, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, announced he will lead that organization's executive council to the White House to request immediate restoration of the 15 per cent cut, when the American Federation of Labor convenes in Washington this fall. He acted on request of the Central Labor Union's executive committee.

Employes Cheered.

Federal employes generally took heart when it became known that every department of Government, including the District, had received Budget Bureau instructions to prepare 1935 estimates on a 100 per cent salary basis, without allowance for the 15 per cent salary slash now in effect.

A letter was directed to budgetary officers of the various departments and Federal agencies transmitting these orders. The Budget Bureau made clear in this letter, however, that instructions were not to be construed "as indicative of a change in existing policy."

Mounting prices as result of the NRA drive was largely responsible for the view in official circles that by July 1, 1934, when the 1935 appropriations become effective, Department of Labor living cost statistics will have erased much of the difference between 1928 figures, which resulted in the present cut.

May Follow NRA Trail.

Another factor in influencing amelioration of the existing cut is a growing feeling throughout the country that the administration can not continue to shape its personnel policy in direct conflict with NRA demands that private business raise wages and increase employment.

It was pointed out that restoration of the full 15 per cent pay cut would bring the Government's annual pay roll again up to $1,000,000,000. The cut had enabled the Treasury to shave $125,000,000 from this amount. Scant saving has resulted from widespread dismissals, as these have been offset by jobs created in new emergency agencies.

Time set for consolidation of disbursing and procurement agencies under the President's reorganization plan, already postponed until December 31 by Executive order, is still indefinite, the Budget Bureau disclosed in its letter, explaining it would be impossible to allow for the savings involved in the preliminary estimates. About $20,000,000 will be saved by this merger.

First Fag and Plane Hop Feature 80th Birthday

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Loren Morrison of Council Bluffs, Iowa, figured that at 80 he must have reached the age of discretion. So today, on his eightieth birthday, he smoked his first cigarette and took his first airplane ride.

"This is as good a time as any to start," he said as he accepted a smoke from Stewardess Mary Carter on a United Air Liner bound from Omaha to Chicago. He flew on to New York today.

Aguilar's Recall To Mexico Hinted

Embassy Attache's Attack on Pani Blamed.

Mexico City, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Recall of Brig. Gen. Francisco Aguilar, military attache at the Mexican Embassy in Washington, has been ordered by the war department, the newspaper Excelsior said it had learned officially today.

Excelsior said the recall decision was based on circulation of a pamphlet by Gen. Aguilar criticizing Secretary of the Treasury Alberto J. Pani.

The pamphlet, which appeared here under the printed signature of Gen. Aguilar, described Pani as identified with "conservative, reactionary, capitalistic classes."

Auditors' Body Elects Carruthers, Census Aid

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Elbert D. Hayford, State auditor of Maine, was chosen today to head the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers.

W. H. Puryear, Tennessee superintendent of budgets and accounts; Charles A. Waters, State treasurer of Pennsylvania, and L. A. Carruthers, of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, were elected first, second and third vice presidents. Edmund R. Stewart, Maryland's auditor, was made secretary.

7 Bank Merger Pacts Upheld, One Deferred

Justice in Doubt About Legality of United States Savings.

Contracts enabling seven members of the proposed Hamilton National Bank merger to participate in the amalgamation of restricted banks into a unit were approved yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Bailey, but definite ruling on a similar contract for the United States Savings Bank was withheld until today.

Justice Bailey indicated he had "doubts" about whether he could approve the United States Bank contract, and asked attorneys for Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the bank, and representatives of the Hamilton and the Treasury Department to be prepared today to submit arguments as to legality of the bank's participation in the merger.

Doubtful About Contract.

The justice interrupted the testimony of W. Irving Shuman, Treasury officer in charge of restricted banks in the District, to make this statement:

"The Court would be slow to approve the sale of assets by a man (Wilbur H. Zepp), who is in the position of a trustee of those assets, to a corporation of which he is practically a salaried employe. I would not rule on this point, but I doubt very much any contract can be approved and I doubt whether any more testimony is needed."

Zepp is conservator of the United States Bank, and is slated for a vice presidency of the Hamilton Bank, in charge of the bank when it becomes a branch of the merged institution.

Opinion Subject to Review.

It also was shown that Zepp was a stockholder in the Hamilton and was to be a highly paid employe.

Under these conditions, Justice Bailey held, Zepp could not approve the contract. The justice emphasized, however, it was merely a tentative opinion and subject to review after today's argument.

Possible court disapproval of the contract merging United States Savings Bank with the proposed Hamilton National Bank will not affect the opening of the latter institution, it was said yesterday by its officials. They said the new Hamilton Bank would proceed toward opening without the United States Bank if necessary.

Col. Cooper, president and majority stockholder in the United States Bank, is opposing its entrance into the merger.

New York Will Quit Issuing Beer Permits

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—The State alcoholic beverage control board today issued an order discontinuing issuance of beer licenses after September 15.

The suspension was said to be to determine "whether public convenience and advantage will be promoted by the issuance of any additional licenses."

Bandits Get $1,000 In 16th St. Robbery

Luther High, Chain-Store Collector, Attacked.

Two armed men held up an ice cream store collector early today on exclusive Sixteenth street, obtained $1,000, and escaped. The victim was Luther W. High, collector for the High Ice Cream Parlors, city-wide chain.

High was carrying the day's receipts in two small bags. He stepped from his car and as he was about to enter his apartment building at 2008 Sixteenth street northwest, he was attacked by two white men. They knocked him down, seized the bags, and ran.

A police cordon immediately was thrown around the section. Several persons were picked up, but were found to have no connection with the robbery.

Standard Oil Head Blocks Peril to Code

Farrish, of New Jersey, Denies He Refused to Fall in Line.

Danger Brews on Word He Hoped Program Would Fail.

(Associated Press.)

A sputtering bomb that threatened to prevent full execution of the $12,000,000,000 oil code apparently had been smothered last night only a few hours before the industry's experiment in controlling oil production was to begin.

The flame that lighted the bomb was the report, first verified in high oil circles and then officially discounted, that W. S. Farrish, chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, had declined to cooperate with the planning and coordination committee of the oil industry, now perfecting the oil code.

Farrish replied with a statement saying: "We shall be glad to supply any data desired and will, of course, abide by any and all decisions made under the code, but I do not wish to be placed in the position of helping to frame a policy which I do not favor, but for which I would inevitably be held responsible."

Report Tells of Defiance.

The report purported to describe a telephone conversation between Charles F. Roeser, Texas oil man and member of the committee, in Washington, and Farrish, in New York, in which Roeser asked for certain facts.

Farrish, it was said, not only declined to furnish these facts, but also said the planning committee was not representative of the industry, that it had no legal right to fix prices, that allocation would have to be cut from the official 2,400,000 to 2,100,000 barrels a day, and that he hoped the committee would "make a mess" of its efforts to erect a crude oil price structure.

Secretary Ickes, administrator of the oil code, also took a hand in bringing about peace, saying "I am unwilling to believe any responsible officer of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey would make any such statement."

Reported Against "Fixing."

Reports in oil circles since work on the code was begun have aligned the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey against price fixing, which not only is permitted by the code, but which Secretary Ickes said might be used at any time if necessary.

Also in the background was the fight which ousted James A. Moffett, now adviser on the oil code, from the vice presidency of New Jersey Standard. In resigning, Moffett said he could not comply with orders from the company not to accept the NRA post, on the ground it was a patriotic duty to accept the work. Since then he has been an important worker on the code.

Teagle Is Silent.

Walter C. Teagle, member of the NRA advisory board—not connected with the oil code—and president of Standard of New Jersey, made no comment about Moffett's resignation, except to say his company was going along with NRA. Teagle had nothing to say yesterday concerning Farrish's reported remarks.

Meanwhile, the oil industry sat back to watch effect of the production allocation orders which go into effect today, reducing crude production by 350,000 barrels a day. Already price increases have been posted by major oil companies. Executives were confident further rises would carry crude at least to the dollar mark, while gasoline would advance from 1 to 3 cents.

California Ready.

Los Angeles, Sept. 7 (AP).—California oil fields are ready, said J. R. Pemberton, State oil umpire, to put into effect at 7 a. m. tomorrow the production provided under the NRA. Secretary Ickes allotted the State a total production of 480,000 barrels daily.

Kansas Wants Boost.

Topeka, Kans., Sept. 7 (AP).—Chairman Homer Hoch of the Kansas Corporation Commission said tonight the State would cooperate in maintaining the 111,000-barrel daily oil allotment allowed Kansas by the Federal Government, but that he hoped the allowable could be increased to permit Kansas refineries to purchase Kansas oil.

Tammany Hall Votes Full Backing to NRA

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Tammany Hall, one of the oldest political organizations in the Nation, today pledged its full cooperation to the NRA.

John F. Curry, Tammany leader, who led the Tammany delegates to the Democratic national convention in opposing nomination of President Roosevelt, introduced the resolution supporting the NRA.

Hot Pipes! Beer Douses Flames, Saves Block!

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 7 (AP).—A deluge of beer today prevented possible destruction of a business block by fire. The fire starting in the basement of the Burlington Lunch, melted coils by which the beer was pumped to the main floor, resulting in a flood of beverage which drowned the flames.

De Cespedes' Return As Cuban Chief Nears; Rebel Power Weakens

U. S. Orders 16 Warships to Cuba, Fearing Bloodshed.

7th Marine Regiment Mobilized Ready for Action.

The United States has ordered 16 additional naval craft to Cuban waters.

The situation frankly was grave, as the ruling radical commission attempted to win support of various political elements.

Fears of another revolution were openly voiced.

The United States was prepared to send troops ashore should this country's nationals be attacked.

The protection of Americans and an armed intervention, it was explained, differ radically.

The Seventh Marine Regiment was mobilized at Quantico, Va., ready to go into action.

(United Press.)

Armed land, sea and air forces of the United States stood ready last night to intervene in Cuba, a step which the Roosevelt administration hesitates to take, but which officials regard hourly as increasingly probable.

Nearly 30 naval and Coast Guard vessels either are steaming toward Cuba or are preparing to sail when orders come.

Twelve Marine Corps airplanes at Quantico, Va., are having their motors tuned and bomb racks adjusted.

The Navy has inquired the condition of the landing field at the Guantanamo, Cuba, naval base, which at times is under water.

1,200 Marines Ready.

A regiment of 1,250 Marines, and their packs filled, is at Quantico awaiting orders.

Thus the military and naval machine of the United States stands ready to grind out another intervention. Meanwhile, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull were seeking to avoid pushing the button which will put the machine in motion.

Reports from Cuba indicate calm, but official observers here fear it is the calm that precedes a storm. So far the "government of sergeants" that replaced the regime of the deposed president, Manuel de Cespedes, has avoided bloodshed. But reports to Washington indicate it has little control over Cuba. Political anarchy exists in some sections. Officials do not know what moment will bring reports of street fighting, attacks on foreigners and destruction of foreign property.

Such acts would be the signal for intervention. Under the Platt amendment the United States undertook before the world the responsibility of maintaining order in Cuba.

An attempt to avoid intervention was made by the President Wed-

Rule in Spain Nears Crisis

President Rebuffs Azana; Premier and Cabinet Go Into Session.

Madrid, Spain, Sept. 7 (AP).—The government headed by Premier Manuel Azana faced a crisis tonight, following efforts by the opposition, led by Alejandro Lerroux, former foreign minister, to oust the present ministry.

The Azana regime received a vote of confidence in the Cortes (Parliament) last night and went to President Niceto Alcala-Zamora today for confirmation of their authority.

The president, instead of offering this confirmation, turned to the premier with the query whether he and his ministers believed the Cortes vote indicated the will of the people. Premier Azana suggested the cabinet adjourn without making any definite decision, or even replying formally.

It was agreed the reply would be delivered to the chief executive after the cabinet members had time to discuss the matter among themselves.

Hitler Expansion Of Power Forecast

Ruling Foreign Ministry Like Mussolini Looms.

Berlin, Sept. 7 (AP).—Despite a categorical denial from the ministry of propaganda, persistent rumors were current in diplomatic circles tonight that Chancellor Hitler intends to take charge of the foreign ministry as did Mussolini in Italy.

Reports said that Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath was slated to replace Leopold von Hoesch as Ambassador to London and that Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, recently appointed head of the Nazi party's foreign political division, would become undersecretary of the foreign ministry.

The rumors followed official announcement today that German Consul Generals Otto Kiep, at New York, and Hugo Ferdinand Simon, at Chicago, have been given indefinite leave. Johannes Borchers, German Consul at Cleveland, will replace Dr. Kiep temporarily.

Thomas Attacks U. S. Cuban Move

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, departed from his subject while addressing a strike meeting tonight to warn against United States intervention in Cuba.

"Workers who permit intervention in Cuba will not deserve or long enjoy freedom at home," he said. "The exploitation of American economic interest has been a major factor in making Cuba the hell it has been"

"Shadow" Steals $90,000 Warrants

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—About $90,000 worth of city corporate fund warrants disappeared from a branch office of the city treasury this afternoon, and authorities said apparently they were stolen.

R. P. Powers, representative of the city comptroller's office, stepped out of the room for a minute and when he returned he reported the package of warrants had disappeared.

A city policeman, Daniel Donaghe, was sitting 15 feet from the desk. He said apparently a stranger had slipped into the office unnoticed, grabbed the package and dashed outside.

Junta Arms to Halt New Revolt as Factions Call Parley.

Five Governing Radicals Guarded as Peril Grows Grave.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Havana, Sept. 7.—A frank declaration of the radical junta ruling Cuba that it would step out of office at the people's command brought indications tonight that Carlos Manuel de Cespedes may return to power.

Later the representatives decided to appoint a commisison representing all groups to "study the nation's problems."

The committee immediately began a secret session.

The students and the Leftist administration apparently were not disposed to yield to any suggestions for giving over the power, although it could not be learned whether the conference considered any proposal for reinstating the provisional regime of De Cespedes.

Sergt. Fulgencio Batista, leader of Monday's revolutionary coup, roared up to the palace, accompanied by several automobile loads of soldiers as it was reported a cabinet of national concentration was being formed.

Menocal in Parley.

Among the conferees were former President Mario G. Menocal, Col. Carlos Mendieta, veteran statesman, and Miguel Mariano Gomez, former Mayor of Havana. Delegations from the A. B. C. and the O. C. R. R. Societies and students were present.

Soldiers were everywhere in the palace as the meeting began.

A telephone call to the De Cespedes home brought the information from his nephew and aid that "we are waiting expectantly to learn the outcome of the meeting at the palace."

Willing to Quit.

A spokesman for the radical junta of five declared it members would leave office "in five minutes" if the people "tell us it is necessary to get out in order to avoid American intervention."

"This government," said Jose Irizarri, one of the radical commission, "does not have any pretensions of power. If the people want us out, let them tell us so."

It was learned from a usually reliable source that the communist central committee had secretly agreed to fire on the American forces should they land.

The purpose, it was explained, would be to provoke bloodshed "to demonstrate to the entire world that Cuba is an American colony."

Several solutions of the situation were discussed.

One group held the belief that an out-and-out military government should be set up. While this group contends such a move would tend to bring the situation under control, a number held it would not be satisfactory to the United States.

Menocal Mentioned.

Another group pointed to Menocal, former president, as a leader who might be strong enough to bring order out of chaos. The younger revolutionaries were understood, however, to oppose him, although the veteran statesman had considerable support among army and navy officers who were removed from their commands in the latest revolutionary coup.

Friends of De Cespedes asserted he was willing to return to the presidency if a popular demand was made.

Guillermo Belt, one of the former cabinet members whose support was sought today by the new regime, said in this connection, "As far as I am concerned, De Cespedes is still president."

There was no indication of a desire on the part of the present government to agree to a compromise. The members of the commission expressed the belief the United States will not intervene unless public order is seriously disrupted.

All government circles again expressed confidence order could be maintained.

Hitler Proposes Taxes To Decrease Bachelors

Berlin, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Aiming at more marriages and larger families, the government announced today it was preparing a number of laws to make bachelorhood unprofitable.

Likewise, women may be taxed if they are married and without children, regardless of whether it is "their own fault" or not, it was intimated.

Paris Minister Plans Debt Talk

Negotiations to Open Soon in Washington, Says Georges Bonnet.

Paris, Friday, Sept. 8 (U.P.).—The Echo de Paris said today that at Wednesday's cabinet meeting Finance Minister Georges Bonnet stated discussions between United States and France on the latter's war debt will be initiated in Washington soon.

The discussions, he was reported as saying, will result from representations made to U. S. Secretary of Treasury Woodin recently by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British treasury delegate.

"The (French) ambassador informed the United States that France is ready for debt discussion immediately, provided that President Roosevelt and his counselors understand the reservations of the French position," the Echo de Paris said.

NRA Breach Laid To Johnson's Firm

Union Man Charges Plant Cut Hours, Pay, Too.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 7 (AP).—Lea Fabrics, Inc., of which Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is president, was charged today with violation of the NRA.

Eric Ross, labor union official, who made the complaint in telegrams to Washington, was promptly branded as a radical by Ellery K. Files, vice president and general manager of the Lea firm. Files said the charges were groundless.

President Roosevelt, Gen. Johnson, Secretary of Labor Frances L. Perkins and the labor board of NRA were those to whom Ross addressed telegrams charging that the Lea company had cut its working week from 48 to 40 hours without increasing hourly wages. Workers' weekly incomes are thus reduced from $19.20 to $16, he contends.

Marine Fliers Stand Ready For Cuba Duty

Quantico Squadron Given Orders to Check Planes Quickly.

Quantico, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—More khaki-clad Marines, this time an aircraft squadron, were told today to get everything ready to take off toward Cuba on a moment's notice.

Twelve observation ships and necessary auxiliary planes from Brown Field, here, were ordered checked up. Pilots were ordered to pack.

Yesterday the Seventh Regiment, composed of two battalions of riflemen and machine gunners, was assembled for possible use in Cuba.

Members of the aircraft squadron said they had been "standing by" for three weeks, but the order caused intense activity at the hangars.

First Lieut. Clarence J. Chappel, of Macon, Ga., a veteran of Nicaragua, is commander of the squadron. He was the third Georgian high in command of Marine units ordered to stand by. Col. Richard P. Williams, of Atlanta, is in command of the Seventh Regiment and Lieut. Col. John R. Henley, of Jasper, is regimental executive officer.

At the main section of the Marine Barracks, officers and men of the Seventh Regiment drilled and discussed problems that might arise in connection with any intervention.

"Particular attention will be paid to the occupation and pacification of towns," the drill order sent out to all regimental officers said.

At the air field, officers bound homeward to break the news to their wives said:

"They are better Marines than we are. They'd be ashamed and disappointed if we weren't on the list."

Montgomery Job Office Open Sept. 11

Employers With Vacancies Asked to Lend Aid.

The public unemployment bureau for Mongomery County will be opened Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Rockville Courthouse, George W. Davis, manager of the bureau, announced yesterday.

County unemployed are to register at the bureau for jobs and are not to be charged for registration or for getting jobs. County employers and residents who have either odd jobs or regular positions open are asked to notify the bureau.

The bureau will be operated under the Montgomery County reemployment committee, of which State's Attorney Siedman Prescott is general chairman. Mr. Davis will be assisted by Thomas M. Young, of Boyds and Miss Naomi Bogley, of Rockville, who will interview the applicants.

Branch offices are to be established later in other sections of the county. Announcement of their opening will be made after necessary arrangements have been made.

16 More Warships Ordered to Cuba

nesday night, when he asked the cooperation of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico in urging the Cuban people to establish a government capable of maintaining order.

Confer With Hull.

The Argentine and Brazilian ambassadors conferred with Hull yesterday about conditions in Cuba, but so far had received no reply from their foreign offices about Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion of cooperation.

Meanwhile envoys of two other nations—France and Japan—anxiously inquired about conditions in the island. Ambassador De Laboulaye of France had heard that a Frenchman had been killed in Cuba. The State Department had no information.

Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, of Japan, who also is Japan's Minister to Cuba, merely sought information about conditions in Cuba. His country has some 200 nationals there.

Factual reports from Cuba yesterday were scanty. Outstanding ones were:

Have Good Moral Effect.

Arrival of a United States destroyer at Santiago has had a good moral effect. Conditions were quiet.

American residents of the Isle of Pines—750 of them—feared inmates of a penal colony might escape and turn to terrorists. They asked for and received an order from the Navy Department, sending the destroyer Overton from the Canal Zone. If it finds conditions quiet there it will proceed to Cienfuegos.

A statement by Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, one of the Cuban revolutionists, created some alarm in official circles. He hinted that the proposed Cuban constitutional convention might repudiate debts to American banks and bondholders; called De Cespedes a "puppet," and said the presence of United States warships would render the task of his government more difficult.

Denies "Puppet" Charge.

The United States denied that it created a "puppet" government under De Cespedes.

This country will oppose unilateral repudiation of Cuban debts, although it would favor an agreement between Cuba and American banks making the terms of Cuban loans less onerous.

In addition to the Overton, other warships were given orders today as follows:

Eight destroyers with reservists aboard instructed to return to their home ports and take on their regular complements, prepared for Cuban action.

Eight Coast Guard vessels along the Atlantic Coast ordered to Cuban waters.

Two cruisers, a battleship, four other Coast Guard vessels and six destroyers previously had been ordered to Cuba.

Coal Code Outline Given

36-Hour Week, Minimum Base Pay, Check-Off, Collective Bargaining, Check-Weighmen and Price Regulation, Aid to Jobless Provided.

Following are the highlights of the bituminous coal code submitted last night by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson to operators and union officials:

The average 36-hour work week prescribed may be arrived at by adopting a 32-hour week for 26 weeks and a 40-hour week for 26 weeks, or by a straight 36-hour week. Eight hours was fixed as the maximum work day with certain exceptions.

The code creates mine and district adjustment committees to settle disputes and provides that in event disputes can not be settled they are to be decided by the recovery administrator.

Jobless to Benefit.

A majority of organized unemployed workers may petition for a division of available work at a mine and allocation of work among workers is to be decided by the adjustment committees.

The code guarantees right of collective bargaining, without interference or discrimination. It avoids any language which might be construed as approving a mine closed to any but union workers.

Workers are guaranteed the right to choose their own checkweighmen to assure fair credit for their production. Wages are to be paid semimonthly in lawful money or part check.

Check-Off Included.

The much disputed check-off was written into the code, but not in detailed language. Deductions from employes' pay, whether for union dues, house rent, grocery or other bills run up at company stores, or advances on pay, are to be a "matter of agreement" subject to rules prescribed by the administrator to prevent undesirable conditions.

Employes may not be required to live in company-owned houses nor to trade at company stores.

No one under 16 years shall be employed inside mines or in hazardous work.

A national bituminous coal board of 10 is to be created to administer the code.

Will Study Shorter Week.

On or before November 30, an agency designated by NRA is to report on feasibility of reducing the prescribed work week, considering a 30, 32 and 35 hour week, and is to consider revision of prescribed wages and other matters dealt with in the fair practices sections of the code. A conference to consider revision is to be held December 1.

The code prohibits sale of coal at less than a fair market price. Fair prices are to be fixed by marketing agencies. District prices shall be fixed with consideration for divisional prices.

Gen Johnson said he did not know how much the price-fixing would raise the retail price of coal, but said he would not be disappointed if it resulted in an increase of as much as $2 a ton.

Five Divisions Set.

For purposes of administration the code divides the industry into five divisions. Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia are in division No. 1, along with Pennsylvania, Ohio, lower peninsula of Michigan, Kentucky and northern Tennessee.

Basic minimum rates of pay included: Panhandle district of West Virginia, $4.60 per day and 57½ cents per hour; northern West Virginia, $4.36 and 54½ cents; southern West Virginia, Potomac district West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia, $4.20 and 52½ cents.

The code becomes effective the second Monday following approval by the President, and continues in effect until June 16, 1935, unless modified.

NRA Officials Shun Big Stick In Violations

80 Employers Warned Seen as "Slackers". Unintentionally.

Use of the big stick is not expected to be necessary in the drive on local employers charged with failing to comply with NRA codes.

Raymond J. Walter, major in charge of the work of contracting employers against whom complaints have been made, expects peaceful adjustments.

Walter revealed he had sent 80 letters to accused employers. Of these he does not believe more than 40 complaints are based on facts. In many of the cases, it is believed employers are not violating the reemployment agreement intentionally.

Walter admitted that cases of racketeering and chiseling exist in the District. A few employers, he has learned, are increasing prices, but not salaries or employment. Pressure will be brought to bear on these firms and, if necessary, action will be asked from the State Recovery Board.

Employers will be given five days in which to answer the letters. Those who do not reply will be investigated. A record will be kept of all cases.

Between 75,000 and 100,000 pledge cards have been obtained, it was reported late yesterday by Miss Etta Taggart, lieutenant general in charge of the woman's canvassing campaign. Blue Eagles issued totaled 9,616 when the Benjamin Franklin postoffice closed.

Success Is Seen In Pig Program

Half of Four Million Porkers Already Purchased.

(Associated Press.)

Confidence that the administration's program for slaughtering 4,000,000 pigs will succeed was expressed yesterday by Secretary Wallace. He said plans for killing 1,000,000 sows were "less favorable."

Wallace told the executive committee of the National Corn-Hog Producers Committee of 25 approximately 2,000,000 pigs already had been purchased.

"Undoubtedly," he added, "the pig part of the program will succeed. The hog market during the coming months will be benefited to the extent that the sale of these pigs will reduce future slaughter supplies.

"When it comes to the sow program, the report to date is less favorable. Farmers have sold only about 50,000 head. Probably not more than 200,000 sows will be sold during the emergency period to close October.

"That would be less than one-third of the maximum number of 1,000,000 head set as a goal under the emergency purchasing plan."

Farmers Held in Arson Murder of Aged Couple

Springfield, Mo., Sept. 7 (AP).—Rube Graham, farmer charged with the arson murder of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ryder, aged Douglas County couple, was ordered held without bond after a preliminary hearing today.

Graham's stepson, Earl Thurman, 17, who until a few minutes before the hearing also had been held, turned State's evidence.

Graham denied the allegation. The trial was held in a show tent because of the crowd.

New York Man Found Injured Near Railroad

Found unconscious along the railroad tracks near New York avenue northeast, a youth identified as John Bykus, 21, of New York City, was taken to Emergency Hospital in an undetermined condition last night.

Ninth and Fifth Precinct police could not determine how he was injured. They were divided in beliefs he fell from the New York Avenue Bridge or an incoming freight train.

Couzens Lied In Bank Probe, Witness Says

"No Money Saving Souls," Murfin Remarks of Radio Priest.

Detroit, Sept. 7 (AP).—Bitter denunciation of the testimony of U. S. Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, and the militant Father Charles E. Coughlin in recent hearings before the one-man grand jury investigating bank closings here came today in rebuttal testimony from James O. Murfin.

The former bank director, circuit judge and regent of the University of Michigan added:

"Every time Senator Couzens mentioned my name here, he lied. The senator was in a slanderous mood. I think he was careless when he talked, and he didn't know what he was talking about."

Denies All Charges.

He entered a categorical denial of all charges made by the senior Michigan senator and by the crusading priest that there had been wrongdoing in the closed First National Bank, Detroit, of which he was a director.

"It is too bad Father Coughlin does not devote his life to saving souls instead of assassinating character," Murfin declared. "And it is too bad Senator Couzens, with all his gift and opportunities, could not really show a helpful spirit and try to cooperate with the community. But, in the Coughlin case, there is no money to be made in saving souls. That may explain his attitude."

Blames Federal Agents.

Murfin declared he had no knowledge that the First National was insolvent before its failure to reopen and charged the Federal Government with "filing false reports."

A report made to directors by Federal bank examiners, he declared, showed the bank in a better condition than a confidential report, or "yellow sheet," sent to the Comptroller of the Currency..

Latin Nations Support U. S.

South American Leaders Hope Intervention Unnecessary.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Sept. 7 (AP). South American capitals, watching attentively and sympathetically the United States policy toward Cuba, realize the delicacy of the situation but hope that intervention can be averted.

Intervention, it is said, might inject political considerations at the impending Pan-American Conference here. Leading delegations desire to waive juridical discussions and to devote their major attention to economic, financial and commercial topics.

South American feeling toward the United States is generally considered to be more friendly than at any time since the Spanish-American War.

Commercial discussions between the United States and Colombia, Brazil, Argentina and other nations, promise to pave the way before December for a series of Pan-American bilateral economic pacts. Much work on these pacts might be done at the Montevideo conference.

In view of these circumstances it would be regretted generally if the Cuban situation overshadowed concrete economic topics at the parley.

Protection Sought For Foreign Labor

Labor Department Asked to Stop Deportation.

(Associated Press.)

Protest against continuance of an alleged drive to round up and deport foreign-born workers "because of their union and political affiliates and activities" was made to the Labor Department yesterday by a committee for protection of foreign born of Detroit, Pittsburgh and York.

D. C. Morgan, secretary of the New York committee, read a long complaint to Edward J. Shaughnessy, assistant immigration commissioner, and Turner Battle, assistant to Secretary Perkins, charging immigration inspectors and Department of Justice agents were on hand at every strike to break them, and were "terrorizing, persecuting and deporting foreign-born workers."

Shaughnessy and Battle denied the Government was "concentrating" its deportation activities against the foreign born or any other class. They told the delegation, including women with babies in their arms, that their complaint was not against the Labor Department, but with the law charging it to deport all persons illegally in this country.

Rockville Man Found Hurt, Dazed on Porch

Semiconscious from a blow on the head, Charles Melvin, 22, employe of A. Gude Sons Co., florists at Rockville, Md., was found last night on the front porch of a house on the Rockville pike near Westmore.

Melvin wandered into the offices of the firm earlier. Before aid could be summoned he disappeared. He now is in the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring.

All Even!

Judge Calls It Quits When Former Husband Owes Most Alimony.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—This is all quite complicated, so to get it straight the best place to start is the beginning.

George Schwarz, insurance man, once was married to Florence Schwarz. They were divorced in 1931. She received $100 a month temporary alimony, later reduced to $50. Schwarz kept their adopted child.

Then Schwarz married Gladys Schmoll, divorcee with three children, whose former husband had been ordered to pay $20 a week support money. Then Schwarz and his new wife had a child to make a grand total of five.

Schwarz was in court today accused of being $250 behind in alimony payment to Florence. He admitted it but explained William Schmoll was $1,700 behind in support money and that he had reason to believe his first wife and his present wife's first husband are now husband and wife. He drew the line at paying alimony to her when her husband owed his wife so much money.

So the judge ordered a writ of attachment against Schwarz quashed.

Three Named For U. S. Bank Insurance Job

President Speeds Deposit Guarantee Plan, Set for Action Jan. 1.

With the appointment yesterday of three directors of the projected Fedral Deposit Insurance Corporation, President Roosevelt pressed forward in his plan to set up a Nation-wide guarantee of national bank deposits by January 1.

Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor and Walter J. Cummings, of Chicago, special attache of the Treasury Department, were named the Democratic members of the new agency, established under the Glass banking bill approved last June.

Utah Man Also Named.

The third member of the board is E. G. Bennett, of Ogden, Utah, general manager of the First Security system of banks in Utah, Idaho and Wyoming.

Bennett also is chairman of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation for the Rocky Mountain territory. He left Ogden by airplane last night, a few hours after his nomination had been announced by Comptroller O'Connor in an address before the American Bankers' Association convention, at Chicago. He is due in Washington tomorrow.

A meeting of the organization board has been called by Comptroller O'Connor for tomorrow.

Corporation Provided.

Under the prevailing law, this board is to set up a national insurance corporation to guarantee bank deposits on a progressive basis after January 1. The insurance fund is to be created by a Government subscription to the initial capital stock of $150,000,000. It will be sustained, under present plans, by an assessment of one-half of 1 per cent on all deposits in banks participating in the plan.

The bankers' convention, in a resolution, expressed vigorous opposition to the plan, principally on the ground that such banks as might be unable to qualify for the insurance might suffer grave injury. A special committee was appointed to propose "such remedial steps as seem fitting and proper."

"Padre of Glaciers" Back With Findings

Priest Tells of Aleutian Volcanic Phenomena.

San Francisco, Sept. 7 (AP).—Bringing valuable scientific data on the volcanic phenomena of the Aleutian Islands, Father Bernard R. Hubbard, "the padre of the glaciers," returned today from his latest exploration.

With two companions, Ken Chisholm, of Santa Clara, and Edgar Levin, of Stanford University, Father Hubbard this year explored the craters of the Aleutian volcanoes Shishaldin and Akutan, 90 miles apart.

On Akutan, he related, the party discovered a boiling torrent of water running through banks of ice and snow. They heated canned food in midstream.

Holds Teeth

Landlady Seizes Molars and Spectacles for Back Board Bill.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Paula Vance, 35, was arraigned in Coney Island magistrate's court today on a charge of withholding a set of false teeth and a pair of spectacles from Mrs. Anna Cohen, formerly a boarder in the Vance household.

"Yes," said Mrs. Vance, "I'm holding them—as a lien. Mrs. Cohen owes me a board bill of $12.50."

"But Mrs. Vance, you can't hold such things as a lien," said the court.

"Oh, very well," said Mrs. Vance, producing a tin box. "Ask Mrs. Cohen to pick hers out."

In the box were half a dozen pairs of spectacles and several sets of false teeth.

Germany Condemns Two Reds.

Koenigsberg, Germany, Sept. 7 (AP).—An emergency court today sentenced two Communists to death for shooting a Nazi July 10. A third defendant was acquitted.

Deposit Guaranty Plan Held Fair to Public and Banks

Official Tells Convention Their Protests Will Prove Futile.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Nation's bankers were told today deposit insurance was for their own good and the good of the public—and were given to understand by the administration that their opposition would be of no avail.

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, listed before the American Bankers Association replies by President Roosevelt to all of their objections to deposits guaranty.

"Injustice to none," O'Connor said, "is the first aim of the National banking act, which provides for guaranty of deposits of $2,500 or less." The act becomes effective in part January 1.

Hits Propaganda.

He declared "vicious and untruthful propaganda" had been distributed that small banks and independent banks would be eliminated under the act.

The association previously adopted a resolution demanding that initiation of deposit insurance be postponed, charging that requirements for banks to obtain deposit guaranty would result in the closing of thousands of them.

The guaranty plan would put all bank deposits of $2,500 and less under guarantee January 1. When the act becomes fully operative next July 1, deposits not exceeding $10,000 would be guaranteed 100 per cent, those under $50,000 by 75 per cent, and those above $50,000 to 50 per cent.

Adopts New Code.

The association today adopted a code of fair competition that requested several exceptions from the provisions for employes as have been outlined by the NRA.

The exceptions asked were additions to the preliminary code under which banks have operated. The new code will be presented to the recovery administration September 18.

The proposed permanent code provides that during "rush seasons" employes may work 48 hours a week for as long as 13 consecutive weeks. A clause would permit employes to work overtime during bank examinations.

Restaurant Employes Alliance Meets Today

The Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance, Local 781, will meet at 3 p. m. today and on all subsequent Fridays at the same hour at the organization headquarters, 1412 I street northwest, according to an announcement made yesterday by Recording Secretary E. B. Spangler.

Ford Frowns On Code Rule Opening Books

Technicalities Holding Up His Final Approval, Friends Claim.

Big Bay, Mich., Sept. 7 (AP).—Henry Ford, still a holdout from the NRA automobile code, is represented by vacation companions at his Huron Mountain retreat as "hesitating" over final approval of the code.

Although the manufacturer is silent, his friends stated in discussions Ford has evinced approval of the general recovery plan, but feels there are technicalities in the automotive code upon which he is unable to make a decision.

One or two of these technicalities, it is indicated, deal with the necessity of the Ford Motor Co. opening its books to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and with the standing of the manufacturer's relations with parts manufacturers. His companions said they were unfamiliar with the technicalities upon which Ford is "hesitating." They would not venture an opinion as to when Ford will be ready to accept or reject the code.

In Detroit, officials of the company remained uncommunicative on the company's stand. They said that any announcement was "up to the chief."

Officials in Detroit said they did not care to indicate whether the company's maximum of 40 hours a week for employes would be changed.

Approval Pressed For Building Code

Hearings Finished, Quick Action Called Vital.

(Associated Press.)

The National Recovery Administration moved yesterday toward adoption of a master code for the construction industry by completing hearings on trade charters for general contractors, architects and painters and paperhangers.

Between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 men are employed in construction work.

A. C. Tozzer, president of the Associated General Contractors, urged speedy approval of the code for the general contractors to permit them to play their part in the Nation's recovery program. He emphasized the importance of early approval because expenditures from the Government's $3,300,000,000 public works program will move largely through general contractors.

U. S. Dictates Code For Coal Industry

sumers' Advisory Board, headed by Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, stepped more forcefully into the picture at this point.

Four general provisions to govern its efforts in dealing with industrial codes were framed by the board at a special meeting. The board's declarations were reported to have been expressed more forcefully than they finally appeared in the formal announcement.

Demand Cost Data.

Representatives of industries, the consumers' spokesman said, should be required to give "such cost and price information as may be necessary" as a basis for checking price increases.

Consumers must be represented adequately on the authority set up for administering the codes, and the language of codes must be restricted to "provisions having positive meanings and irrelevant and extraneous observations" must be eliminated, the board held.

So that its full meaning might not be misunderstood, the board insisted codes shall make effective the declaration of President Roosevelt that "the aim of this whole effort is to restore our rich domestic market by raising its vast consuming capacity. If we now inflate prices as fast and as far as we increase wages the whole project will be set at naught."

The board said it would carry out efforts to check undue price increases in cooperation with the General Statistical Board and Statistical Bureau of the NRA.

Too rapidly rising prices have been pointed to by Gen. Johnson as one of the dangers confronting the recovery program and he has announced that problem as one of the major to be tackled soon.

NRA Code for Merchant Marines Is Completed

A code of competition for the American Merchant Marine which will send the Blue Eagle insignia into the far corners of the earth was ready last night for presentation to recovery officials.

J. Caldwell Jenkins, chairman of the code committee of the American Steamship Owners Association, announced that West Coast and Gulf shipping groups, whose approval had been awaited, agreed to the proposed program today and said the draft would submitted soon to NRA authorities. Details of the code were not divulged.

Union Miners Quit NRA Parade in Illinois City

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 7 (AP).—Approximately 200 members of the United Mine Workers of America withdrew from an NRA parade today after Progressive miners tore signs from their cars.

Some said the Progressives yanked banners saying "650,000 strong and we're all American" from the United Mine Workers' machines, but Scerial Thompson, United Mine Workers' attorney, said bunting and decorations and an American flag also were jerked down.

E. A. Rule Says Brick Date Back to 2800 B.C.

The history of bricks was traced from 3800 B. C. to the present day by Edward A. Rule in a talk before the Cosmopolitan Club yesterday.

Outlining new ideas for the use of bricks in beautifying a city, he told how the colonists, almost immediately after landing in America, began making brick for homes. He also described the different kinds of brick.

Capital Airport Called Disgrace By Noted Flier

Pilots Are Good Sports or They Wouldn't Land, Says Al Williams.

"An airport is the modern front door of a city, but Washington-Hoover Field is not even a good back door."

This is what Al Williams, famous aviator, thinks of the Capital's air terminal.

"Let us stop talking and do something," Williams said yesterday to The Washington Post. "This port is a disgrace to the whole Nation. If pilots weren't a bunch of good sports they wouldn't land here.

"When a man has visited the capitals of Europe and has seen the pride exhibited in all countries in making their airports places of efficiency and beauty, one is ashamed of Washington.

"It is a good thing they didn't try to bring Balbo here. He wouldn't have landed.

"If Washington's railroad terminal was reduced to the level of its air terminal, it wouldn't be anything but a shack.

"My little filling station up on Long Island is better than this port. You can land there, fill up you tanks, get your windshield wiped and get off again in four minutes.

"Aviation already needs filling stations just as automobiles do. And yet, here in Washington they have to send men out to stop traffic on public highways to let planes get off the field."

Vienna Catholic Congress Starts

German Group Absent as 200,000 Assemble.

Vienna, Sept. 7 (AP).—Pealing church bells today marked the beginning of the German Catholic Congress, in which some 200,000 Austrian and foreign Catholics are scheduled to participate. Four cardinals and 30 bishops are attending.

The six-day program includes a celebration of the 250th anniversary of the liberation of Vienna from the Turkish siege.

A shadow over the gathering is the absence of Germany's Catholics. The semiofficial Reichspost and the Catholic Weltblatt said in editorials that they hoped the gathering would be the signal for a new era of reconciliation in smoothing out difficulties with Germany.

Capital Man's Suicide Is Seen

Note, Hat Found on Wharf at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (AP).—A hat containing a note indicating its wearer, apparently a Washington man, had committed suicide, was found late today on a wharf walk along the Delaware River.

The hat, a light gray fedora of good quality, contained in pencil the name A. S. Holcomb. On a card found beneath the band was printed: "A. Stewart Holcomb, 1615 N street northwest, Washington, D. C."

Beneath the printed name and address was written in handwriting:

"To him into whose hands this hat should stroll, please send him home to his hook at (a sketched arrow pointed to the Washington address) or phone Na. 2380."

A typewritten note read:

"To the morbidly curious: I'm not insane, merely the victim of circumstances and an incurable ailment recently contracted.

"There is none particularly interested in my action, so I choose to die incognito. Some say to commit suicide is cowardly, but it requires nerve—in my case stimulated by alcohol. I choose to die as I lived, unknown."

River police dragged for the body.

The telephone number is listed to the United States Chamber of Commerce. Officials declared Stewart A. Holcomb at one time was employed as a clerk in the accounting division.

He disappeared July 15 and has not been seen since, they said. Chamber officials declared Holcomb was an expert in his line and had been there for more than four years. Records show he was 24 years old.

Screen Suit Laid To Rival Careers

Director MacFadden and Wife Ask Divorce.

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP). Conflicting careers and ambitions today played the "heavy" in another filmland divorce action, when Violet Dunn MacFadden, actress-wife of Hamilton MacFadden, screen director and writer, filed a cross-complaint to her husband's suit for divorce.

She charged that her husband planned to desert her by sending her to New York and leaving her stranded there, inducing her to on representations that she could advance more rapidly as an actress there. He sent her $100 a week for a time, said her complaint, then stopped the allowance and she was forced to borrow money to return.

The film director in his suit alleged that his wife feared he, as a director, would overshadow her career as an actress. He charged further that she left him several times and went to New York against his will.

Steward Again Heads Federal Clerks' Group

National Federation Also Reelects Rest of Staff at Meet.

Luther C. Steward, who piloted the National Federation of Federal Employes through its break with the American Federation of Labor, yesterday was elected by acclamation to lead the federation another two years, according to word received here from the Kansas City convention.

Miss Gertrude McNally, who has worked with Steward on all questions of policy, was unanimously reelected secretary-treasurer, and the nine vice presidents were reelected for two-year terms.

The election was regarded as a vindication of their leadership, both on their stand against A. F. of L. reaffiliation and for betterment of employes' working conditions. Steward has been president almost since it was organized, 16 years ago.

Yellowstone National Park was chosen as the site of the convention in 1935.

President Steward yesterday told the convention of efforts being made to work out some method of handling classification appeals, in cooperation with the Civil Service Commission.

Pointing out that an employe now has no appeal from adverse classification action of an administrative office, Mr. Steward indicated he has high hopes of the success of his plan. He commended the three members of the Civil Service Commission for their cooperation.

The federation adopted a resolution asking that the amount of accumulated retirement deductions, which may be paid to representatives of a deceased employe without probate proceedings, be raised to $2,000.

Ritchie Pleads To Back NRA

Governor Asks Country to Support Leaders in Recovery Fight.

Baltimore, Sept. 7 (AP).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie tonight called for support of the national recovery campaign, asserting "anything but victory is unthinkable."

"If the plan fails, I fear that the alternative—after perhaps an intervening period of monetary inflation—will be a death struggle to save American institutions from social forces vastly more dangerous and vastly more destructive than the forces we now combat."

Referring to the administration, the governor said:

"The country cried long for leadership. At last the country has leadership, sincere and firm of purpose, and that leadership evolved a program which is already launched. We must follow that leadership and that program with the determination to reattain through them national balance and stability."

NRA Averts Street Car Strike in Cleveland

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 7 (AP).—Heeding a request of the National Recovery Administration, the executive board of the Cleveland Street Car Men's Union tonight postponed indefinitely a strike called for tomorrow morning which had threatened to paralyze Greater Cleveland's entire transportation system.

Killer of Officer In Chicago to Die

Death, Life Term Meted to Pair in Slaying.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Ross King, former convict, tonight was sentenced to death in the electric chair when a jury found him guilty of killing Policeman Harry Redlich when the officer was holding King's partner, whom he had captured during a robbery.

King's accomplice in crime, John Bongiorno was given a sentence of 199 years. Bongiorno was being held until the police patrol arrived when King, who had escaped through a window, came back and shot the policeman in the back.

The death sentence was the fourth in Chicago's current war on crime.

Nation Now in Turmoil, College Head States

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—The United States is torn today between militarism, communism, fascism and democracy, Dr. Paul H. Bowman, president of Bridgewater College, today told the Southeastern Regional Conference of the Church of the Brethren.

The conference, attended by delegates from churches throughout the Southeast, will continue through tomorrow evening.

Nazi Boycott Voted by Jews In Geneva Meet

Action Follows Attack on Zionist Agreement With Germans.

Geneva, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—An official boycott on German goods was decided on today by the executive committee of the Jewish conference here.

The action came during a heated session at which the meeting was in danger of breaking up following an attack on the Zionist agreement with the German government. Various delegates denounced the Zionists for dealing with Germany.

Nahum Goldman, a German-Jew, defended the agreement on the grounds it was designed to save the lives of German-Jews.

The boycott on German goods will be submitted to the full Jewish conference tomorrow. Its passage was believed assured.

The Italians refrained from voting on the boycott and decided to return to Italy tonight. The move was interpreted as their withdrawal from the meeting, Premier Benito Mussolini considering the Italian-Jews had remained at Geneva long enough.

The executive committee decided to create a committee of ten to carry out the boycott, "so the Jewish people may not abandon this legitimate, honorable, peaceable resistance to the war being waged against the Jewish people."

The resolution calls "the million non-Jews, who protested against the Hitler excesses and have shown sympathy, to support the boycott resolution."

Strangling Infant Raced 143 Miles

Boston, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Distraught parents won a 143-mile race with what they thought might be imminent death today, bringing their infant, apparently strangling from a throat obstruction, from North Adams to Boston Eye and Ear Infirmary in three hours and five minutes.

State motorcycle police escorted them in relays, meeting the speeding automobile at designated points.

The child, Janet Brown, 13-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown, was in no immediate danger, infirmary physicians said. Mrs. Brown said she thought her child swallowed something while playing on the floor.

State Official Claims Wreck Blame Shifted

Prosecutor Is Dissatisfied With Erie Inquiry in New York.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP). While a semiofficial inquiry was under way at Hornell today into Tuesday night's wreck of the Erie express, District Attorney Frank L. Wooster said he was dissatisfied with "too evident attempts" to lay the blame solely upon the engineer of the milk train, which struck the flier from the rear, adding "the whole story has not been told" of the tragedy which claimed 14 lives.

After complaints had been laid before the State public service commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the afternoon session was thrown open to the public.

Wooster announced he would lay the result of a coroner's inquest and his investigation before the Broome County grand jury when it meets October 16.

Officials said it was disclosed that 33 freight cars were left standing on the track in the path of the express, forcing it to halt.

He said he learned the freight brakeman halted the passenger train and then ran off the right of way when he saw the lights of the milk train bearing down.

Engineer Defends Self.

Hornell, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP).—Denying he was wholly responsible for the railroad wreck at Binghamton, M. H. King, engineer of the milk train which plowed into the rear of the express, said tonight he was to blame to the extent of "going too fast to stop within the required distance."

King made his statement at a hearing called by Erie Railroad officials. He said the flagman of the passenger train should have signaled him farther back. King is 62 years old and has been with the Erie for 42 years, of which he has served 30 years as an engineer.

Zionists Rally Here Sunday

Seaboard Group to Hear Lewis; Activities to Be Arranged.

The semiannual executive meeting of the Seabord Zionists will be held in the Jewish Community Center Sunday. Delegations from Maryland and Virginia are expected to report to the session which will include regional and national leaders.

Judge William M. Lewis, national vice president of the Zionist organization of America, will sound the keynote. The leaders of the seaboard region will rally in behalf of restoration of Palestine.

The executive session will open at 2:30 p. m. Rabbi Edward L. Israel, president of the region, in extending an invitation to the meeting, laid emphasis on the significance of careful planning for launching the season's Zionists activities in each locality. Other speakers include Simon J. Levin, Simon Land, Mrs. William Saxon, Rose L. Kornblatt and Mrs. John M. Safer.

A youth conference at 10:30 a. m. will usher in activities for the day. It is proposed to organize a Regional Young Judea unit as well as a regional organization of other Zionist youth groups in this section.

Notorious Bad Man Cleared in Murder

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Leon Kraemer, international crook, charged with killing his roommate, Leo Schneider, 35, of St. Louis, was discharged for lack of evidence today in Homicide Court.

Kraemer must complete the balance of a 40-year sentence he was serving for robbery when he escaped from Comstock prison last August.

Kraemer was himself seriously wounded in the shooting in which Schneider lost his life June 8 Still weak, he was transferred from Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance guarded by 12 detectives.

Liberality Seen Should NRA Come to Supreme Court Test

Washington Legal Experts Believe Jurists Would Try to Meet Need.

(Associated Press.)

Opinion is growing among the Capital's legal experts that should the Roosevelt recovery program come to a Supreme Court test that tribunal will endeavor to shape its decision in conformity to the avowed emergency situation the laws were designed to meet.

These experts expect the justices, in disposing of Constitutional questions that may arise, to display a desire to carry out the purpose of Congress and the President, with the public welfare closely in mind.

There is unanimity of opinion there will be no occasion to pass on any phase of the voluntary codes.

Under the Constitutional amendment which guards against taking of private property without compensation, all contracts affected by Federal laws are interpreted.

The opinion is uniform that rights under this amendment may be waived by mutual agreement between the parties to a lawful contract, such as the Presidential agreement.

Legal experts believe any attempt to enforce the licensing provision might be brought to test if the law provides a fine or imprisonment for operation without a license.

A challenge of the licensing provision would confront the court with its decision of March 21, 1932, in which it held invalid an Oklahoma statute requiring those in the ice business to obtain a license.

The court declared "the business of the grocer, the dairyman, the butcher, the baker, the shoemaker or the tailor" was essentially private, adding that it had "definitely said that the production or sale of food or clothing can not be subjected to legislative regulation on the basis of a public use."

300 Federal Employes Working 9 Hours Daily

Approximately 300 workers in the insurance and finance division of the Veterans' Administration are working nine hours a day to meet the pressure of work resulting from recent veterans' legislation, it was learned last night.

Although no new clerks have been taken on, about 75 employes have been called in from outside agencies of the bureau.

Mass Meetings Slated to Study Tobacco Plan

Reduction Program to Be Presented to Growers Next Friday.

Mass meetings in every tobacco county in Virginia next Friday were being arranged last night by the Agriculture Adjustment Administration to line up flue-cured tobacco growers for the 1934-1935 production-control program.

If tobacco production is reduced enough, it was estimated, a 4-cent-a-pound processing tax during the marketing year beginning October 1 will raise crop prices to parity for this and the next two years and produce $10,000,000 to be distributed to participating growers.

Other mass meetings will be held in South Carolina Saturday and North Carolina Monday.

J. B. Hutson, chief of the tobacco section of the Agriculture Administration, expressed gratification at the way growers are preparing for the sign-up campaign to begin Monday.

Immediate action was held necessary because all flue-cured tobacco markets have been closed due to low prices.

Agriculture officials are writing the final draft of the emergency agreement which will be offered to the growers. They expected copies to be mailed to county agriculture agents immediately.

Hoovers Feted At State Fair

Former President Cheered by 30,000 Californians.

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP). Former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover paid a surprise visit to the California State Fair today, viewing the races and inspecting live stock exhibits.

The former President presented gold keys to 18 Future Farmers of America on the platform in front of the grandstand, receiving the ovation of 30,000 persons.

The 18 Future Farmers were all smiles when the former President presented the keys, which signified the highest degree in vocational agriculture. He had a few pleasant words for each.

Mrs. Hoover fold the directors she and Mr. Hoover acted on an impulse in visiting the fair. She said they are enjoying life to the fullest, doing what they wish without restrictions. Since the former President has been out of the White House he has gained 11 pounds, despite the exercise he takes daily.

After leaving the fair grounds, Mr. Hoover motored to the home of Mrs. Lester Hinsdale, widow of a former classmate at Stanford, and made a brief call. Then he and Mrs. Hoover left for their Palo Alto home.

Boy Riding on Wagon Hurt in Auto Crash

Forrest Sedwick, jr., 8, of 5334 Belt road, was cut on the face and body yesterday when the wagon he was riding collided with an automobile at Fourteenth street and Spring road. He was taken to Garfield Hospital.

Mrs. Elias Gelman, of 2649 Woodley road, driver, was not held.

Treasure

Mexico to Show Ancient Archeological Jewels Here.

The famed Monte Alban archeological jewels, exhibited in the Mexican presidential train at a Century of Progress, will visit Washington soon, it was announced last night.

The train will leave Chicago Thursday for St. Louis and on September 17 the train, the baggage car excepted, will return to Mexico, the Associated Press reported.

The baggage car, with the jewel collection and its staff, will stop in Washington and Southern cities.

The jewels, one of the greatest archeological finds of recent years, were unearthed in the State of Oaxaca. It was expected Dr. Alfonso Caso, director of the National Museum of Archaeology of Mexico, will visit Washington.

Shooting Traps Arch Criminal Of Maryland

Jack Hart Recognized by Reporter; Notorious as Jail Breaker.

Betrayed by his fingerprints on file in the Department of Justice, Jack Hart, Maryland arch criminal and jailbreaker, was imprisoned at Cicero, Ill., today with extradition proceedings to return him to Maryland started.

Hart, who twice escaped when serving a life sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary, was arrested in a shooting affair in Cicero, in which there men were wounded. He gave his name as James Kelly.

Identified by Reporter.

His true identity was established yesterday with the aid of a Baltimore newspaperman and the Department of Justice prints. He was confronted by the Baltimore reporter, who recognized him as Hart. The Department of Justice completed identification. His real name is James J. Connelly.

Hart was captured in Washington several months after he shot and killed a Baltimore contractor in a downtown pay-roll robbery. He was sentenced to life imprisonment, but escaped in 1923. A year later he was arrested in Chicago.

Again he was returned to the Maryland Penitentiary. On several occasions he was caught in an attempt to escape and although extra precautions were taken, he succeeded in 1929.

Notorious as Jail Breaker.

Washington police, responsible for his first capture, again took up his trail. Hart, however, went to Chicago.

Data on the prisoner was sent here as a matter of routine, but fingerprint experts in the Bureau of Identification soon found the information corresponded with Hart's record on file since 1922.

It seemed no cell could hold Hart. His last flight was made possible by use of a can opener.

British Unions Rap Dictators

Trade Congress Promises Fight Against Usurpers of Democracy.

Brighton, England, Sept. 7 (AP).—The British Trade Union Congress declared today in a resolution it would "take all possible steps, including the formation of plans for industrial action," in the face of any attempt to establish a dictatorship.

John Bromley, of the General Council, who submitted the motion, urged united action against forces which seek to usurp democracy.

Walter Citrine, congress secretary, declared dictatorship existed in parts of Europe prior to the war. It was new in Germany, he said, but had already come in various forms in Italy, Finland, Jugoslavia and Russia. He declared fascism was busy in Britain. He was equally opposed to labor dictatorship.

Leon Jouhaux, federation president, said President Roosevelt's recovery experiment "is a good one."

He said he hoped it would be possible soon to welcome American comrades into the international federation.

Hitler's Army Pledges Loyalty to Chief

Ulm, Germany, Sept. 7 (AP).—The loyality of the army was pledged today to Chancellor Adolf Hitler by Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense. The Chancellor is attending the maneuvers of the Wurttemberg division of the Reichswehr.

The defense minister said Hitler had restored the Reichswehr to its rightful position under its old colors.

Puerto Ricans Pleased At McLeod's Retention

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 7 (U.P.). Reappointment of Leslie McLeod as auditor of Puerto Rico has been received favorably here.

He was appointed by President Hoover and it is believed his retention by Mr. Roosevelt was due largely to Gov. Robert H. Gore's influence.

Cheatham Funeral Will Be Held Today

Government Worker to Get Military Honor.

Aubrey D. Cheatham, proofreader at the Government Printing Office, who died on September 26, 1932, at his residence, 2124 I street northwest, will be buried at 2:30 this afternoon in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors. His body has been resting in a crypt at Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Born at the Cheatham family home, Norwood, Chesterfield County, Va., Mr. Cheatham was the son of the late Thomas Marcellus Cheatham and Mary J. Dorset Cheatham, grandson of the late Joseph Dorset and greatgrandson of the late Rev. Samuel Dorset, D. D., of Virginia, and Judge John Lewis, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

Mr. Cheatham was a member of the First Congregational Church here and of the Columbia Typographical Union, the Woodmen of the World, and the General Miles Camp of the Spanish-American War Veterans.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fannie Bailie, of Richmond, daughter of Thomas Bailie, editor of the old Richmond newspaper, the Magnolia. Surviving also are two brothers, L. M. Cheatham, of Tampa, Fla., and T. A. Cheatham, of Kansas, and a daughter, Miss Josephine Cheatham, of Richmond.

"Pay $50,000," Cardinal Told

Suspect Seized When He Wanders at Home of Dougherty.

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (AP).—A man who, police said, "talked and acted incoherently," was held by suburban police tonight after he was found wandering aimlessly about the residence of Cardinal Dougherty, who previously received threats demanding $50,000.

The suspect, who said he was Jugo Slazain, from Poland, was identified as the man who has been making "repeated calls" at the archepiscopal offices and at the cardinal's home to demand money which he believed was owed to him by the cardinal or Gov. Pinchot.

Cardinal Dougherty's chauffeur notified police of the man's attempt to get money from the prelate only after he had noticed him about the cardinal's residence, west of the city limits.

Police said they have not learned whether the prisoner is responsible for a letter written to the cardinal demanding money.

Restore Cuts, Chamber Plea To President

Federal Workers Suffer as Prices Go Up, Appeal Says.

Restoration of former pay schedules for Federal employes was asked of President Roosevelt by the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce in resolutions adopted yesterday.

The board pointed out that Government pay cuts are working great hardships in the District at a time when other American cities are commencing to reap the first benefits of the President's reemployment program.

"With prices already on the upgrade, the condition of these workers is bound to become worse rather than better," the resolutions said, "and, as they constitute nearly 40 per cent of all local employment, their decreased purchasing power will make it increasingly difficult for local business firms to live up to their NRA agreements."

The resolution was presented by Harry King, past president of the chamber. Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the chamber, presided.

Board Thanks The Post.

In a letter to Eugene MacLean, general manager of The Washington Post, the directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce yesterday expressed "deep gratification" for The Post's sponsorship of the Fremen's Labor Day celebration.

The letter read:

"At their September meeting today the board of directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce expressed their deep gratification for the splendid Firemen's Labor Day celebration last Monday.

"In this connection attention was called to the fact that the event was sponsored financially by your firm, and the directors voted that their thanks be officially extended to The Washington Post for this splendid service to the City of Washington."

Undernourished Artist Improves in Hospital

Mrs. Ella Hartwell, 88-year-old artist of 1752 Seventeenth street northwest, who was found suffering from lack of nourishment in her home last week, was reported improved at Gallinger Hospital yesterday.

Accumulation of the daily milk supply on her doorstep led neighbors to summon police. She won several prizes at the Corcoran Art Gallery.

The Federal Diary

(Trade-mark Applied For)

By Morgan Baker.

TYPING these lines, we are having a wonderful time on the Marine Roof of Club Michel.

Dancing is in progress. We, the nominees in The Washington Post's Popularity Contest and their guests, have just finished dinner and are enjoying an ideal night—big moon, perfect music, a breeze—on the roof.

During the dinner, Miss Beulah Myles, voted the most popular woman in Government service; Francis O. Panneton, the most popular man, and other prize winners, received their awards.

Miss Geraldine Frost, our feminine helper in the popularity contest, attended the dinner and dance, and was the perfect hostess. Plans for furtherance of projects for the benefit of Government workers were outlined following the dinner.

Walter Scott Kolk, master of ceremonies of Club Michel, proved an invaluable asset in assisting as a host. He is personality plus.

Miss Myles had as guests her sister, Miss Gladys Myles; Rice Terrill, Miss Ruby B. Martin, James F. Fox, William C. Ashford, Miss M. Pearl Hagan, J. M. Griffin, Miss Edith R. George and Thomas J. Murray.

Miss Janet Stevens, winner of second prize, had as guests Donald G. Spencer, Miss Marguerite Allison, Mrs. Guy M. Carlon, Mrs. D. G. Spencer, Miss Ruth Overstreet, Tatum Hudson Thomas and Hal P. Phillips.

Miss Sadie Slutsky, third prize winner, was hostess to her father, Joseph Slutsky, at dinner. Miss Slutsky's guests to the dance came in later.

William E. Mitchell, winner of second prize in the men's division, was accompanied by Miss Catherine S. Fletcher. His guests later in the evening included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dunbar, Miss Corrine Lincourt, Joseph Beneventito, Mrs. Walter S. Mitchell, Walter S. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Moreland, Miss Anna T. Mitchell and Robert Foley.

Karl Gregoire, winner of third prize in the men's division, had as guests Miss Mae A. McIlwee, Facius W. Davis, Miss Marguerite Gregoire, Miss Winniagne Schmidt and Edward Schmidt.

Others attending included Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Toole, Philip Ebert and son, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thompson, Louis Goldsmith, Miss Theresa Marks and Harry Stepakof.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Beeton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lewis, Hiram S. Evans and Miss Irene Garretson.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanley Shoup, Hirst Milhollen and Miss Kitty Moore.

Miss Barbara Davis and Leonard Kaster.

Miss Eleonora Hayden, Charles Rice, Miss Kathleen King, F. F. Finfey, Richard B. Thrift, Miss Roberta Montgomery, Miss Doris Benton and H. B. Hyman.

H. C. Schriver, Miss Lelia Brennan, Mr. and Mrs. Ross F. Heffelfinger were in Mr. Beeton's party.

Albert Griffith and Miss Irene Newman were guests of Mr. Milhollen.

Kenneth Davis, Miss Sallie McKay, L. Kaster, J. Wood and Mrs. Esther Wood were in Miss Barbara Davis' party.

Nathaniel Markfield, Miss Margaret Kushelevesky, Miss Anna Samat, Theodore Samat, Miss Theresa Marks were guests of Mr. Stepakof.

Mr. Purtell was host to Miss Purtell, Miss Nellie Holmead and B. L. Richter.

With Thomas F. Valenza were Miss Ethel Laser, Miss Delmar E. Webb, Miss Lillian Sprague, Fred Denniston and Miss Irene Ulans.

David Crenshaw and Mrs. Verde Crenshaw, Henry Snyder, Miss Ruth Saltzman, Burton Kirby and Miss Bernadine Rasmussen were guests at the dance on the Marine roof.

Many others arrived later. A complete list of each of the honorees and members of their parties will appear tomorrow.

The Victor.

Here's to the girl who showed that she
Was full of personality;
Whose Nordic poise and dignity
Have earned her popularity.

A face to earn an artist's praise;
Her hair just full of golden rays,
And, crowning both, the sweetest smiles.
We all salute—Miss Beulah Myles.

IT takes a bad case of rabies for a man to break into news after a dog has bitten him, so goes the old newspaper adage.

However, when three police dogs chased the automobile of Robert T. Frank, Civil Service, nearly a mile after Frank had narrowly missed their owner, we feel like yelling "Wuxtra!" in the feature column on natural history.

The question arises: Is it better to have a pair of heels barking at a trio of dogs, or a trio of dogs barking at a pair of heels?

Canada Plans to Avoid Another Wheat Slump

Ottawa, Sept. 7 (AP).—The government is understood to have before it a proposal to continue its support of the wheat market should there be danger of a slump in prices when the new crop arrives at the elevators.

Last year the government gave financial backing to Canadian Co-operative Wheat Growers, Ltd., to enable hedging operations.

Sugar Quota Code Pushed By Roosevelt

Compromise Agreement Is Sought in Marketing Controversy.

Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday studied the proposed sugar stabilization agreement in an effort to compromise the long delayed pact.

After a review of the situation at a conference with Cabinet officers and Farm and Tariff Commission officials, the President designated Dr. John Lee Coulter to transmit new proposals to the contending factions.

Coulter, a Tariff Commission member, was borrowed by the Farm Adjustment Administration when the sugar marketing agreement was first suggested.

6,575,000 Tons Allotted.

He participated in the conference with the President; others were Secretaries Hull, Wallace, Dern and Ickes, Jefferson Caffrey, Assistant Secretary of State and Ambassador designate to Cuba; George N. Peek, administrator of the farm act, and Charles J. Brand, coadministrator.

The parley revolved around the proposed quota that each producing group be allowed to supply the domestic market. The entire allotment would be 6,575,000 tons yearly.

Cuba Objects.

Cuba would be allowed to supply 1,700,000 tons annually; the domestic beet producers, 1,750,000; Hawaii, 975,000; the Philippines, 955,920; Puerto Rico, 875,000; Virgin Islands, 9,080; Louisiana, 250,000, and Florida, 60,000.

The Philippines and Cuba object to that arrangement. The former wants a minimum of 1,200,000 tons annually and Cuba at least 2,000,000 tons.

Plane Feared Down in Lake

Autogyro Missing Near Chicago; Three May Be Dead.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Belief that an autogyro, piloted by H. E. "Spud" Manning and carrying one or two passengers, had fallen in Lake Michigan was strengthened tonight by a report that canvas was seen drifting in the water.

Coast Guard crews searched between here and Michigan City, Ind. The steamer Theodore Roosevelt reported seeing canvas in the lake near Chicago earlier today and expressed the belief it was from a plane.

Manning, holder of the world's record for delayed parachute jumping, left South Bend yesterday for Chicago. He was accompanied by Charles Otto, another pilot. Reports said a girl also was in the autogyro.

A youth swimming in the lake near Michigan City reported seeing what he believed an autogyro flying off shore at a low altitude yesterday. Manning's friends here expressed fear that the craft ran out of gasoline.

U. S. Pays $500,000 For Hogs in Midwest

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 7 (AP).—More than $500,000 has been paid by the Government to farmers in Missouri and southern Illinois for hogs during the nine days the premium market has been conducted at national stockyards.

About 4,000 farmers have shared in the sum distributed. Applications to sell more than 500,000 hogs have been received.

Pegler Gives A Few Ideas To Showgirl

How to Get Publicity? Annabelle, There's Nothing to It.

By Westbrook Pegler.

New York, Sept. 7 (Spl.).—Miss Annabelle Williams, actress, writes she could use a little publicity as she is about to open in a New York show.

"How do you go about getting it?" Miss Williams inquires, and I am very glad she came to me because this seems to be my opportunity to do my good deed for today.

Miss Williams, I will just assume you want your name and picture in the papers. So I will deal in general suggestions. I will have to assume, also, that you can score at least 70 in the matter of looks. You know what I mean by looks. Over in the long-word department where they write the editorials about chauvinism and sycophancy they call looks pulchritude, but we are simple and homespun and we just call looks looks.

Needn't Be Beautiful.

You needn't be beautiful, Miss Williams, although that wouldn't hurt when you begin to get publicity. Some of the most famous moving picture ladies when observed by the naked eye look as though they had muslin skins stretched over sawdust.

Miss Williams, do you think you could manage to smoke an underslung pipe and holler "hell-an'-Maria" now and again? That would be one way.

Now, if any of the suggestions which I offer should conflict with your sense of propriety, or your matrimonial commitments, if any, you are at liberty to throw them out.

You could arrive in New York, buoyant and beaming, fresh from your latest movie in Hollywood and eager for a good, long rest in your villa at Nice. That is in France. And piquantly evasive about divorce rumors.

Just Make Believe.

I don't mean you have to go to Hollywood and get into the pictures and come back to get publicity. You only ride to Yonkers and get one of the trains and come into Grand Central.

Photographers will be there. Then you stand in the vestibule where the sign says "'Watch your step!" and split your face in one of those publicity smiles and wave at nobody who isn't coming down to greet you.

You need orchids, but you needn't go to any great expense. Porters rent them for $1 per arrival.

This is none of my personal business, Misss Williams, but what type are you? Dreamy, dramatic, hoydenish, comic-fat or what? Because that makes a lot of difference in the picture. If you are an art actress it wouldn't do to hop up on a load of drummers' sample cases and skin up your skirt, as you might do if you were hoydenish for a picture to run over the cut-line:

"Miss Annabelle Williams hoydenish movie beauty, arrives from Hollywood triumph with some of her 85 trunks, 62 suit cases and quart of Scotch."

If you are comic-fat you push the truckload of trunks, with your hat and a string of hair down over your eyes, and your face all pursed up, saying, "Phew!"

And the dreamy or dramatic type would lean against the door of the Pullman vestibule in a faint attitude with the orbs rolled upward showing a lot of white and the long, tapering tendrils of the fingers gently laid upon the bosom. You need a dark dress for this one.

Are you squeamish about clothes? Because there has been a girl out in Chicago, at the Century of Progress, who would be worth, I should say, about 20 cents an hour for a five-hour day, dancing with her clothes on, who has made a national reputation for herself dancing light.

Well, I could go on and on, Miss Williams, but time is short and please excuse pencil. But you consider these ideas and if none of them seems suitable I will think of some others.

Don't disregard that underslung pipe and that "hell-an'-maria." Suppose the pipe does make you sick. How many other people do you think got sick of that pipe?

War Hospital Used to Solve Sleeping Sickness Mystery

Army's Medical Experts Unpack Mosquitoes, Monkeys and Rabbits.

St. Louis, Sept. 7 (AP).—"Pitching camp" in a battered hospital building of World War days, Army medical experts today unpacked "purebred" mosquitoes, monkeys and rabbits and joined science's efforts to solve the mystery of "sleeping sickness."

Maj. James A. Simmons said he was taking "a long shot" in an effort to hook up a study of encephalitis with other Army investigations of equine encelphalomyelitis and herpes-encephalitis.

More Deaths Occur.

Five more deaths from encephalitis occurred as the new experts joined a laboratory chain spreading throughout the Greater St. Louis area. This brought the death toll here to 86.

Far from the city the Army experts, led by Maj. Simmons, director of laboratories of the Army Medical School, Washington, and Maj. V. H. Cornell, curator of the Army medical museum, began their studies.

In a previously abandoned frame hospital building at Jefferson Barracks rabbits nibbled at their lunch. Ten thousand adult mosquitoes, nurtured for eight years, swarmed in a meshed inclosure. Twenty thousand larvae and 5,000 eggs were not far away. A dozen monkeys peered from cages.

Tells of Experiments.

Maj. Simmons said Maj. R. A. Kelser, also of the Army Medical School, recently succeeded in transmitting the virus of equine encephalomyelitis.

Epidemics of the disease, comparable in many ways with the current St. Louis outbreak, have occurred among horses in California and Texas.

Other experiments recently made at the Army Medical School indicated it might be possible to transmit the virus of herpes-encephalitis from rabbit to rabbit through mosquitoes. This disease also somewhat resembles the St. Louis epidemic.

Bands Liked

72,000 in Audience at 39 Concerts This Year, Averaging 1,846.

Audiences aggregating 72,000 heard band concerts in Washington parks this summer, Frank T. Gartside, acting superintendent of the National Capital Parks, announced yesterday.

The Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Community Civic Bands played 39 concerts to an average attendance of 1,846. There were 82 concerts scheduled last year and 52 this year, of which 13 were canceled because of rain or other causes. The smaller schedule was due to a decreased appropriation.

Welfare Body To Meet Today In White House

President and First Lady to Address Social Workers.

Two meetings at the White House this morning will open a two-day conference of the 1933 mobilization for human needs. Newton D. Baker is chairman. President Roosevelt will speak at the first meeting, to open at 10 o'clock. A meeting of the National Woman's Committee, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is chairman, will follow. Mr. Baker will respond to the President's address.

Other meetings, including a luncheon, an afternoon session and a dinner, will be held at the Mayflower Hotel. Speakers at the luncheon will be John Stewart Bryan, former president of the Newspaper Publishers Association and president of the Community Chests and Councils, and Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Mr. Baker, Mortimer Fleishhacker and Judge Morgan O'Brien will speak at the dinner. At the afternoon session Vance C. McCormick, of Harrisburg, Pa.; John B. Dawson, of New Haven, Conn., and Mrs. Guy W. Mallon, of Cincinnati, Ohio, will speak. Mrs. Roosevelt will introduce Mrs. Mallon.

This is the third annual conference. It was inaugurated in 1931 to aid social work groups in their fight against the depression. Thirty-four national welfare agencies are cooperating in the conference.

C. C. C. Saves City $20,000

Relief Head Says Forest Camps Cut Charity Expenses.

The reforestation movement has reduced unemployment relief costs in Washington by $20,000 per month, L. A. Halbert, supervisor of emergency relief told Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, yesterday.

Halbert reported 1,016 Washington men were enrolled and that 320 have been discharged to take other jobs or for disciplinary reasons. Each of the men sent a part of his pay home, reducing District relief bills by $12,682 per month. A number of men not on charity lists were enrolled, keeping their families from applying for aid, and making up the rest of the saving.

"The sending of the boys to camp probably reduced our relief load by $10,000 a month on the families that were actually on relief and prevented about an equal amount for families that were on the verge of relief at that time," Halbert said.

Money sent home by the reforestation workers aids 3,780 dependent persons in 1,016 families. Of the men enrolled, 545 would shortly have been on relief rolls, and 471 were on the rolls at the time.

Kentucky to Vote On Repeal Nov. 7

Bill Provides Delegates Shall Be Unpledged.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 7 (AP).—The bill providing for Kentucky to vote November 7 on repeal of the eighteenth amendment was signed today by Gov. Ruby Laffoon.

It provides that 19 delegates, chosen by State-wide vote, shall meet in convention here November 27 to formally pass upon the amendment.

The delegates will be chosen by petition, three from Jefferson County, Louisville, and two each from the other eight Congressional Districts.

They will be unpledged, to avoid any chance of the convention being unconstitutional in that the convention would not be a deliberative body, but repealists offered no objection to that feature.

Gompers Dedication Plans Are Completed

On asking President Roosevelt to make the principal address at the unveiling of a memorial to the late Samuel Gompers at Eleventh and Massachusetts avenue northwest, the American Federation of Labor will have completed plans for its dedicatory exercises on October 7.

The Gompers statue has been finished for several months, but decision for formal dedication was not reached until Wednesday when the executive council met with President William Green.

Alien School's Beer Rule Void

Court Holds That License Requirements Do Not Apply in Case.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday ordered the District Commissioners to issue an on-sale beer license to William A. Rowe, who had been refused a license because his restaurant at 801 Tenth street northwest, was within 200 feet of the Americanization School.

Rowe contended that more than 85 per cent of the school's pupils were above the age of 18 and that for that reason the usual rules did not apply. Justice Adkins held that such an interpretation of the law was reasonable. Syme & Syme represented Rowe.

The school is conducted for aliens seeking naturalization.

Pedestrian Hit by Auto.

Mrs. Ruth Weber, 25, of 5815 Fifteenth street northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile as she stepped from a street car at Fourteenth and Irving streets northwest. Luella Penrod, 24, of Somerset, Pa., driver of the car, was not held.

Ritchie Claims Wet Victory By Big Margin

Drys Refuse Predictions on September 12 Result, But Are Hopeful.

Baltimore, Sept. 7 (AP).—Maryland's vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment September 12 is approaching with no excitement, a minimum of oratory, and antiprohibitionists confident.

Even the stanchest of drys do not predict victory, and repealists are centering efforts to pile up a big majority.

The public is somewhat apathetic, as was evidenced by a recent repeal "mass meeting" in Baltimore, when many of the State's political leaders, including Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore, were on the speakers' platform. Approximately 150 attended the meeting.

Ritchie Confident.

However, Gov. Ritchie predicted that "Maryland will vote for repeal by an overwhelming majority." On the other hand, George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Maryland Antisaloon League, said, "We predict that the press and the public generally will be surprised by a much larger dry vote than they expect."

The chief feature of the repealist campaign has been the formation of a giant committee, headed by Gov. Ritchie. The total membership is 464.

An effort has been made by the antiprohibitionists to stress the idea that repeal is not a partisan issue and some leading Republicans are on the repeal committee.

This nonpartisan idea is carried still further in the rally slated for September 11. The Young People's Democratic League of Maryland is sponsoring it, but officials of the Young Republican League and Republican leaders have been invited.

Drys Holding Conferences.

The dry campaign, according to Crabbe, has consisted chiefly of "conferences and group meetings" throughout the State.

Commenting on the apparent lack of interest in the campaign, Gov. Ritchie said:

"Though there may appear to be some apathy in that the people are not attending repeal meetings, the reason is that they have already made up their minds that they will vote for repeal, and that's all there is to it."

The vote September 12 is for delegates to a State convention to act on the twenty-first amendment.

Farley Urges Aid for Repeal

Tells Virginia He Wants Victory at Polls to Be Overwhelming.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Postmaster General Farley today asked Virginians, regardless of political affiliations, to express their opposition to prohibition in the State referendum October 3.

"You, of Virginia, have an especial responsibility in this contest," he said. "Everything on which your traditions are based, everything in which your political faith and ideals are grounded, calls to you to vote for repeal and repair the wrong which the eighteenth amendment has worked on our most sacred institutions."

Speaking at a luncheon given in his honor here Farley said there was no doubt in his mind as to what the outcome would be in Virginia's special election, but added he was especially anxious "that the result shall be so overwhelming that it will truly reflect the sentiment of all the voters of your State."

"Sniping" Untrue, Police Annoyed

More Unfounded Reports in Prince Georges.

Unfounded reports of "sniping" in woods sections around Lanham and Seabrook last night had reached "annoying" proportions, Prince Georges County police reported.

Apparently inspired by the scare started in Lanham when four children were supposed to have been fired on by men with rifles, residents of the districts have poured reports in to the police, they said. None were found to be genuine.

Police said Mrs. Robert Cook, mother of three of the children said to have been fired upon, told them her son John yesterday saw one of the men who did the firing. The authorities were unable to substantiate this.

Two Held by Police After Car Smash-Up

Pair Charged as Reckless Drivers Post Bond.

Montgomery County police yesterday charged drivers of two cars which crashed on the East-West highway near Sixteenth street with reckless driving.

The drivers, Harry Light, 1471 Irving street northwest, and Dr. Frank Govern, Georgetown Hospital interne, were released on bond.

The two men and Jane Prince, 5911 Sixteenth street northwest; Gladys Dodd, 623 Hamilton street northwest, and Elizabeth Gladman, 1332 Fairmont street northwest, were injured.

James Cavanaugh and Leo Donovan, said by police also to be Georgetown Hospital internes, and Frances Pearl escaped injury in the smash. The cars were demolished.

Hessian Fly Crop Menace Feared in Virginia, Maryland

Fall Wheat Growers Told to Use All Known Precautions.

Wheat farmers in Maryland and Virginia were warned by the Agriculture Department yesterday to expect the Hessian fly menace in their early fall plantings if the weather is favorable to the insect.

Although hot, dry weather caused less prevalence than usual of the fly in most sections of the wheat belt, serious losses in the 1933 crop were caused by it in Maryland, Virginia, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Michigan, Ohio, Tennesse and Pennsylvania.

While peril exists in central Maryand western Virginia this fall, it was said, there seems little danger of general infestation in the rest of the wheat belt, including eastern Maryland, Delaware, eastern Virginia, North Carolina and Pennsylvania.

The best ways to combat it, the department announced, are: Sow the wheat during the fly-free period, practice crop rotation, plow under all infested stubble promptly, destory all volunteer wheat, plow all land to be sown as early as possible, prepare a good seed bed, conserve moisture, use good seed and fertilize.

Hunt for Assailant Of Woman Balked

Failing to obtain any information in the arrest here yesterday of Margaret Washington, colored, police last night admittedly were in a quandary as to their next move to arrest the colored man who beat Mrs. Suzanne Kuehn at her Accokeek, Md., home last Saturday.

It was believed the colored woman could furnish information as to the whereabouts of the man sought, but police said they apparently had a "wrong" lead. After questioning she was released.

Happy Pier Party Greets Sons Of Two Famous Roosevelts

First Lady and Widow of "T. R." at Reunion as Liner Docks.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—A young scion of the Democratic "first family" and a son of the "T. R." of "Big Stick" Republican fame brought together today 15 assorted Roosevelts in hurly-burly, happy greeting.

On the sun-soaked deck of an ocean liner, Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., expressed mutual admiration while distant cousins swapped "How do you do's."

The President's son was returning from a European trip, while the Republican Roosevelt was en route home from the Philippine Islands, where he was governor until last March.

First Lady Unnoticed.

On the dock to greet her son was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who stood for some time unrecognized among the crowd with her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall.

On hand, too, was Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former President, to greet Theodore, jr., her son.

Roosevelt smiles and greetings that probably would have made T. R. yell "bully" with delight broke all over the place.

Mrs. Roosevelt rushed to her son, Franklin, then greeted warmly the widow of the former President, while various other Roosevelts joined in greetings all around.

Family Friction Denied.

A little old lady passenger wanted to know if it wasn't true that the two families never spoke.

Politely, Franklin D., jr., assured her that was "all a lot of nonsense," and added:

"We aren't that way at all. I think the colonel is a mighty nice man. We played games together and talked together and all that sort of thing."

U. S. Road Loan For Arlington Not Necessary

Anderson Points to Good Condition of State Highway Fund.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County residents should not worry over the Byrd road plan and possibility of losing money unless they adopt the plan, in the opinion of Robert N. A. Anderson, president of the Arlington County Civic Federation.

Anderson said he had learned no immediate action toward borrowing $12,000,000 from the Federal Government for highway building was contemplated by the State. Authorization for borrowing that amount was given in an act adopted at a recent session of the State Assembly.

Finance Improved.

Reports from the State highway department indicate it is in better financial condition than earlier in the year, having about $18,000,000, including the Federal road allotment of $7,400,000, available for maintenance and construction during the remainder of this fiscal year. Hence there is no necessity for the $12,000,000 Federal loan.

"In view of such a condition," Anderson said, "it is obvious Arlington will have ample time to decide its course of action and in event the State does not borrow the $12,000,000 citizens will be relieved of the necessity of deciding about entering the Byrd road plan."

Civic Federation Active.

In the meantime the special committee of the Civic Federation is preparing data to support its request for the State to take care of the idle in the county with road-construction allowances.

Since there are 30 miles of primary State highways in the county the federation believes the county need not enter the Byrd road plan to be eligible for allotments, and it will receive its full share of unemployment relief through such allotments.

County Buries Aged Wanderer

Relatives of 82-Year-Old Man Refuse Expenses.

Relatives of Frank Bortz, 82-year-old wanderer, who died a week ago while resting beside the Lay Mill road near Lay Mill, Md., have disclaimed responsibility for burial and Montgomery County will bear the expense. A telegram from George Bortz, brother of the dead man, sent from Wauchula, Fla., was received yesterday by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley, of Rockville.

A second wife of Bortz, who resides in Malvern, Ohio, notified police that she had been divorced from him three days before his death.

The body has been kept at the funeral home of Warner E. Pumphrey at Rockville since the man's death.

Although no money was found on his person, bank books and letters showed he owned several thousands of dollars.

County Welfare League Elects New Secretary

Mrs. Virginia Lee Bennett, former case supervisor, has been elected executive secretary of the Montgomery County Social Service League, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Bennett has been acting as secretary since Miss Willie Green Day resigned to marry Walter E. Perry, of Bethesda.

Futile Swim

Dive Into Potomac Makes Police Suspicious, So They Nab Posey.

It was Preston Posey's own fault that he swam a half-mile in the Potomac River to avoid police, but he was arrested anyway.

Posey, of Glebe road, Alexandria, was on an Alexandria wharf yesterday when Policemen Townsend and Miller approached. Posey took one look at the guardians of the law, who didn't happen to be concerned about him, and jumped into the river.

That drew their attention. They were further interested when Posey swam wildly away down the river.

Townsend commandered a rowboat, chased Posey a half mile and hauled him out. He was booked for investigation.

4,000 Register In Alexandria Public Schools

First Day's Total Believed to Forecast Number Above Last Year.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria public schools opend yesterday with an enrollment of approximately 4,000. This is considered large and indications are the total will reach 4,300 by the end of the week. Lessons were assigned. Studies will begin today.

Registration last year was 5,125 and, according to Supt. T. C. Williams, who says that number probably will be exceeded this year.

75 Beer Licenses Issued.

Roger C. Sullivan, Alexandria city treasurer, stated yesterday he has issued 75 State licenses to sell beer, 68 of which were retail, at $5 each, and 7 wholesale, at $25 each.

City Collector Purvis Taylor had issued 61 licenses, 49 "on sale," 7 "off sale," and 5 wholesale. These permits expire December 31, 1933, and the fee is one-third of the amount for the full year.

All city licenses must be approved by the corporation court and registered by the commissioner of revenue.

Man Held on Theft Charge.

Albert Shiflett, 29, was held for the grand jury following arraignment in police court yesterday on a charge of burglary. Police allege Shiflett entered the home of A. L. Stack, 418 Franklin street, the night of September 3, although nothing was missing.

Shiflet also is alleged to have resisted arrest, striking Policeman Hawes and biting Policeman Stover. He was given a 60-day jail sentence on this charge.

210 Codes in Alexandria.

Dan S. Hollenga, chamber of commerce business manager and NRA representative, has received approximately 210 codes to date, covering various kinds of business and industry.

Mr. Hollenga stated yesterday that in none of these codes is there any restriction of operating hours. Uniform hours were adopted by the retail grocers.

Grand Jury Summoned.

A grand jury has been summoned to meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morninng in the Alexandria Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woolls, presiding. Jurors include Edmund F. Ticer, Joseph Hayman, William J. Boothe, J. Owen Lynch, T. Clifton Howard, O. H. Kirk and Mauchlin Nivin.

Police to Probe Death in Crash

Capital Persons Injured in Martinsburg Will Be Questioned Here.

Three surviving Washingtonians who wrecked an allegedly stolen automobile at Martinsburg, W. Va., Wednesday, will be returned here for questioning. Detective Sergt. Hugh Robey, of the automobile squad, has gone to return the trio.

Robert L. Dodson, 23, of 466 E street southwest, who was killed in the crash, is said to have told others in the party he borrowed the car. Police claim, however, it was stolen Saturday night.

Members of the party injured were Mrs. Irma Turner Chernault, Virginia Highlands; Charles Kennedy, 23, of 459 E street southwest, and Daniel Fitzpatrick, address unlisted.

The automobile crashed head-on into one driven by Robert Wellinger, of Martinsburg.

Dodson's body was returned to Washington for burial.

Fish-Raising Pond Planned by League

Izaak Walton Club Will Use Stone Quarry.

A trout-raising pond will be operated on the Stone Quarry Farm this fall by the Montgomery County Izaak Walton League, the organization announced.

Work will be started on the pond immediately. Brown trout obtained from the United States Bureau of Fisheries will be raised.

The league will ask permission to use the C. & O. Canal basin at Seneca as a raising and holding pond for black bass.

Pollard Signs 16 More Bills Making Laws

Enactment of Works Plan Rounds Out Program of Special Session.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7 (AP).—Sixteen acts of the recent special Assembly session became law today as Gov. Pollard signed them.

Among those signed were bills allowing counties which had voted out of the Byrd secondary road system to reenter; increasing public utility assessments for investigations; major public works bill; Hall bill eliminating duplication in indictment fees for Commonwealth's attorneys; Page fee bill abolishing special prohibition case fees after February 15; bill setting up a dark fired tobacco grading system, and Page bill repealing parts of Layman act providing prohibition fees should defray enforcement costs instead of going entirely into the literary fund which already had been declared unconstitutional. Also there were several local measures.

Enactment of the public works bill enabling counties, cities and towns to secure fuller benefits of the national recovery act, almost rounded out the program of beer legalization, repeal machinery and public works legislation for which the session was called.

Previously the governor signed the Hall bill legalizing 3.2 beer, the Holt bill setting October 3 for a referendum on national prohibition, and the Staples Eggleston bill, for a referendum on State prohibition on the same date, and setting up a commission to study liquor control.

Local bills signed today included those declaring the Richmond county courthouse square part of magisterial districts; naming the John Marshall highway; authorizing the highway commission to relocate part of route 236 in Arlington County, and repealing the charter of the Town of Independence in Grayson County.

Bankers' Views On Deposit Insurance.

Last Wednesday the American Bankers Association meeting in convention at Chicago passed a resolution urging President Roosevelt to postpone inauguration of the temporary deposit insurance system which comes into effect on January 1 under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall banking act. Under this law until July, 1934, when the permanent system is to be established, 100 per cent insurance of deposits amounting to $2,500 or less is provided for all banks that can qualify for participation in the insurance plan and are prepared to contribute to the general guaranty fund.

Objections to the system of deposit guaranty expressed at Chicago were both general and specific in character. Some speakers voiced opposition in principle to any form of general guaranty of deposits on the ground that deposit insurance causes the public to consider one bank as being quite as good as another. As a result, encouragement is given to reckless and dishonest practices, and eventually the strong, conservatively managed banks have to pay for the indiscretions of bad management. In support of these familiar criticisms, the unfortunate outcome of State experiments with systems of deposit guaranty were cited.

Quite apart from such general reasons for opposing deposit guaranty, however, the bankers have been more immediately concerned with the specific provisions of the Glass-Steagall act. The appeal to the President deals entirely with their reasons for asking for delay in putting the temporary system into effect at the beginning of the year. Their arguments in favor of postponement should be weighed by advocates as well as opponents of deposit guaranty systems, since the bankers deal with facts and do not attempt to pass judgment on the merits of deposit insurance in general.

The law provides, for example, that banks applying for participation in the deposit guaranty plan shall be subjected to a thorough examination to determine whether or not their assets are adequate to meet all liabilities to depositors and other creditors. A rigorous adherence to these provisions of the law would, according to the resolution passed by the bankers' association, "result in the suspension or liquidation of some thousands of banks" and "would entail new losses and new credit deflation that would unsettle business and impair the prospects of recovery."

Not only do the bankers fear that disaster would overtake many licensed banks which are gradually strengthening their position, but they fear also that the 2,700 or more banks operating on a restricted basis would have to be reorganized to qualify for deposit insurance or else be forced to suspend entirely.

Furthermore, the bankers protest that the time limit set for initiation of the plan is too short to permit of the sort of searching examination of assets required. "I do not need to tell you how long it takes to examine 8,000 banks," said one of the convention speakers, referring to the unrestricted banks which are not members of the Reserve system. "We know," he continued, "that it cannot be done properly in four months or six months without a vast army of examiners and supervisors."

Even if Congress should prove to be adamant in its determination to establish a general system of deposit guaranty along the lines of the new legislation, it presumably desires to have the system established in accordance with its own prescribed rules and under conditions favorable to its successful functioning. The bankers believe that honest compliance with the terms of the act would in the present stage of banking recovery defeat the purpose of Congress to restore confidence in the country's banking system and to add to existing banking facilities. They fear that the pressure upon the banks to maintain a high degree of liquidity in order to qualify for participation in the guaranty plan, together with the inability of many banks to qualify at all, would tend to destroy confidence in banks and restrict banking activities.

A New Jersey Canal.

A ship canal to connect the Delaware and Raritan Rivers and save water distance between Philadelphia and New York by 200 miles is a project that has just been proposed by Col. Edward D. Ardery, United States Army Engineer stationed in New York. This short cut across New Jersey would start from a point below New Brunswick on the Raritan and join the Delaware below Trenton.

The connecting link of canal would complete an almost straight-line waterway between Philadelphia and New York harbor. At present ships from Philadelphia must proceed down the Delaware to Delaware Bay and round Cape May, there to begin a trip on the Atlantic that is twice as great as the direct distance between the two cities.

The 30-mile link would complete the inland waterway routes between Maine and Florida. The canal would be a costly undertaking, as it would have to be excavated for the entire distance, there being no intervening lakes or watercourses. It is estimated that it would cost $173,000,000 and require from eight to ten years for construction. Engineers estimate that 40,000 men would find employment in the building of the canal and that the undertaking would result in 30,000 new homes being built and some 150,000 persons added to the population in the districts along the route.

Arms Reduction Prospects.

Thirty days ago it seemed possible that disarmament conversations at Geneva, preliminary to the resumption of the conference next month, might result in an understanding conducive of progress. Now the European situation is beclouded by the controversy between Germany and Austria. Chancellor Hitler's provocative policy has stirred the apprehensions of all governments.

As matters now stand, the French proposal for supervision of armaments seems to be fading from the picture, not because of opposition by the powers, other than Germany, but because conditions apparently will not permit of adoption of the plan at this time. If Chancellor Hitler should fail to co-operate in the supervision plan it probably would have to be abandoned. And his co-operation is hardly to be looked for unless it is his intention to change his present tactics.

An intimation comes from London that Ambassador Davis will concur in the supervision plan only if extensive reduction of offensive weapons is assured at the end of the supervision period. Mr. Davis is represented as feeling that it would be a grave mistake if the United States should agree to permit inspection of its arms if the possibility of an armament race would follow.

Herr Hitler's Reichstag speech last spring afforded some hope that Germany would co-operate with other nations in an earnest effort to reach an agreement on limitation of armaments. His subsequent policy, unfortunately, has destroyed the effect of that speech. The nations are anxiously watching the trend of events. If France should invoke the right to make an inspection of Hitler's military organizations it would be idle, of course, to expect results from the forthcoming disarmament conference. But even if this action should not be taken, the uncertainty surrounding Hitler's intentions makes it doubtful that the other powers will consider seriously at this time proposals looking to eventual reduction or limitation of armaments.

Delays on Public Works.

The delays encountered in presenting State and municipal projects for approval by the Federal Public Works Administration have been the subject of unfavorable comment, but those who appreciate the many difficulties in the way of speedy initiation of such work are not surprised that results are not instantaneous. The experiences of other countries, such as Great Britain and Germany, indicate that public works programs have a way of disappointing hopes that they will speedily provide a large outlet for unemployed workers.

British experience has been so disillusioning that the present government, despite rather feeble protests to the contrary, seems to be extremely skeptical of the value of public works expenditures as a means of providing employment or stimulating business activity. Germany likewise has encountered disappointment and delay in the carrying out of public works plans. Over a period of more than a year, for example, it is stated that public funds in excess of 3,400,000,000 marks, excluding credits to agriculture, have been voted to finance unemployment relief works. It has been estimated that this sum ought to provide work for 4,000,000 men. To date, however, the increase in numbers employed is between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 workers, and a good part of that increase is seasonal in character. Meanwhile, about one-tenth of a grant of 600,000,000 marks, voted about nine months ago for the purpose of putting men immediately to work, has been spent. Other relief subsidies of lesser amount provided before the Hitler government came into power likewise have been inadequately utilized.

The main difficulty is common to all such undertakings—that is, speed is not compatible with careful scrutiny of proposed plans and conscientious preparation for their execution. Then, too, the amount of employment provided on public works projects is apt to be relatively limited in comparison with the total amount of the capital outlay, while it is sheer guesswork to try to determine the indirect employment provided through increased demand for materials and supplies.

"Science Not to Blame."

Sir Frederick Gowland Hopkins, addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science, holds that applied science should take no blame for the paradox of poverty amid plenty and the replacement of human labor by machinery. "It is not within my capacity," he remarks, "to say anything about the paradox and its cure, but I confess that I see more present danger in the case of 'money versus man' than danger present or future in that of the 'machine versus man.' It is surely right that those in touch with science should insist that it will continue. It need not involve a revolutionary change if there is real planning for the future. No one can say what kind of equilibrium the distribution of leisure is fated to reach. In any case an optimistic view as to the probable effects of its increase may be justified."

The "paradox of poverty amid plenty" might be charged against the use of machinery if other and more obvious causes were absent. But the mind does not accept the theory that world economic disorder occurred all of a sudden because of the displacement of human labor by machinery. The substitution of machinery for muscle has been going on for more than a century, and careful studies reveal that more human labor is employed because of machinery than is displaced by it. Labor must make the machinery that saves human toil, and still more employment is furnished in the distribution of machine output and in human transportation made available by machinery.

If civilization is not to return to a primitive state in which every household strives to produce what it consumes, from clothing and furniture to food, machinery must be employed. By means of machinery the system of exchange of services is perfected, with benefit to all workers and all consumers. The gradual reduction of hours of labor would be impossible if labor-saving machinery were to be exterminated as guilty of all recent economic woes. Mankind is enjoying some emancipation from killing toil. It will not go back to the sixteen-hour day and the seven-day week of hand labor, which barely yielded enough to keep soul and body together.

Sir Frederick Hopkins leaves the inference that, if a square deal can be enforced between men, the problem of distribution of leisure will take care of itself. The individual, of course, must determine how he shall employ his leisure. Governments will have their hands full in establishing the square deal, without undertaking to map out for the individual what he shall do in his spare time.

Viscount Grey.

The death of Viscount Grey marks the passing of one of the memorable figures of the world war. As Secretary for Foreign Affairs he spoke the fateful word that carried England into the conflict. Because of this many Germans never forgave him. He was reproached for not having let it be known, until Germany had actually declared war, that England was going to march with the Allies. Apparently Germany hoped to the last that England would stay out of the dispute.

Sir Edward Grey, as he was then called, could not have committed the British to war until the overt act of the invasion of Belgium occurred. The position of Parliament in the situation could not have been defined even if Grey had so desired it. In any event, it seems ridiculous that the Germans could have imagined that the English would have stood supinely by while they marched through Belgium to the hoped-for early conquest of France and the control of the continental coast opposite the English shore.

The long and useful career of Viscount Grey in British politics typifies the best traditions of British aristocracy. Financially independent, he devoted his life to arduous political service. Like many British gentlemen he was a sport and nature enthusiast. Twice he was national tennis champion. He wrote a book on angling. Another on Wordsworth—the poet of nature. Still another on birds.

In the quiet retreat of his ancestral home, Fallodon, he passed the last ten years of his life, having retired from public life in 1923. On the banks of favorite streams he devoted himself to the rod, viewed in sober retrospect the greatest war of civilization in which he had played such a leading role, and emerged at times to speak eloquently in behalf of world peace.

Crime as Interstate Business.

From the Kansas City Times.

In the present discussion of crime in the United States much has been said about the interstate activities of certain criminals, but surprisingly little attention has been paid to a fundamental weakness in the American system of law enforcement that protects, if it does not actually encourage, such activities. This weakness is the natural result of a system of State jurisdictions that was set up in this country long before crime had become industrialized and begun to operate commonly across State lines. And until it is corrected, society will continue to be more or less at the mercy of the criminal who prudently commits his crimes in various States.

The situation can be illustrated very simply. A criminal is arrested in some State. He is wanted in several other States for different crimes. If no charge is pending against him in the State where he has been arrested, he may be extradited and sent to some State where there is a charge. But—and this is where the existing system is glaringly defective—once he has been tried and sentenced in one State, the criminal can not be tried in any other State until he has served his first sentence, unless the governor of the State having jurisdiction deliberately pardons him for that purpose.

The result often is that by the time the criminal is released from the penitentiary of the first State to try him, the cases against him in all the other States are "cold," because evidence and witnesses have disappeared in the interval, and in practice, although the charges technically may still pend against him, he frequently escapes punishment for a whole series of offenses.

The basic inconsistency of the existing system is demonstrated by the fact that charges for other crimes in other States may still pend against a criminal, and he may be arrested immediately upon his release from the penitentiary—but the other States are precluded from trying him while their cases are still in shape for trial. In effect, the criminal is protected by legal technicalities; because at present States do not like to give up jurisdiction over a prisoner. It would seem as if a series of reciprocity statutes might correct this defect by permitting the removal of a prisoner from a penitentiary for trial in another State, with the agreement that he would be returned to the first State after such a trial, to complete his sentence there, before starting to serve any new sentence.

The scramble of the authorities of various States to gain possession of a criminal who is wanted in all of them for different offenses may be undignified, but it is based on the sound realization that in all probabilities he will only pay for one crime and that, as far as their cases are concerned, it may be now or never.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

SUMMER'S END.

The spinal columns disappear,
The vertebrae all take to cover;
The beach no longer seems so queer;
Upon the sands no censors hover.

The legs, the thighs, the hips, the backs
Are missing from the sandy stretches;
Gone from the seaside bathing shacks
Are all those blistered, sunburned wretches.

From diving platforms no one hears
The screams and shouts of diving smarties;
No more do nearly naked dears
Join in cabana cocktail parties.

The cries of picnickers are stilled,
Concluded are their childish capers;
No longer are green pastures filled
With bottles, cans and Sunday papers.

Upon the mossy bathing float
A few late bathers chat and shiver;
The phut-phut-phut of outboard boat
Is silenced on the bay and river.

The water fronts are strangely cool,
The sea is free from all chop suey;
The children now are back in school
With face and fingers not so gooey.

Gone are those beach robes very gay
With stripes designed to knock your eye out;
The bathing beauties fade away
And modest costumes get a try-out.

From yachts that idle near the beach
Nobody does a "belly-flopper;"
No more is heard the infant's screech,
"Oh, mommer! Look! I buried popper!"

The open air may now be breathed
Without the hot dog's quaint aroma;
The boardwalks that so lately seethed
With humans now are in a coma.

Gone is that stunning beach club queen
Who knocked the boys for goal from placement;
With summer o'er she may be seen
Back on the job in Bon Ton's basement.

The beach looks white and clean once more;
Neat are the lawns and fields behind it;
In fact, again the silv'ry shore
Looks very much as God designed it.

ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT.

The use of artificial sunlight in the preparation of various kinds of food is gaining in popularity, according to the Science News Letter. Such short wave-lengths as are in ultraviolet radiation will kill many kinds of bacteria, particularly if they are applied in large doses. The dehydrating industry that dries fruits which keep without the addition of preservatives have found that irradiation with artificial sunlight is a surer method than exposure to sunlight. Bread that has been treated after wrapping in a transparent paper will keep for at least ten days without molding.

Laundries have recently adapted the practice of bleaching by use of sunshine lamps.

You Find No Passion for Progress in A Land Whipped by Malaria

By Robert Quillen.

YESTERDAY I sat in a busy corner drug store and observed the people who came in to trade.

Most of them were young. And most of them belonged to the class that is prosperous enough to spend part of the year away from home.

A few were athletes, bronzed by outdoor play, graceful, strong, sure of themselves. But with these few exceptions they were physical defectives.

They slouched. Their shoulders stooped. They were underweight or heavy with soft flesh. Their abdomens protruded. They moved with the awkwardness of the weak. Their complexions were sallow. The shoulder blades of the children protruded like embryo wings.

It is vulgar and cruel to mention the physical defects of individuals, but this is another matter.

I stopped two physicians who came in together and discussed the matter with them. I asked whether all of these people were doomed by nature to be unfit.

"Not a bit of it," said one. "With proper care and training from infancy, all of them might have been good specimens." And the other man of science agreed.

Who, then, is to blame? You will answer without hesitation: "The parents."

But not the parents alone. It is the duty of parents to educate their children; but many of them can not or will not, and thus the obligation falls on the state.

The state's assumption of the duty is not wholly altruistic. It recognizes the fact that ignorance is a menace, and the education of its future citizens is a form of insurance against petty crime, disease, pauperism and the unreason of illiterate majorities.

Why, then, does it neglect the bodies of its future citizens? The state of an individual's health determines his mental attitude, and his mental attitude determines the kind of citben he will be.

Would a community of joyously healthy people, blessed with the courage and confidence and tolerance that are characteristic of abundant health, conduct its affairs in the same manner as a community of weak and sickly people, soured and whipped by suffering?

When the wild goat's kids and the tiger's cubs are not eating or sleeping, they are lying in the sunshine or playing vigorously to develop strength and grace and stamina.

Surely the one race blessed with reason could find a way to train its young as sanely.

Comment of the Press

Uncle Sam as an Examplar.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

More than one foreign observer has agreed with Lloyd George that the outcome of our American experiment will profoundly impress all civilization. Mr. Wells' prophecy that ours would also be a new world of ideas illustrates the widespread expectation of us.

Among others, the Mexican people have their eyes on the United States. They are in trouble. Theirs is not in all respects, the same trouble that we are in. They are a much more agricultural people, and the tempo of life is not so accelerated there as it is here. Nevertheless, they are in trouble, and they would like to get out of it.

The recovery plan in the United States appeals to them as a practicable means. Mexico is therefore applying it to her own ills. President Abelardo Rodriguez has asked the governors of the 19 Mexican States to join the central Government in a six-year recovery plan, which has as it object an increase in consumption. They are asked to establish a minimum wage and a shorter work day to restore the purchasing power of the people. In a country where low wages, approximating human slavery, have been a custom for centuries, this is naturally something of an about-face.

Surprise in New Cars.

Detroit News.

Those who profess to be in the know—there are many such professors with reference to the new automobile models every year—are predicting that when the new cars come out this year the buying public is due for a big surprise one way or another. NRA regulations must enter into the making of those new cars and the prices for them, they say, and skilled planning will be needed to keep the so-called $500-class cars even in the neighborhood of that price.

Case Closed.

In a passion of anger he fired a shot
And the bullet flew to its mark.
He saw on her brow a crimson spot,
Then the room went ghastly dark.

No sound from her lovely lips he heard,
No light in her eyes he saw,
The clock still ticked and a curtain stirred,
Then the door flew wide for the law.

"Dead!" said an officer. "Dead as a stone!"
Steel handcuffs closed with a snap.
"O. K.!" said his partner, "now get to the phone
And tell 'em we've got the chap!"

"Quick work that!" said the chief that night
When he'd heard what had taken place.
There's nothing left but reports to write,
Tomorrow will close the case!"

By the officers soon was the crime forgot,
But today, in a cell's gray gloom,
Sits the man, still hearing a pistol shot
Bark out in that living-room.

Along the Potomac

Carlisle Bargeron

IFULLY appreciate, of course, the necessity for running the country by propaganda. It always has been necessary to a certain extent. Such a barrage was laid down in the World War that it would take about 50 years of intense education to get the country to the point of even attempting again to think clearly and dispassionately on the basis of pure fact. With the college professors all working for the Government, chances for this intense education are slight.

Bargeron.

But it is often interesting to know the genesis of a particular propaganda; for example, the fire that is now being directed toward the bankers. It is a shining illustration of how an idea spreads.

• • • •

YOU will recall that the attack broke about two weeks ago. Until then the bankers were permitted to go the even tenor of their way. We had quit cracking about them the jokes so prevalent a few months ago.

It happened this way: A newspaperman down a corridor on the way to one of Commissar Johnson's press conferences ran into a merchant walking in sort of a daze (as is the condition of most business men walking around the labyrinth of the NRA). The merchant greeted him warmly, here was some one he knew and to whom he could speak. Then he told the newspaperman that never was he so enthusiastic about anything as he was for the NRA, that he believed "that fellow Roosevelt is on the right track."

But, he added, it had put him in a dickens of a fix. Having operated in the red for many months, he now could get no additional credit to finance the increased overhead that NRA compliance entailed.

He sure would like to cooperate, though, he insisted.

• • • •

THE newspaperman later saw the commissar going to his press conference. He related the story, and asked the commissar if the banks were cooperating with the NRA to the extent they should. Johnson replied that they seemed a little slow. Whereupon the newspaperman decided that at the press conference it would be a good idea to put some fire under them.

Thus, at the assemblage of newspapermen with the commissar, he again put his question, this time formally. Johnson was very temperate in his reply, saying in effect that he had been disappointed over the attitude of the banks. The newspaperman asked Johnson if he thought this attitude was deliberate on the bankers' part. Johnson replied he did not, that it had been his opinion the commercial banking system failed to function during the depression and he supposed the bankers' attitude now was the result of unwarranted timidity.

The assembled reporters by now were all taking voluminous notes.

One asked if Johnson intended to do anything about the situation. His reply, after some hesitation, as I recall it, was that he would see what could be done as soon as he could get to it.

So the fire was started.

• • • •

I HAVE no way of knowing how much if any thought the commissar had given the matter before it was brought up by the newspaperman. The following morning newspapers headlined that Johnson planned to make the bankers liberalize their lending policy.

And, so help me goodness, there came the intelligence from Hyde Park a few days later that Mr. Roosevelt had the matter under consideration. This was followed by conferences between Mr. Roosevelt and the commissar and between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Jesse Jones, head of the R. F. C.

The next we heard was that efforts were being made to work out some plan to jar the banks loose. And since we have heard vaguely that plans considered involved one by which the R. F. C. would buy preferred stock of banks and another plan of financing companies being set up in the various communities which would get their money from the R. F. C. and lend it to those whom the banks would not help.

The latest chapter was Mr. Jesse Jones' haranguing the bankers at Chicago the other day, telling them to "be smart for once."

Indeed, we do progress.

Letters to the Editor.

Piney Branch Underpass Is in Takoma Park, D. C., Not Maryland.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your edition of September 6 you give on page 4 a picture of the recently completed Piney Branch road underpass under the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and give the location as in Takoma Park, Md. This is really "adding insult to injury," for it is in the District and was paid for by District tax money. It does afford another safe entrance to Washington and as such should have been paid for entirely by general taxation rather than by special assessments on remotely adjacent property for alleged benefits. The real beneficiaries, the owners of Maryland real estate opened up through this Piney Branch road extension, escaped all expense incident to this safe entrance to the city. For this reason it is clearly "adding insult to injury" to give Maryland the credit for this improvement, which she forced on the District, but went "scot-free," so far as paying anything for it is concerned.

THE five Washington Scouts who attended the International Jamboree in Hungary returned Sunday, after having spent a month and a half en route. Following the encampment, which was participated in by 30,000 Scouts from all parts of the world, the Washington contingent traveled through various countries of Europe.

Scouts at the Jamboree spoke various languages, but the common language of the smile helped communication among all groups. The boys came home with souvenirs from other countries, for which they had traded. They report Scouts from all nations learned to say "change" to signify they wanted to exchange something.

The Washington contingent was led by Yule Fisher, chairman of the troop committee of Troop 8, and consisted of Mason Gray, William Leith and Thorton Burnet, of Troop 8, and Henry Surface, of Troop 88.

Troop Holds Third Annual Party.

Troop 89, of 1717 B street southeast, held its annual party on September 1, commemorating the completion of another year and the start of its fourth year. The celebration was in the troop room. Among the speakers were W. H. McConnaughy, district commissioner, and John L. Clark, assistant district commissioner of the Redskin division.

Boy Scout Troop 145, of Alexandria, Va., will have a watermelon feast this evening at 7:30 o'clock. J. W. Hammond is scoutmaster and Lawrence Bayliss scribe.

Closing Court at Camp Wilson.

The closing rally tomorrow for the season at Camp Wilson will be an all-field day and family picnic for all Scouts, Scouters, parents and friends. Many sports will be enjoyed by the Scouts. Everybody is invited.

Camp Wilson will close its series of courts of honor and review with a campfire program following the court. The Scout executive, Linn C. Drake, and other Scouters will be present.

Camp Director William H. Murray and his assistant, Roland Linger, are planning the campfire stunts, which will intersperse interesting talks and stories.

Improvements in Requirements Announced.

A communication from the national court of honor announces new merit badges for pigeon raising, rowing and mechanical drawing. Merit badge revisions include firemanship and reptile study.

Additional awards created include the gold quill to be awarded to Scouts for achievement in journalism. An organizer award has also been announced to honor organization and leadership ability by a Scout.

Demonstrate First-Aid at Fair.

At the Firemen's National Capital City Fair, Boy Scouts assisted the Red Cross with its first-aid demonstrations under supervision of Ira Lee Law.

The scouts' first stunt was the demonstration of "tricks with the triangular and cravat bandages." The bandages were made before the audience and then applied in 25 different ways.

Twenty-five different carries were shown—improvising stretchers for transporting patients, loading and unloading patients into an ambulance.

Scouts taking part were Guy Appel, Walter Charles and Henry Engelhart, Troop 9; C. C. Mullady, scoutmaster; Ludwig Croutel, Troop 28; Harold Earp scoutmaster; William Cockrell, Troop 57; F. Davis Little, scoutmaster; Roy Dean, Troop 235; Arthur E. Robinson, scoutmaster.

The sea scout division of the District of Columbia Council, gave a demonstration of sea scouting, under the supervision of "Jack" Dunnington, skipper of Sea Scout Ship 304.

The Constitution, jr., a replica of the old ship Constitution, manned by sea scouts, was viewed.

Full Program in Troop 79.

Troop 79's Green Bar Club, an organization of green bar owners, patrol leaders, assistant patrol leaders, senior patrol leaders and junior assistant scoutmasters, with the scoutmaster, took a two-day hike to the troop's cabin at Burnt Mills.

Eight members of the club were present. A 15-foot signal tower was erected.

Plans for a mammoth parents' night celebration are being carried forward. November 24 has been set as the day. Among the features will be a court of awards for the troop, with Dr. Paul Bartsch, chairman of the court of honor, and the complete court.

Formal meetings will begin two weeks after the opening of school with a program of varied activities. A first aid corps has already been formed and a handicraft department is being formed. A signaling group and a pioneering corps will be organized.

One eagle, two life scouts and about twelve star scouts will receive their badges on parents' night. Over 40 advancements will have been made by November.

Advance at Camp Wilson.

At the court of honor and review held at Camp Wilson, Burnt Mills, September 2 the following advancements took place:

To first class—Troop 6, P. Burtis. To second class—Troop 3, Ed Murphy; Troop 7, M. Willard; Troop 43, R. Rozzelle and G. Stenz; Troop 52, C. Reed; Troop 221, P. Duguid and M. Rosie.

Qualified for merit badges:

Troop 2—James Wakenight, masonry; Troop 3—Robert Rands, athletics; Troop 6—Paul Burtis, cooking; William L. Klare, carpentry; Troop 9—Charles Engelhardt, bird study, pioneering; Guy Appel, athletics, pathfinding, public health; Troop 12—Roland Linger, textiles; Karlton Pierce, automobiling, bird study, life saving; Robert Wilson, bird study, automobiling, life saving; Troop 21, John Kimball, bird study, bookbinding; Troop 38—D. Carpenter, art; La Rue Hunt, art.

Troop 43—John Chandler, carpentry, handicraft, woodwork; Troop 47—Joe Waldman, masonry, personal health; Troop 83—Jack Lattimore, public health, handicraft; Melvin Friedman, handicraft; Howard Sites, music; Troop 89—Lawrence Wescott, civics; Troop 96—Joseph Wilson, handicraft, pathfinding; Troop 100—Alex Adrian, civics, handicraft; John Halloway, civics, pioneering; Troop 235, Roy Dean, landscape gardening.

Troops Urged to Plant Trees.

For the past fifteen years Boy Scout groups all over the country have helped to plant walnut and other trees. This practice started at the time President Wilson called for Scouts to locate walnut trees during war days.

Uncle Dan Beard, national Scout commissioner, has addressed all Washington Scout leaders in the recent issue of Scouting Magazine, urging them to cooperate in nut gathering and tree planting.

A series of awards is being planned for individual Scouts, as well as for patrols and troops for service in gathering seeds, distribution of seeds, planting seeds, establishing of nurseries, tree planting, searching for new and finer varieties of nut seeds and grafting.

It is planned that some sort of a symbol shall be given in the name of Dan Beard to those who perform unusual service in the projects sponsored by the national nut tree planting committee.

Awards will be given individuals and troops gathering the largest amounts of nut seeds or a set quantity of seeds. The seeds will be held for local distribution. This project will be judged by the quantity of seeds gathered and by the kind of program put on by the troops when the seeds are assembled.

A program of exchange of seeds from historic grounds between councils and troops will be sponsored by the committee and awards will be made.

Radio Waves and Ripples

WRC's new assistant manager is Fred Shawn (above), former announcer. Fred will be 27 years old in a few months. He succeeds Herluf Provensen, now running a station in Erie, Pa. Columbia likes the dramatic talent of Rosaline Greene (left). She is in the cast that dramatizes real-life stories introduced by the "Road Reporter."

FRED SHAWN went to work as WRC's new assistant manager yesterday.

Shawn, who, in 1925, was in college at Claremont, Calif., steps up from local NBC announcer to succeed Herluf Provensen, recently resigned to become general manager of an Erie (Pa.) station.

Stage, screen and radio have found uses for Shawn's talent. In college he organized a quartet which, in 1927, began a three-year road contract as a Franchon Marco unit. The summer of 1929 found them back on the West Coast making movie shorts. Broadway saw them in "Ballyhoo," "America's Sweetheart" and "East Wind."

When the quartet disbanded at the conclusion of the "East Wind" contract, Shawn went with the "Follies." When the show went to Cincinnati, WLW offered Shawn a job as announcer and soloist. He remained until last December.

Local radio listeners will continue to hear Shawn, at least until the NBC office here finds some one to take his place. He will handle the microphone again for the "Night Pilots" at 8:15 tomorrow.

He was born in Payette, Idaho, November 7, 1906.

The Blue Eagle has flown from the local CBS studios.

In the person of Percy Patrick Posey, animal imitator, it has gone to New York to scream for the "big time" stations.

Ted Church, who runs things for WJSV, expects Percy will return shortly to sound the NRA call locally.

A RADIO-RUN treasure hunt is to be offered WMAL fans soon.

Vincent Callahan, manager, got the idea from KSO Des Moines, Iowa, where 2,000 took part the first night. Preliminary WMAL plans would stage the hunt one Saturday night this fall.

Six or seven articles will comprise the "treasure." Their description and clews to their location will be broadcast at intervals during the hunt. The first half dozen contestants to show up in the studio with all of the articles—which, in the past, have ranged from fire hats to the old-fashioned nightshirt—will be rewarded in cash. Names of the runners-up will be broadcast.

Radio-wise Washingtonians will tell you that Floyd Gibbons' failure to do his bit in the NRA broadcast a week ago Sunday was his own idea.

The "Headline Hunter" didn't like the publicity break the pressmen were giving him. Floyd claims he failed to find his name anywhere in the papers the day he was to have flown in an Army plane to Washington to interview Gen. Johnson and other NRA chiefs.

Absence of flying weather is the way NRA's press department explained Floyd's determination to remain in Chicago.

Farm Credit Administrator Henry Morgenthau, jr., phoned WJSV yesterday to request that his broadcast be picked up from Bolling Field.

"It can't be done," he was told.

"But I've got to catch that 4:15 plane," he replied.

"Still quite impossible," was the retort.

Mr. Morgenthau went on the air from the studio from 3:45 to 4, as scheduled. He took a later plane.

Bob Trout will return to WJSV Sun Dial Hour at 7 a. m., September 25.

WMAL opened the Arcade-Sunshine series last night. Local vocalists included Charles Luke, Madeline Sheppard and Frank Cady. Arthur Godfrey was master of ceremonies. Fox Theater's Phil Lampkin also was there.

D. J. (Radio Joe) Kaufman has changed his weekly broadcast from Wednesday to Thursday and from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Goldie Sigmund will handle the program next week.

George M. Cohan is the author of the newest New Deal song. Entitled "Clear Weather." It will be heard from WRC and WMAL at 8 p. m., Sunday.

C. B. S. officials will continue Ted Husing and Leon Belasco's Orchestra on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10:30 p. m. through the first week of October.

Rudy Vallee and his boys are planning an outing at Rudy's lodge on Lake Kezar, Me. Wives and sweethearts are to be included.

Al Jolson finds blackface imitators have a more satisfactory Southern accent than the young men from Harlem.

Fred Hufsmith, NBC tenor, was mistaken by a woman out West for her husband, missing nine years. One of Fred's pictures cleared up everything.

The running of the Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park, Long Island, will be reported by Thomas Bryan George, Columbia turf expert, tomorrow from 4:30 to 4:45 p. m.

Lulu McConnell, stage luminary, is due for a radio debut with Isham Jones this month.

Some more NRA explaining is to be done by Gen. Johnson and Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in a Wilson Cabinet, over a NBC hook-up Sunday night.

First-hand information on Germany is promised NBC listeners from James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy Association in London. He will be heard in this country at 1:15 p. m. Sunday.

The Legion of Valor, composed of Congressional Medal, D. S. C. and Navy Cross men, will be guests of Lowell Thomas at dinner in New York Monday night. Several of them will step up to the microphone to tell their military experiences, starting at 9 p. m.

Distinguished Group to Pay Writer Honor

Baron and Baroness Beck-Friis Head List at Dinner for Mrs. Elgstrom.

Associated Press.

Strongly backed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, women willing to work for the rights of their sex are daily drumming against wage differentials in industrial codes.

"Women should very decidedly do everything they can to see that in every code the principle of equal pay for equal work between men and women is recognized," Mrs. Roosevelt said yesterday.

Previous pronouncements by the President's wife on this same principle were credited by Miss Mary Anderson, Chief of the Woman's Bureau of the Labor Department, with giving great impetus to the work on this new woman's rights' front.

Miss Anderson, of course, is one of the chief battlers. So is red-haired Rose Schneiderman, of the Labor Advisory Board. Both count in the complete cooperation of Labor Secretary Frances Perkins.

"The practical experiences of the Woman's Bureau in its investigations on women's employment has shown that women's work has been used to lower the wage scale," Miss Anderson explained.

"We don't want this practice perpetuated in the codes."

To the NRA, the Women's Bureau addressed a statement to show "necessity of establishing the same minimum wage rates for men and women." It added:

"Since 37.5 per cent of all factory operatives are women, it is apparent that to set wage rates for them that are substandard, the recovery is held back just that much."

Californian Honor Guest at Fete Here

Ideal Bird Bath Made of Old Tree

A bird-bath made of a section of a tree trunk not only blends with a rustic garden layout, but is an invitation to birds that mistrust fancy plumbing.

The older the tree and the larger the trunk, the better the bath. Get a section about a foot and a half thick. Hollow out one side through the rings, so that the center of the bowl is in the center of the tree. Two or three coats of paint and as many of shellac wil waterproof the wood.

If you are fortunate enough to be able to secure a section with fungi growing on it, it will serve as the bird's armchair lunch counter. If not, a few pieces can be nailed around the bark. Sunflower seeds sprinkled on them will make the outdoor bath and bird restaurant the most popular in the neighborhood.

Seekers Club Heads to Fete Woman Artist

Misses McKee Plan Reception at Studio Tomorrow for Alfa Rulison Clark.

Miss Oreon Marie McKee and Miss Dove McKee, president and vice president of the Seekers' Club of Washington, will give a reception at the studio at 110 Maryland avenue, tomorrow at 8:30 o'clock in honor of the nationally known artist, Mrs. Alfa Rulison Clark, of Reno, Nev.

Mrs. Clark attended the Nevada State University and also studied in New York, where she has been for the past three months. She will be the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Isabel Likens Gates, during her several weeks' stay in Washington.

A program of music and poetry will be given, after which a buffet supper will be served. Among the guests will be Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Hazel Cameron-Mink, Mrs. Catherine Buck Lee, Miss Elizabeth Gardener Coombs, Dr. and Mrs. Stanwood Cobb, Col. and Mrs. Edmund Fair, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Culbertson on Bridge

Bluffing Mr. Sims.

Mr. P. Hal Sims, in the course of a long Bridge-playing career, has prided himself upon the number of bluffs he has put over on his opponents. Since the recent summer tournament of the American Bridge League held at Asbury Park, N. J., in August, he will remember at least one hand on which two alert opponents brought about his discomfiture. Messrs. Walter Malowan and Sherman Stearns, playing in the Masters' Pair Event, succeeded by the remarkable bidding shown below, in inducing Mr. Sims to stop short of a game.

North, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

Mr. Stearns
♠ 9 3
♡ 9
◇ A J 10 8 7 6 4 3
♣ 10 3

Mr. von Zedtwitz: ♠ A K 8 5 4 ♡ Q J 8 ◇ Q ♣ K 9 8 2
Mr. Sims: ♠ J 10 7 2 ♡ A 7 4 3 2 ◇ K 5 ♣ A Q

Mr. Malowan
♠ Q 6
♡ K 10 6 5
◇ 9 2
♣ J 7 6 5 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1◇	Dbl.	1♠	Dbl.
2♡	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
3◇	Pass	Pass	3♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding is remarkable, but in no place is it more remarkable than in the final outcome. The fact that Mr. Stearns' bid was a bluff and that South's bid of spades was also a bluff, as well as North's Rebid of two hearts, should have been crystal-clear to anyone holding the East hand after Mr. von Zedtwitz's Penalty Double of the bid of one spade in response to East's Take-out Double of the one diamond bid. When Mr. von Zedtwitz doubled one spade for penalties, it should have been apparent to East, who held four spades to the Knave-Ten, that South did not have a spade bid. On a later round of bidding Mr. von Zedtwitz was confronted with the same problem, which he solved effectively, and the failure of East to bid further is utterly unexplainable. Inasmuch as the hand was played on the basis of match point scoring, even reaching four hearts would not have been of value, as the hand is laid down for five spades.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If using the so-called "Protective" bidding, what contract should be reached by North and South on the following hand?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10 5 3
♡ 10 9
◇ A K 10 8 2

Mrs. Calhoun Tells Escapades of Diplomatic Young Grandsons

Grandmothers are, well, just grandmothers. But it might be better to say supermothers. They realize just how much fun it is to be a mother and they are under no delusions about the importance of rearing children by rule.

So Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, Washington society woman, takes much pleasure in recounting the exploits of her small grandsons, who are the sons of the beautiful Mrs. Charles W. Waring, Charleston, S. C. As Margaret Simonds, Mrs. Waring was the center of a whirlpool of social interest as a debutante. For the lovely Margaret was the "one and only" whom the Prince of Wales called upon in person when he visited Washington. "Davy" had enjoyed dancing with Margaret when she visited London and was presented at the Court of St. James. But were there social heartburnings when the Calhoun menage was the only one honored by a personal call from the prince and his suite during his Washington visit!

But, getting back to the first subject, Mrs. Waring is now the mother of three handsome little boys, Andrew and Peter Drury, sons of Abner Drury, her first husband, and little Charles W. Waring.

Small Charles, though only 3 years old, talks the King's English. His parents have always spoken to him in grown-up fashion and he, as a result, has completely missed the prattling stage. A woman visitor full of enthusiasm, recently gurgled: "O-ooh! You cute ittsy-bittsy darling!"

Little Charles drew himself up with hauteur and squelched the lady with: "I do not permit myself to talk baby talk."

But even more full of explosive is the story Mrs. Calhoun relates about little Andrew Drury, eldest of her grandchildren. Andrew, it seems, with his young playmates, sallied forth to see a movie one Saturday afternoon. On the way they stopped to get refreshments. But, m'goodness, after the children had consumed ice-cream sodas, sundaes and taffy galore there was a terrible misunderstanding about payment. All of the kiddies had lots of good intentions, but not a cent.

The result was that the young scions of aristocratic Charleston's most aristocratic families sat contentedly in the pulleeze station eating all-day suckers, jaw-breakers and the like until their annoyed mammas and papas came down and took them away.

The Charles Waring family heard that little Andrew was among the culprits who ate ice cream and paid not therefor. Young Mr. Waring bounced down to the police station to get his little stepson, but was told no such boy was there. Looking up the hall, he spied a small form.

"Who's that?" he asked.

"That's a kid named Tommy Simpson," was the answer.

Saying no more, he walked up to the little fellow, who looked up quickly and whispered, "My name's Tommy Thimpthon. And I don't know you."

It was little Andrew, of course. His amused stepfather carted him off with whoops of amusement and has, ever since, announced him as the youngest Carolina gentleman to know enough to give a wrong name in a police station.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanwood Cobb will return to Chevy Chase by tomorrow to prepare for the opening of the Chevy Chase Country Day School on September 27.

Mr. and Mrs Cobb returned recently to their Mast Cove Camp, in Eliot, Me., from an automobile trip to the Green and White Mountains.

Among their guests at the camp this summer were Miss Levinsky, sister of the well-known pianist, Mischa Levinsky; Dr. L. L. Lorwin, of the Brookings Institute; Miss Cora Cobb, writer and lecturer, and Mrs. Beale R. Howard, who is spending the summer at Kennibunkport.

Mr. Cobb has begun a novel dealing with the search of modern youth for education, love and religion. Much of the scene will be laid in Washington.

Parks to Help Native Crafts

U. S. to Rush Sale of Rugs and Other Products.

Hooked rugs and rustic furniture of mountain craftsmen will be sold in three new National parks.

Secretary Ickes announced that native craftsmen will be advertised in the Great Smoky, Shenandoah and Mammoth Cave Parks in the mountain region of North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky.

The Interior Department's plan is for all stores operating in the parks under concession to build their displays around native handicraft.

In so doing, Arno B. Cammerer, director of the National Parks Office, believes a real industry may be developed. Thousands of mountain folk, he said, are skilled in arts of spinning, weaving and woodwork. Others make such ornaments as turkeys from pine cones and rock roosters.

Eve Started Fur Fad.

Fur coats for women indubitably had their origin with Eve, in the Garden of Eden. And, with the exception of size and shape and variety of ornate linings, the mode has changed but little since its beginning. Single skins are draped over shapely shoulders as haphazardly today as they were at the beginning of time and fashion.

At Least One School Chore Is Simplified

Shopper Finds Store Solves Geography Problems; New Ideas Many.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

A small boy stood by his father's chair. "Hey, pop," he asked, Where's Armenia?"

The man put down his paper and viewed his son apprehensively. "Armenia?"

"Yessir. That's in my geography lesson and teacher said for me to come home and learn all about it. It's got longitudes and latitudes, hasn't it?"

The small boy was growing impatient and the elderly gentleman adjusted his glasses nervously.

"Junior, your father is a very busy man," he ventured. "He simply hasn't time to explain all this to you. Go ask your mother!"

Are you looking forward with fear in your heart for school to begin, with its lessons on this and that? Play safe and be prepared. Buy one of those large world globes on sale in a downtown store for $1. It shows the new political divisions and has a key around the base that will facilitate your search for any locality.

No matter what you're serving, be it merely pretzels, you should have an eye to the way of serving. If a thing has atmosphere of its own, play up to it, bring it out, and you will have achieved the first step toward being a perfect hostess.

In regard to the pretzels, of course, you could serve them on any tray you happened to have, but here's a chance to be artistic. Use some of those exceedingly appropriate trays with a checked paper napkin lacquered on it. Every other square is a pretzel picture depicting little Dutch girls and boys with foaming glasses of beer in their hands. You'll find this in a Connecticut avenue store.

Even if you haven't literary inclinations, you'll want to grab an easy chair and settle back with a book or magazine beneath the light of the new table lamp combination. You may see it in an E street store—an end table with a lamp through the center of it. And not only that, the shade of the lamp may be adjusted to any slant you prefer. The table itself is quite ornamental with its Duncan Phyfe base.

Tall women often complain they can never buy clothes to fit just that certain way. But when a tall woman does wear the right kind of clothes in the right way, she can readily outshine her shorter sisters where style is concerned. She should know this and, consequently, turn her height to advantage. One sure way of going about it is to have the right foundation garment. There's one in a downtown store that was designed especially for her. It's made of lastex and trimmed with lace. The fastenings up the side are so arranged that there's never a wrinkle to be seen.

Dish washing is a nuisance and always will be until we reach that advanced stage of civilization when we eat from paper plates with paper knives and forks. Until then we might as well make the best of it. One way is to use the new handy dish washer. You fasten one end of the hose to the faucet, put soap in the other end underneath the mop and turn the water on. If it's the pans you're after, you can insert the bunch of steel wool that comes with the outfit—and woe betide the greasy pots and pans.

Dusting powder continues to come in more and more alluring packages. You'll particularly like this new outfit, a kind of Easter affair. The round boxes are colorfully decorated with flowers. Remove the top and there you are—several cakes of soap in the shape of little eggs, blue, pink, green and yellow. Remove this layer and there's the powder itself. And the price? Only 39 cents!

Plumbers' bills make terrifying holes in one's budget, isn't it so? The surest way to avoid this is to protect your drain pipe from the leftovers that go its way. You can do this by investing one dime in the new drain protectors. They fit over the pipe and do the work. No worry about fastening it on. All you do is put it there, and take it away at will.

Some clocks have a bold-faced way about them that absolutely spoils the appearance of a room. Your boudoir, for instance. You want it to retain its dainty look, and also want a clock in there. You'll probably like the electric boudoir clocks on sale in a large department store. Take your choice of green or rose cloisonnee. These used to sell for $8.95, but now they're $2.95. Here's a good buy!

Woman Tries Cigar On 102d Birthday

Omaha, Nebr. (AP).—Mrs. Cornelia Weatherford, of Omaha, just passed her 102d birthday. "I think I'll celebrate by smoking a cigar instead of my customary pipe," she said.

Mrs. Weatherford said she had been smoking a pipe for 90 years.

Dr. Mussey and Some She Aided to High Office

Despite her 83 years, Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey (top center), keeps in close touch with her "girls." Thirty-seven years ago, Dr. Mussey led a fight for recognition of women before the bar. Included in the group of now-celebrated women who owe their start to Dr. Mussey are Judge Kathryn Sellers (top left), of the District Juvenile Court; Judge Mary O'Toole (top right), of the District Municipal Court, and below, left to right, Assistant District Attorney Pearl McCall, Dean Grace Hays Riley of the Washington College of Law; Assistant District Attorney Rebekah Greathouse and Anne Agnes O'Neill, on the staff of the Solicitor General.

Women in Exalted Legal Positions Hail Dr. Mussey

Leaders of Profession Here and Throughout World Justify Their Mentor in Long Struggle for Recognition at Bar.

"Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey's girls" hail her from judges' benches, important executive offices in this country and far-flung corners of the world on this 37 anniversary year of her establishment of the first white law school to admit women as members.

In spite of much opposition and threats that diplomas would be withheld from her women graduates, she began the school here in 1896. This leader of an imposing group of women, who have written their names high in the hall of fame and service to their country by means of their legal training, was not deterred, the Washington College of Law admitted women and Mrs. Mussey and the handful of women who were with her and the hosts of those who came after began their long journeys as path finders for recognition of the rights of women to a place in the professions.

In the District of Columbia, among those who proudly belong to the circle of "Dr. Mussey's Girls," women who have studied law under her and joined her in the various campaigns she has conducted for the freedom of women are two women judges, Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, and Judge Mary O'Toole, of the Municipal Court; two women assistant district attorneys, Miss Pearl McCall and Miss Rebbeka Greathouse, and, of course, the leader of the women legal lights at our local bar, Grace Hays Riley, dean of the Washington College of Law.

One Leaves Law for Convent.

One of Dr. Mussey's "girls," who was graduated with high honors under her tuition from the Washington College of Law, was Marie Easby-Smith. She made a ral name for herself at the bar, became president of the Woman's Bar Association of the District of Columbia and in every way added glory to the name of Easby-Smith, long distinguished by representatives of the family at the local bar.

But this successful young woman felt a call to another vocation and renounced the world at the zenith of her success to enter a Catholic Convent in Maryland. But nun or Portia, the tuition she had received fitted this woman for leadership and, although she has been "out of the world" but a few years, she has risen to an important place in her new calling as the head of the hospital connected with the convent.

Alice Paul, the militant Quaker maiden, who has led many a suffrage effort, halted her activities long enough to learn from the legal oracle which had inspired so many other successful women. Miss Paul, of course, took the course in a shorter time than the average woman, for she had gained the best of legal experience in the suffrage campaign and besides held scholastic degrees.

Writes Noted Treatise.

From this fountain head Miss Paul received the impetus which has made it possible for her to write one of the most notable and accurate treatises on the nationalities of women, which has become the mentor for women engaged in the struggle for the freedom of women in every corner of the world.

One of the first of the group of women who were appointed to the District of Columbia School Board was another local member of the company of "Dr. Mussey's girls," Edith Kingman Kern, who was graduated in the same class as Judge Sellers and Judge O'Toole.

The importance of the position held in the office of the Solicitor General of the State Department by Miss Anne Agnes O'Neill is a source of great pride to this band of women. This group also includes Annabelle Matthews, of the Board of Tax Appeals.

One Shines in Foreign Post.

When Violr Smith was sent as a trade commissioner of the Department of Commerce to far-off Shanghai, China, "Dr. Mussey's girls" gave her a hearty "send-off," with expressions of their confidence in her success. Their belief was justified, for she made a most notable record in this position.

The judicial fairness of Sophie Kent, for many years one of the most revered and beloved of the Force School teachers, is a legend with boys and girls, many of them now grown men and women. Miss Kent belonged to the same class as Judge Sellers and Judge O'Toole at the Washington College of Law.

Three times elected judge of the Probate Court of Macon, Mo., is the record of another one of Dr. Mussey's proteges, Judge Albertie Wright.

The important post as head of the export division of the Federal Trade Commission belongs to Ellen Love, another member of this group.

Crusader Spirit Burns.

That the spirit of the crusader has been imbued in her followers by Dr. Mussey is shown by the spirit of many of these women pioneers. Judge Kathryn Sellers, when she came to the head of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, waged a battle long and fierce to prevent the court being a court of record. At last she won and no boy or girl who has passed through the court is put on record, unless, of course, that record is the one kept by reformatories when it is necessary to send real delinquents to them.

Assistant District Attorney Pearl McCall stood stanchly on the ground that women at the bar of justice of the District should have the same chance as men and that no woman is called to answer for certain offenses unless the man in the case is also summoned for trial.

Judge Mary O'Toole's keen sense of justice, tempered by a rare sense of humor, has made municipal justice a thing to be reckoned with in the important cases which come before her.

Still in Touch With Students.

Although Dr. Mussey is now 83 years of age and has retired from active work, she keeps in close touch with her "girls," those who were under her tuition directly or those who studied law during the years she held a supervisory or honorary position at the Washington College of Law.

Nothing pleases the veteran lawyer so much as to discover in some new law student the son or daughter or relative of some one of her "girls," carrying on the legal traditions she helped to establish in their family.

Dr. Mussey is proudest of all of Dean Grace Hays Riley, who represents the best type of achieving American woman, who has as her watchword the same one that has endured since the early days when Dr. Mussey was young and active. It is to preserve the real ethics of law—and to this end Dr. Mussey and her followers are pledged.

Just in Case—!

Kansas City, (AP).—Over the telephone to the general hospital came this question:

"What does a fellow do when the baby swallows a mothball?"

The necessary information was furnished after which the man was asked if his child had swallowed a mothball.

"No," he replied, "but we are packing some clothing and filling the pockets with mothballs and we feel sure the baby is going to grab and swallow one any minute."

The Family Marketer

Storms and Revolution Hit Islands—So Pineapples Are Scarce Here.

The caprices of nature nowhere are reflected more vividly than in the market. Quite at random she struck the Southern islands, Puerto Rico and Cuba, with storms and hurricanes and played havoc with the pineapple crop.

The winds and rains ruthlessly whipped the shrubby bushes to the ground and uprooted many hundreds of them. In some less exposed localities they continued to grow, truly apples of their owners' eyes.

And then the recent strike in Cuba. Workers refused to come to the field and gather the harvests, whereupon many thousands of crates of pineapples rotted away for want of attention. Today, you will find few of them on the market and those few, oftentimes, not of the best quality. In some stores they are selling for 35 cents apiece.

West Supplies Cantaloupes.

No sooner have the local cantaloupes made their exit than the market is supplied from Arizona. These melons have traveled a long way to grace our tables, but they do it in a delightful fashion. Our faith in the juicy sweetness of cantaloupes was on the decline, due to the poor specimens we had encountered lately, but with these visitors from Arizona we can have faith again.

It was here, it was gone, now it's back again. The spinach we bade such a touching farewell is with us today in greater quantities than we dared hope for. Next week we are likely to find it in abundant quantities and of high quality. Make your plans accordingly!

"Truth About Oranges."

"What's the truth about oranges?" the marketer asked the fruit dealer.

"Well," he said, "it's this way—California oranges are the best looking, but you can't beat those from Florida for flavor!"

At present, most of the oranges on the market are from California. Those from Florida will begin to arrive in straggling groups anytime now, but they won't be at their best until November.

You wouldn't think oranges and onions were exactly compatible, would you? But put them together and see. If you've never tried the combination in a sandwich, you've missed a treat. It's quite simple to prepare. Put slices of orange and a sprinkling of onion between two slices of well-mayonnaised bread. Don't make wry faces until you've tasted it and after you've tasted it you won't want to.

Fish Abundant.

This being fish day, what'll we do about it? There are so many different kinds on the market now that it's no small wonder we have difficulty making up our minds.

How do fried bluefish sound? They're plentiful and less expensive than last week. Try them, for 15 cents a pound.

If not bluefish, what about the Norfolk spots? They're only 10 cents a pound, and they're tasty morsels.

Shrimps, Crabs, Lobsters.

Shrimps, crabs and lobsters all being on hand and down in price, make your choice and try scalloping them. You'll need 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups light cream or top milk, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, dash of cayenne, dash of paprika, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped; 2 cups crab, shrimp or lobster cut in pieces, ¼ cup soft buttered crumbs.

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stir to a smooth paste. Add cream and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add seasonings, Worcestershire sauce, ½ of parsley, and fish. Pour into well-greased casserole. Sprinkle crumbs and remaining parsley over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes, or until crumbs are browned. Makes six small servings. May also be baked in individual ramekins.

Teach Young Proper Ways Of Grooming

Children Will Enjoy It and Good Taste Will Be Developed.

Good grooming is a matter of habit and, like other habits, if it is to become a matter of instinct, rather than a duty grudgingly performed, it must be inculcated very early in life.

Too, if personal care is instilled into children in their formative years, its practice becomes so automatic as to do away with the tinge of vanity and preening so often accompanying it when the necessity occurs in later years.

Even so early as the "runabout age," from 2 to 4 years, children may begin to learn the all-important lesson that "cleanliness is next to godliness." Nothing is more important, ever, than an aura of immaculate cleanliness, of hair, skin and clothing.

Teach Independence.

At this early age, children may be started on the path to beauty through appealing to their budding desire for independent action. The challenge of doing things for themselves is tremendously helpful. At 2 years of age, your little girl will be delighted to wield her own tooth brush and to soap herself thoroughly in her daily bath.

Provide the child with her own accessories, such as bath towels, wash cloths, individual brand of soap, her own tube of dentitrice. Let her have her own comb and brush set. Allow her to brush and comb her own hair. It will appeal to her as a game and set her feet on the path to priceless self-sufficiency.

Teach her to wash her hands frequently, after play, always before eating and before going to bed. She may even be instructed in the use of a little vaseline or a hand lotion in the winter months.

Privileges Suggested.

As she progresses toward high school age, the art of cleanliness for her may be enlarged to include some of the simpler cults of beauty. Let her, for instance, have a container of good quality powder. By allowing such privileges before they are demanded, you will have anticipated the dangers of willful and mistaken choice, with their tendency to tasteless exaggeration in the matter of facial make-up inappropriate to the adolescent maiden.

A colorless lip pomade to bring out the delicate natural coloring of healthy young lips and a pure cream for preventing chapping or burning of tender skin are good investments in character as well as appearance for the high school girl. Character investment because thus early, the growing girl may learn that moderation in personal care is always on the side of good taste, which is the ultimate test of chic appearance.

At the high school age, every girl should be given her own complete manicuring outfit and may, if means permit, be allowed a periodic trip to the manicurist. She should be instructed in daily meticulous care of hands and nails. Teach her to cleanse the skin scrupulously before retiring.

Women Paid Cent an Hour

Mexicans Get $1.75 for Making Dozen $8 Dresses.

Beautifully hand-made dresses for infants, retailing in Northern cities from $1.95 to $8 each, are made chiefly by Mexican women at home, who are paid from 70 cents to $1.75 a dozen for the garments, according to a survey recently made by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

Such garments come from Texas, which ranks next to New York in the production of infants' dresses, according to census figures.

As accurate figures on individual home workers were not available on factory pay rolls, visits were made by Government agents to more than 100 women in their homes to get information on their earnings.

An estimate of weekly earnings by these home workers, based on statements of workers, showed that half of them earned less than $2, a third from $2 to $3, and only one woman as much as $5. The hourly earnings of 89 women ranged from 1 cent to 11½ cents, and over two-fifths earned less than 4 cents.

"Father" of 51 Never Spanks

All Boys and Girls Good if Taught Right, He Says.

Spare the rod and you get better results, says Everette Reese, father of 51 adopted incorrigible children.

It is because they are incorrigible that Mr. Reese adopts the children. He takes them from the juvenile courts, children's homes, and industrial schools and brings them up on his dairy farm near Shandon, Butler Country, Ohio.

"All boys and girls prove good," says Mr. Reese in the American Magazine, "if they are properly instructed to tell the difference between right and wrong. I don't spank them or use the whip. I teach them the Golden Rule.

What's in Fashion?

Slap-It-On Snap Brim Still Big Hat Favorite

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where hats of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, Washington Post, on request.

Hopping off in his plane with a blanket code for some new industry is just a matter of routine for NRA's Gen. Johnson. And so, for that matter, is slapping on the Johnson snap-brim hat. It's a routine hat for New York's Gov. Lehman, too . . . as it is with many another active, busy quick-comfort-seeking man.

This model (top left in our sketch) is the easiest hat in the world to slap on without fuss. Stays on surest in wind or rain. And generally rates as easy going and masculine a hat as a man can wear. Besides all of which, it happens to be the hat that does best by most men's faces.

The dip of the brim (best when it's 2⅛ inches—if you want to be technical), the height of its crown (5¾ inches is best liked), and everything about it from its taper to its band conspires to make the snap brim the most worn, most liked hat in America.

Most men—including the Junior Douglas Fairbanks, Prof. Raymond Moley, Lindbergh and Post—like their snap brims raw-edged, unbound. Others, like Adolphe Menjou, William Woodin and Ellsworth Vines, like their snap brims bound with a narrow silk edging—the middle-right sketch shows this. And a still smaller number, including your President, have theirs with a welt edge—the edge of the felt turned back and sewn down to give the brim extra firmness and weight.

Worn by Seven Out of Ten.

How many men will wear this type of hat this fall and winter? About seven of every ten you meet. And most of them will have theirs gray, in shades running all the way from light gray to moderately dark. Because that's the color that goes best with most men's complexions as it does with most of their clothes. But you'll also notice that more men will be taking to those dark browns championed by college men the past few seasons, a color which has proved about as versatile and easy to look at as the perennial gray.

What with more men going in for more color these days, you'll see some of the younger ones taking to greens and blues. Some of the new blue hats, incidentally, are so mellow and subdued that you may find them hard to pass up.

Mixture Shades Richer.

Interesting along the same lines is the fact that more men are taking to the mixture type felts—developed in some of the finest, richest colors that have ever been seen in hats.

Of course, there are other hat types men will wear this fall and winter. Among them, certainly, will be the off-the-face hat many men have begun to ask for as a relief from a long diet of snap-brims.

Later in the fall, metropolitan men will put on derbies. Whether you've ever worn one or not, they're an accepted younger man's winter-type hat that looks and goes as well with the informal raglans and out-of-door fancy coats men are going to wear this winter as with formal coats.

Any way you look at it, men will wear as their fall and winter hats first of all those that qualify as comfortable; secondly, as easy-to-look-at; thirdly, as having that more masculine, rugged air that's running right through all fall and winter men's wear.

Women Fight For Equality In Wage Code

First Lady Backs Efforts to Establish Same Rate for All.

Baron and Baroness Johan Beck-Friis head the list of distinguished guests who will attend the dinner tonight at the National Woman's Party headquarters in honor of Mrs. Anna Lenah Elgstrom, Swedish writer and feminist, and two young American college girls, winners of the prizes for the best essays on the equal rights amendment.

The girls are Miss Elizabeth Higgins, of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., who won the first prize of $500, and Miss Thyra H. Smith, of Macmurray College, Jacksonville, Fla., who won the second prize of $200.

Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, national chairman of the party, comes from Wilmington, Del., to present the prizes at the dinner. Miss Laura Berrien, chairman of the international relations committee, National Association of Women Lawyers, will preside.

In addition to Mrs. Elgstrom, principal speaker, those appearing on the program will include Mrs. Harvey Wiley, president of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Fanny Bunand Sevastos, executive secretary of the Inter-American Commission of Women, and Miss Mabel Van Dyke, chairman of the Young Women's Council.

Among the guests will be Representative Virginia E. Jenks and her daughter, Representative Louis Ludlow, Mme. Paul Herfort, of Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Paul N. Lineberger; Mrs. Merrit O. Chance; Mrs. Nora Blatch Barney, of New York; Mrs. Gerrit S. Miller, jr.; Mrs. Nina Allender, Mrs. Emma Shaw, Mr. Elie Edson, Miss Anita Pollitzer, Miss Adelaide Johnson, the distinguished sculptress; Mrs. Rebekka Greathouse, Dr. Mary O'Malley, Maj. and Mrs. George Oakley Totten, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison.

It is anticipated that about 100 will attend the dinner.

Menu Without Meat Is Good On Fall Days

Market Still Offers Large Supply of Vegetables for Light Meals.

Vacationers are coming back, mothers are getting children ready for school and everyone is making a noble effort to get ready for the winter's routine.

During the next few weeks meals will have to be of the lighter sort. Although fall is treading on the heels of departing summer, we may expect some warm days and as yet we are not used to a heavy winter diet.

There still is a generous supply of fresh vegetables on the market. Take advantage of their abundance, wise housewife, and serve your family——

A Vegetable Dinner.

Fresh fruit cup
Baked potatoes with cheese
Broiled tomato slices
Creamed kohl-rabi
Shredded string beans
Whole wheat muffins
Peach ice cream

Place a large stuffed potato in the center of each plate and surround with two slices of tomato, a portion of diced, creamed kohl-rabi and shredded green brans. The color combination is as attractive as the flavor combination, and will so delight your family that the absence of meat will pass unnoticed.

Another meatless meal offers a souffle as a substitute. French fried potatoes, crisp and brown, are a contrast to a soft souffle. Serve a raw or cooked vegetable salad with the main course as an extra vegetable. With such a meal a rather hearty dessert is in order, so why not try the ever-so-good peach dumplings with hard sauce?

Here is a new treatment of an old stand-by:

Stewed Peas With Lettuce.

Melt three tablespoons of butter in a deep saucepan, add a large head of lettuce cut in slices, a very thin slice of onion and two cups of shelled peas. Sprinkle with half teaspoon salt and one teaspoon sugar, then add 3 tablespoons water, cover and cook slowly until the peas are tender. A sprig of fresh mint may be added. When done, add more salt if necessary, a little pepper, and serve at once. The vegetables must be cooked slowly to avoid burning, since so little water is used.

Gold, Silver Wire Make New Jewelry

If you've always had a streak of unexpressed savage in you, in the matter of yearning to bedeck yourself extravagantly with necklaces, bracelets, brooches, and rings—you may indulge it this season, because it's the fashion. "Spiderwork" jewelry seems to be responsible for the trend toward generous ornamentation. Brooches, rings, necklets and bracelets are made of oxidized silver or gold fillagree wire, in an extraordinary multiplicity of design, which seem to have been modeled from the spider's patterns.

New Idea in Mascara.

The latest gadget on the beauty market is a mascara match. They come in a bunch like matches, are broken off when used, dipped in water and applied. As they slip easily into a pocketbook, there is no danger of a mess or bulkiness.

THE GREY SHOPS—SECOND FLOOR.

Metropolitan to Begin "Season of Pledged Hits" Sept. 15 With World Premiere

Strong Line-Up To Launch New Film Offensive

A Summer Theater Frolic; Old-Timers at Fox; Show World Chat.

With numerous artisans and scores of workmen putting the finishing touches to the considerable alteration and complete renovation of the Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater, John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner interests in this territory, late yesterday announced definitely that the Metropolitan will be reopened to the public on Friday, September 15, with the world premiere showing of "I Loved a Woman," with Kay Francis, Edward G. Robinson and Genevieve Tobin as the inaugural attraction.

Corroborating information published several days ago in this space, Mr. Payette indicates that the improvements the patron will observe upon entering the refurnished Metropolitan will include new draperies in the proscenium arch, a new sound screen, set at a new height and new angle for the better projection of talking and musical pictures; a new stage setting, new lighting fixtures in the lobby and auditorium proper and repainting of the auditorium.

"Season of Pledged Hits."

The reopening of the Met also will serve to usher in the Warner Brothers' new "Season of Pledged Hits" with the showing of "I Loved a Woman." This release was adapted from a story by David Karsner, author of Mr. Robinson's "Silver Dollar," and brings together for the first time Kay Francis and Eddie Robinson. The story contrived by Mr. Karsner is said to be of sufficient substance to afford each a role commensurate with his proved ability.

Following "I Loved a Woman" will be the world premier of "Footlight Parade," the new musical to complete the trilogy of which the first two parts have been "42d Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933." Prominent in the cast of this gay work will be such sterling players as Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, James Cagney and Joan Blondell.

It is in this picture that Gracie Barrie, now serving as mistress of ceremonies at the Earle, in the absence of Maxine Doyle, does a song number with Dick Powell, a service for which she was drafted during her recent engagement with Abe Lyman on the West Coast, without previous screen test—much to her delight.

Jack's "Stage" Mother.

Then will follow as the third of the Metropolitan's new-season releases "Too Much Harmony," the widely discussed Paramount romance, with Bing Crosby in the leading role, supported by Jack Oakie, "Skeets" Gallagher, Judith Allen, Harry Green, Lilyan Tashman and scores of beautiful girls. In this picture, Jack Oakie's real mother, Mrs. Offield, appears as his mother in the screen story, thus celebrating a cinema debut over which she is reported to be vastly enthusiastic and which is said to hope will lead to a further career as a character actress.

Other attractions booked for early showing during the Metropolitan's new season of "Pledged Hits" will be made known in due time.

Come Monday, all of the bigwigs of the motion picture industry will be in Washington to attend the hearing before Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt on the final draft of the Motion Picture Code of Fair Practice under the requirements of the NRA. Among the prominent editorial observers to be present will be Martin Quigley, president of Quigley Publications, including the Motion Picture Herald, foremost of the industry's trade journals. Mr. Quigley will be housed at the Mayflower, practically as far as he can get from the tumult and the shouting that is apt to prevail when the gentlemen of the cinema get properly tuned up and going at their best speed and volume!

How to Spend Summer.

Fulfilling a promise—or perhaps it was construed as a threat—made in yesterday's column to present in slightly more detail the summer experiences of Miss Ann Grosvenor Ayres, who has spent the heated term conducting a summer theater at East Hampton, Long Island, it may be said that added reflection only adds to our first conviction that Miss Ayres has been having herself a swell time, and possibly getting paid for it!

Miss Ayres, who is by way of being a publicist, manager and actress of parts, addresses this column in part as follows:

"I have been here all summer and have had a really delightful season, although I have worked tremendously hard, for they never had a summer theater here before and you know what it is to organize one of these things. That is, I hope you don't know, and never will need to.

"I have seen New York only once or twice since May, except to interview actors. Last week I went up to see Jean Dalrymple, who has been in Mexico since spring and came up just for two days on her way to Spain via the S. S. Champlain. She is now in the entourage of Jose Iturbi, the pianist and conductor, and sailed with him and all his staff, including the piano.

"Iturbi conducted at the stadium, and I saw him afterward—a nice man he is. I called up Tallulah, but she was busy at rehearsals. I hope her new play is good.

One Potential Hit.

"Of the four plays I did, I think I have two good properties, and one should be a hit—the P. G. Wodehouse piece, a grand and mad comedy. Hope Williams is now reading it and I hope I can do it this fall, but I dread Broadway. I hope to take Wodehouse's play around to other cities."

Jean Dalrymple, to whom Miss Ayres refers, would be Mrs. Ward Morehouse, another de luxe publicist, who belongs in the first flight, and Tallulah, of course, is Tallulah Bankhead, on the verge of premiering in Philadelphia in Owen Davis' new play, "Jezebel."

The P. G. Wodehouse comedy is "I Want Love," an hilarious thing, which, under the title of "Good Morning, Bill," was a reigning London success.

Distinguished Patrons.

Of the charm of Miss Ayres' summer of producing one gathers much from the fact that it was all done in the name of the South Shore Players in Guild Hall, East Hampton, Long Island, under the patronage of a distinguished list upon which appear such noted names as Secretary and Mrs. William H. Woodin, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Thomas, Mr. Thomas being the dean of American playwrights; Mr. and Mrs. John Barton French, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Deveraux, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hammond, Mr. Hammond, one of the theater's most sapient commentators; Mr. and Mrs. Ring Lardner, Mr. and Mrs. Grantland Rice, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart Walker and Mr. and Mrs. John N. Wheeler, among many others.

Guild Hall, we learn, bears over its entrance portal the following inscription "The John Drew Theater, dedicated to the memory of John Drew, beloved citizen of this village, great actor, fine gentleman, true friend. 1853-1927."

Notable Acting Group.

Something of the merit of Miss Ayres' productions may be gathered from the inclusion in her casts of Betty Bronson and Carol Stone, youngest daughter of Fred Stone, both making their stage debuts; Janet Beecher, Ian Keith, here last in "Best Seller," last spring; Mrs. Arnold Bennett (Dorothy Chester-Bennett), Roland Drew, screen star of "Ramona;" Florence Rice, daughter of Grantland Rice; Burgess Meredith, Whitney Bourne and James Grainger, young English leading man who scored in London in "Journey's End."

Out of a summer of such activity Miss Ayres certainly deserves a solid hit. We hope she has it.

So Master William C. Ewing—"Bill" to youse guys—drops by to startle this typewriter with the reminder that it was 15 years ago, come the fifteenth of the current month, that we lured him from the comparatively honest endeavors of a rising young commercial artist to the hectic pursuits of the newly organized publicity department of the then Crandall Theater Circuit, sprawling pretty thoroughly over all of Washington and much of the surrounding territory. Mr. Ewing by some miracle grew fast to his desk and has remained attached to it ever since, through Crandall, Stanley Co. and Warner administrations. Yes, tempus does!

Joe Cook Deferred.

The suggestion made here a few days ago to the effect that a serious doubt existed that Joe Cook could be hurried from Boston into New York in his new musical, "Hold Your Horses," to avoid a complete absence of musical entertainment from Broadway, seems to have been well founded.

It was the original intention to install "Hold Your Horses" in the New York Winter Garden next Tuesday, but so emphatic has been the success of the new piece in Boston that it will remain there at least until September 16, wending its way along Broadway's Winter Garden not earlier than the eighteenth.

As things appear at present in the low state of the Gotham theater, there will be only one opening in New York next week, and that one will be Earl Carroll's production of "Murder at the Vanities," scheduled to premiere in the New Amsterdam Theater on Tuesday night, the night on which Mr. Cook was to have crashed the Main Artery in his gay charade, also boasting the talents of Dave Chasen, Ona Munson, Harriet Hoctor and numerous others in the first flight.

Draw Two!

Making good his preseason announcement that the Gayety Theater would present new attractions and new casts each week, following the inaugural "Girls From Paris" offering, Jimmie Lake has booked Al Golden and his "Tru Blu Girls" for the week beginning with matinee performance Sunday.

The featured comedians supporting Golden are "Hap" Hyatt, Abe Sheer and Joe De Rita, with Lilian Dixon, Mae Dix and Zuleka, a dancer, direct from the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, looking to the feminine honors.

The title of the attractions bears a strangely pat relationship to the newly opened annex to his entertainment enterprises which Mr. Lake is conducting over the lobby of his playhouse!

Another of those eleventh-hour changes of mind on the part of the powers that be in the booking office results in the cancellation of Alice Brady, Madge Evans and Otto Kruger in "Beauty for Sale," as the screen attraction coming to Loew's Fox the week of Friday, September 15, and the substitution of Will Rogers in "Dr. Bull," Fox Films' adaptation of James Gould Cozzens' novel of "The Last Adam." In this subject, which seriously distorts the book, the cowboy-philosopher is supported by Louise Dresser, Vera Allen, Marian Nixon, Ralph Morgan, Berton Churchill and Andy Devine. The longer ago you read the book, the better the picture will be; if you have never read it at all, you are practically sitting pretty!

Turning Back the Pages.

An interesting display of Washington theater programs of an almost forgotten era is on view in the lobby of Loew's Fox Theater in conjunction with the booking of Joe Laurie, jr.'s, "Memory Lane," as the stage attraction for the week beginning today.

The programs are of performances presented in the National Theater and the Theater Comique back in the '70s and '80s. One of the most interesting of these is a National program when the house was leased by John T. Ford and managed by H. Clay Ford. The programmed attraction is of the world-renowned players, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence, who, with their own company, presented "The Mighty Dollar," one of their most famous vehicles. This was the week of March 20, 1876—Philadelphia Centennial year.

The Theater Comique, on the other hand, catered to "variety" audiences, and presented vaudeville programs composed of "name" acts long since forgotten. These shows ran principally to acrobats, dancers and novelty gymnasts, judging from the listed "artists."

An Old Landmark.

The old Comique had its inception, one is led to believe, on the site of the old Postoffice Department Building at Eleventh, Twelfth and the Avenue—the one with the clock in the tower.

Crowded out by the P. O. structure, the Comique moved around the corner back of Harvey's Restaurant to Eleventh and C streets. Theaters on the same approximate location subsequently were known as Kernan's Lyceum, the President, &c., which is getting down sufficiently near the present to lose all point to the antiquarians.

Many old-time performers, whose careers date back almost as far as the programs in the lobby of Loew's Fox, take part in Joe Laurie's "Memory Lane," a revue that has scored tremendously wherever it has been presented.

So Columbia Pictures took Nellie, the apple woman—Nellie McCarthy, aged 73—out for 24 hours of New York high life as an exploitation stunt for "Lady For A Day."

One case where an apple a day didn't keep the boxoffice doctors away!

This Gentleman Nabs a Crook!

In the picturization of Arthur Somers Roche's baffling yarn of a penthouse murder, Warner Baxter impersonates the young ostracized attorney who penetrates the riddle of the violent death and brings its perpetrator face to face with the electric chair. The picture, simply enough, is called "Penthouse." It opens today at Loew's Fox Theater.

Letter Bares Secret Love Of Movie Star

Wife Tells of Finding Note From Claire Windsor to Al Read.

Los Angeles, Sept. 7 (AP).—A torn-up love letter she found in the waste basket of her husband's Hollywood hotel room apprised Mrs. Marian Young Read, of Oakland, of his affair with Claire Windsor, it was testified by Mrs. Read today in her $100,000 alienation of affections suit against the screen and stage actress.

The society matron told of a trip to Hollywood at the request of Alfred Read, jr., former Oakland broker, from whom she is now divorced.

"Al had me come down to Hollywood one time," Mrs. Read testified in answer to a question by Wilbur Pierce, attorney for Miss Windsor, as to when she first found the actress' love letters.

Pasted Bits Together.

"I went to his room," Mrs. Read continued, "and in the waste basket I found a letter torn up. I got it out and pasted it together. It was a love letter from Miss Windsor. I mailed it to my mother in Oakland."

"And on the way back to Oakland did you quarrel with him about it?"

"Yes, we quarreled all the way back. Al promised to break up the affair. When we got back we went to his office and from the bottom drawer of his desk he got out a packet of letters from Miss Windsor.

"We took them over to a hotel and I read them. They contained the same endearing terms of the other letters. We made a bonfire of them in the fireplace."

Has Secretary Discharged.

The "other letters" were the series of love missives between Miss Windsor and Read introduced in the trial by counsel for Mrs. Read.

At another point in the cross-examination, Mrs. Read testified she induced her husband to discharge his private secretary, Miss Clarisse Champion, of San Francisco, who came here Tuesday as a witness for Miss Windsor.

10,000 Got "Medicine" In Year in Nevada

Carson City, Nev., Sept. 7 (AP).—Ten thousand prescriptions for medicinal liquor were enough to supply needs of Nevada's 90,000 inhabitants last year.

The State collects a 50 cents tax on each prescription, according to the annual report of the State controller issued today.

Man, Saved From Own Slashing, Leaps to Death

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Benjamin Arnold, 60, would not be saved from self-inflicted death.

Shortly after a surgeon sewed up his throat, which he had slashed in a suicidal attempt today, Arnold escaped his restraining straps and leaped from the fifth floor of the county hospital.

Add Worries: It's Nostalgia That Runs—or Ruins—Life

Psychologist Says Even Sex Is Not as Strong as Homesickness.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Man's feelings of nostalgia, although slight and often unrecognized, may furnish a more powerful drive to regulate his conduct than sex or ego, the American Psychological Association was told today.

Psychologists from all over the country gathered here to begin their annual meeting. The "nostalgic Sentiments" opened a week's discussion of conduct which will range from babies and monkeys to split personalities.

Beardsley Ruml, University of Chicago, said common homesickness is an extreme form of nostalgia.

Found in Animals.

"Nostalgia is commonly noted in primitive peoples," he added, "and therefore is not associated with a particular culture. Behavior of typically nostalgic character is observed in animals, as in the dog.

"The cohesive influence in the maintenance of the family is certainly more nostalgic than sexual and probably more nostalgic than egoic."

If you wish to drive home to adults in the quickest way the meanings of written words, use plenty of sentences having introductory conditional clauses. The words "although" or "because" are very good starters.

This was reported by B. F. Holland, of the University of Texas, as the result of taking motion pictures of eye movements during the reading of geography.

Reader Is Timed.

The pictures showed just how long the reader took for each sentence. They caught his eyes pausing, even when the delay was only one twenty-fifth of a second.

Only children were found to read short, simple sentences more rapidly than the opening conditional clause type. The reason Dr. Holland found in adult habits of mind, in pausing to get a "mental set" or "expectancy."

Colorado Repeal Voting Doubtful

Senator Walker, Wet, Says Drys Have Chance.

Grand Junction, Colo., Sept. 7 (AP).—U. S. Senator Walter Walker, who for years has advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment, declared today an informal survey made in the western slope counties indicated much doubt as to the outcome of Tuesday's special election in this part of the State.

There is every indication of a light vote, he says, expressing belief that the chances this time favor the dry side.

Prohibition forces have arranged a rally here for Sunday night, with F. Scott McBride, head of the National Antisaloon League, as the principal speaker.

Husband Asks Alimony While He Seeks Divorce

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Albert Baxter, 60, who lives near Elgin, asked the circuit court today to order his wife to pay him temporary alimony while he sues her for divorce.

"I'm out of a job and have nothing to buy food," he pleaded. Attorneys for Mrs. Margaret Baxter objected and a hearing was set.

Woman Unmoved By Killing Charge

Comely Mother Held in Stabbing of Admirer.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Millie Prince, 31, comely mother of a 10-year-old son, was arraigned on a charge of homicide today in connection with the fatal stabbing yesterday of Charles J. Wolfert, 56, Queens jeweler, whom she had accused of annoying her with his attentions.

She was held without bail for grand jury action.

Asked if she wished a lawyer, she shrugged and replied:

"I don't care for one. I don't care for anything at all."

Her arraignment took place before the same magistrate who released Wolfert with a warning last June 16, when he was brought into court on a disorderly conduct charge preferred by Mrs. Prince, who said he had been annoying her.

Francis G. Addison, jr., chairman of the board of the Washington bureau, and Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, District Commissioner, will make the addresses of welcome. The annual banquet will be held Tuesday night, with election of officers scheduled for Wednesday.

Lamson Tries To Show Wife Died From Fall

Stanford Press Official's Counsel Puts Expert on Stand.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP).—A defense attempt to show the death of Mrs. Allene Thrope Lamson might have been the result of an accidental fall instead of from wounds made by an iron pipe in the hands of her husband, David A. Lamson, was begun today after the accused man had undergone a long siege of quizzing.

The young Standford University press representative contradicted state evidence suggesting there had been marital trouble in his home; that Mrs. Lamson had used subterfuge to evade his amorous advances, and that he had told varying stories to officers last May 30 after crying his wife had been murdered.

The defense called Dr. Charles M. Richards, X-ray specialist, who testified he had examined plates showing four wounds in Mrs. Lamson's skull.

Defense Attorney E. M. Rea asked Dr. Richards whether all the fractures shown could have been caused by one fall. The prosecution objected on the theory that the question was one for the jury, and a long argument ensued.

An enamel wash bowl, such as the one in the bath of the Lamson's home, scene of the tragedy, was brought into court by the defense, suggesting Rea would seek to show Mrs. Lamson may have fallen against it.

5 CARLOADS of New AIR-COOLED Gas REFRIGERATORS

Permanently silent..no machinery.. constantly cold..plenty of ice cubes

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

This is exceptionally good news for many Washington families who have held off buying an automatic refrigerator on the belief that prices would not go up. They have gone up on many nationally known makes, including Electrolux, the new air-cooled gas refrigerator. BUT HERE'S THE SURPRISE!

We have a number of popular household models, stocked before the rise, to meet the demand which has been evidenced by increasing sales throughout the summer. They are now being sold at pre-rise prices and lower. But even this stock, in a city of half a million people, cannot last long!

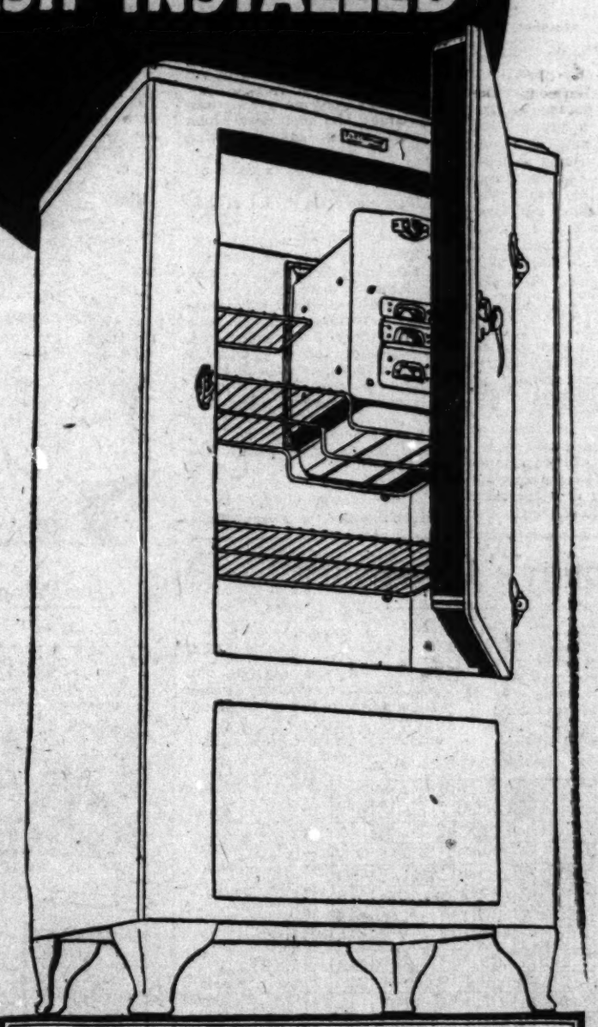
The gas refrigerator is as far ahead of other automatic refrigerators as they were ahead of the old ice box. It has no machinery. No moving parts at all! Nothing but a tiny gas flame to circulate a harmless refrigerant which brings about constant, steady cold. And the fact that it has no machinery means that it is absolutely dependable. Nothing to break down! Nothing to wear out! Just perfect refrigeration as it should be without a bit of worry or additional expense on your part.

Electrolux makes no noise! Nobody ever wanted a noisy refrigerator, but in the past all automatic refrigerators depended upon complicated machinery, which could never get away from some noise. In addition to all this, the gas refrigerator costs less to operate than old-fashioned refrigeration and less than any other automatic refrigerator. Which is a double reason for buying NOW.

Prices on most refrigerators have gone up, while these are still down. Naturally, you know what will happen —especially since only a small down payment is needed and the balance can be spread over 30 small monthly installments.

The Refrigeration Department, District 8500, will be glad to answer telephone or mail inquiries; explain all about this marvelous refrigerator! But ACT NOW before it is too late!

$129.50 CASH-INSTALLED

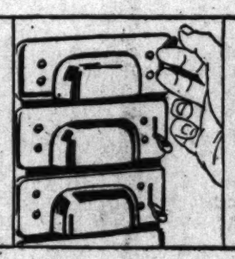


SILENCE

No noise ever to disturb you or your guests. That's because the gas refrigerator has no moving parts—nothing to vibrate or make noise.

PLENTY OF ICE CUBES

Enough at all times for ordinary Summer needs. But should any unusual need arise, freezing can be speeded up by use of the conveniently located temperature regulator.

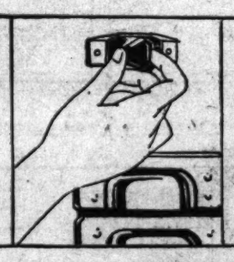


AUTOMATIC TRIGGER RELEASE

—for all ice trays. No more tugging at trays that freeze tight to the cooling unit. A flip of the trigger and the tray releases! As simple as that!

ADJUSTABLE FOOD SHELVES

—an important feature, now that tall, dark bottles have become the vogue. The bottom shelf is split in two sections. Remove half, or the entire shelf—and you have room for plenty of bottles or even an extra large roast.



NON-STOP DEFROSTING

Even when you defrost this refrigerator milk and vegetables have no chance to spoil, for refrigeration continues in the food compartment while the chilling unit alone is affected. Just turn the dial to "defrost"!

This spacious model, with 6.7 sq. ft. of shelf area has been reduced BELOW PRE-RISE PRICES, making it possible for you to buy at this extremely low figure. With a small carrying charge it can be purchased on easy terms for

ABOUT 15 CENTS A DAY

This means that only a small down payment is needed and you have

30 MONTHS TO PAY

(You don't have to put aside money each day. The 15 cents figure is used to illustrate the low breakdown of small monthly payments.)

Walt Mason, Himself

Keeping Young.

My step is feeble now and slow, my withers badly wrung, my whiskers like the driven snow, but still I'm feeling young. The world looks just as good to me, with all its jazzy tricks, as when my age was 23, or maybe 26. I like to read amusing tales when in my home at night; they're better than the long-drawn wails that doleful people write. I'd hear the joyous song emerge from out my gramophone; it's better than the dreary dirge that's based upon a moan. I like to train with younger gents, in whom ambition springs; the graybeards always make laments for dead and bygone things. I always read the sporting page when comes the daily sheet; too often men in wintry age despise athletic feat. They care not for the baseball games, which should delight afford; they'd rather bunch their weary frames around a checkerboard. They care not for a rattling fight between two classy pugs; they'd rather talk of aches all night, and dope themselves with drugs. They care not who may win a prize upon the cinder track; they'd rather feast their jaded eyes upon their hoarded jack. They only think of years gone by, that long since saw their close; so they are dead before they die, so far as living goes. As I go chasing o'er the lea, to put my watch in pawn, today looks better far to me than any day that's gone.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—The numerous sidewalk cafes in that block on Fifty-first street are irresistible since an operatic scissors grinder began to ply his trade along there.

Gives one rather a Continental feeling when sipping 3.2 at tables semisecluded from pedestrians by low, green hedges, while the scissors grinder at the curb sings, in a full tenor voice, arias from "Faust" and "Rigoletto."

He wheels his little grindstone into the block daily just as the luncheon crowds are gathering, and there's a method in his manner. The cafe owners, realizing that their customers enjoy his singing, go out of their way to provide him with enough cutlery to sharpen to keep him there a couple of hours daily also bed rooms for members to stay in town overnight.

The chief feature, however, is a locker for each member in which he keeps a full set of evening wear. If he is going to the theater, concert or some other function in town, he goes direct from office to club and changes to evening clothes before stepping out.

Incidentally, the Vanderbilt still preserves "The Crypt," that famous underground bar where "Diamond Jim" Brady came nightly to partake of dinner which usually began with two dozen Lynhaven oysters and reached its high point with an entree of two canvasback ducks.

Clubby Commuters.

Instead of town houses, which they once maintained to keep open only a few months each winter, the wealthier commuters from Westchester, Long Island, and the Oranges in New Jersey now have town lockers. It all came about when a group of men decided that if they maintained their rural estates, they would find it too expensive to have town houses, too.

The Park Avenue Club is the result. It occupies three complete floors atop the Vanderbilt. It consists of private dining rooms, backgammon and bridge rooms, library and gymnasium rooms. There are Footlight Memories.

In each of the half-dozen or so famous old restaurants, which attracted celebrities in the "Diamond Jim" era, you still will see three theatrical portraits.

In their massive black frames they are impressive, dignified and familiar. One is of Mrs. Leslie Carter, showing her standing, her head erect and tilted slightly backward, a memory from her "DuBarry" days. Another is of Rose Stahl, with her pensive face supported by the palm of her hand and elbow resting on the arm of her chair. This photograph, surely, was taken during the reign of "The Chorus Lady."

The third picture is that ever-recurring study of Elsie Ferguson, the one that must date back to "Such a Little Queen," the one with her hair knotted in front and a wide, curious stare in her eyes.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

The German Hiker.

A CABLE from Berlin carries the information that the German government has created a bureau to promote hiking and has put a physician in charge, with the title of commissar. Such a bureau would rank about on a level with our Federal Bureau of Education and United States Public Health Service.

In the German plan for the promotion of public health, building muscles, training in posture, and developing wind and endurance have always been prominent. They appear to proceed upon the theory that a good physique ranks with vaccination, sanitation, and quarantine as measures for the prevention of disease. So important do they hold physical development to be that they have never been willing to leave it wholly to the individual. In the old days they promoted turner societies and group gymnasium activities and they required military training with its setting up exercises, posture requirements, and compusory living according to the laws of hygiene.

They still go in for the great gymnasium societies, if we may call them such, and they foster as much military training as conditions will permit. The newer development is an enormous growth of the German hiking system. This is a part of the German youth movement.

Just how the new bureau will go about developing their field remains to be seen. Such a bureau functioning well enough to justify its existence must go far in the field of physical education.

Spots on Face.

M. C. C. writes: I am bothered with white spots appearing on my face and neck. These spots are usually the size of a quarter, sometimes larger, and are very white.

1. Are these so-called liver spots?

2. Is this condition a skin disease?

3. How may I rid myself of these spots?

REPLY.

1. No. Liver spots are brown.

2. This condition is called vitiligo. Also Leucoderma.

3. Probably the most satisfactory method is to keep them tinted to about the shade of the surrounding skin. This can be done with the juice of walnuts, or with this juice reinforced by dyes. The use of any dye requires some care and skill. Many persons who try to dye such spots are too careless to get satisfactory results. The reports that have had from curative treatments are very uneven. Many have been disappointed.

Banking Class Graduations Set Sept. 16

Chapters Throughout Nation to Be Addressed by Newton D. Baker.

Washington Chapter and the 228 other chapters of the American Institute of Banking will hold simultaneous graduation exercises on the evening of September 16 in cities throughout the country. Arrangements have been made by the national institute with the National Broadcasting Co., so that the chapters can hear a joint commencement address by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War.

Mr. Baker, who will be introduced by Dr. Harold Stonier, national educational director of the institute, will speak on the subject "Educated Bankers."

This country-wide commencement, declared to be the first of its kind ever held by any educational enterprise, has been rendered possible through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Co., that has made its coast-to-coast network available for the event, which will start at 8 p. m., Eastern standard time.

A. B. A. Educational Section.

The Institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association, and conducts local schools, or chapters, for bank workers in 229 towns and cities, with an enrollment of more than 30,000. More than 2,000 will receive their graduation certificates this year. Each chapter will conduct its own local exercises on the 16th, but at 8 o'clock they will all be drawn together in a national event by the speech addressed to them over the radio by Mr. Baker.

The institute faculty consists of more than 1,000 instructors and hundreds of special lecturers scattered throughout the Nation in the various cities where classes are conducted. They are selected in each locality from among the leading bankers, lawyers and teachers from schools and colleges. At the graduation exercises three types of certificates will be awarded.

Prestandard certificates will be awarded to students who have completed the prestandard courses, which deal with bank organization and operation; commercial law, negotiable instruments and economics.

Standard certificates will be given to those who have completed the standard courses, which pertain to money and banking, credit management, analysis of financial statements and bank management. Special graduate certificates also will be issued to those students who have completed their standard certificate courses and pursued their studies further in certain phases of banking.

Constance Fogle Appointed.

Robert H. Lacey, cashier, Columbia National Bank and president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Bankin, announced yesterday the appointment of Constance D. Fogle, Riggs National Bank, as chairman of the women's committee of the chapter for the new administrative year.

Other members of this committee are Vivian E. Stokes, of the personnel of the proposed Hamilton National Bank, secretary; Katherine W. McCalmont, W. B. Hibbs & Co., treasurer; Harriet Barrett, Riggs National Bank; Anne P. Crawford, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Sally Finley and Alcena L. White, American Security & Trust Co.; Rosalie Goodhart, Second National Bank; Myrtle P. Lewis and Gertrude C. Wick, Liberty National Bank; Etheline E. Parker, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Laila M. Sloat, National Metropolitan Bank; Rebecca Smoak, National Savings & Trust Co.; Anne C. Sullivan, Morris Plan Bank, and Alice H. Whitton, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va.

The chairman, Miss Fogle, has been actively identified with Washington Chapter for several years, having served as assistant secretary in 1931-32 and secretary in 1932-33. She has previously been a member of the educational, banquet, women's and publicity committees. Miss Fogle was on the American Institute of Banking debate team in 1931-32 and participated in debates with Richmond and Baltimore chapters, and a delegate to the national convention in Chicago last June.

Miss Fogle holds the degree of LL. B. from National University Law School; is a member of the District of Columbia Bar and former chancellor of Kappa Beta Pi (International) Legal Sorority, Omicron Chapter.

Plans for Convention

MISS RUTH I. GORDON named secretary of the general committee for the national convention of the American Institute of Banking here next year.

Decline in Steel Output Lessens As Fall Opens

Average of 45 Per Cent May Be Increased by New Business.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Operations in the steel industry continue to decline, though the recession is slower than recently, Iron Age said today.

It estimated the current national average at 45 per cent of capacity, compared with 47 per cent last week, 50 per cent a fortnight ago and 53 per cent three weeks ago. New business, the review stated, is being held back pending a final adjustment of market practices to the conditions imposed by the iron and steel code, although there has been an increase in specifications against third-quarter contracts closed at precode prices.

Automobile production for September is estimated at between 185,000 and 190,000 cars, against approximately 230,000 for August. Automotive consumption of steel is declining, "although not at a rapid rate."

Production of pig iron in August, Iron Age reported, was 1,833,394 tons, or 59,142 tons a day, compared with 1,792,452 tons, or a daily average of 57,821 tons, in July. Pig iron producers have reaffirmed current prices for the fourth quarter and are booking more new business, relatively, than steel makers, but output is beginning to reflect smaller requirements for steel production. There was a net loss of 8 blast furnaces in August, 98 being in operation on September 1.

Week's Bank Clearings Drop Under Year Ago

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Bank clearings at leading American cities for the first week of September, covering five business days, totaled $3,657,319,000, says Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. This was 5.9 per cent under a year ago and $239,513,000 smaller than for the six days at the end of August, whereas last year there was a rise of $99,732,000 in the period covering practically the same two weeks.

Bond Market Drops Slightly In Dull Trading

Strength of Federal Loans Provides Cheerful Note; Sales, $8,391,000.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—The bond market displayed an irregularly lower trend again today in trading that was even duller than that of yesterday.

The quiet strength of United States Government securities was the one cheerful note in an otherwise rather gloomy session. Most of the Treasury and Liberty issues were up two thirty-seconds to five thirty-seconds of a point, principally on the prospect that the Reserve System would increase its open market purchases of Government obligations. The new Treasury 3¼s equaled their high at 101.8.

Secondary corporate loans, as a whole, were weak on small turnovers. Among rails off 1 to around 3 points were some liens of Alleghany. Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Central Pacific, Chicago & North Western, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, St. Louis Southwestern, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

A few of the industrials improved moderately. Among these were issues of Houston Oil, National Dairy, National Steel, Old Ben Coal, Remington Arms, Shell Union Oil, Sinclair Oil and United Drug. Warner Bros. 6s were comparatively active at a gain of 2 points. Utility and industrial losers included bonds of American & Foreign Power, American Metal, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Western Union.

German loans were down 1 to 3 points, probably reflecting European political uncertainties and disappointment over the delay in the transfer of cash and blocked mark certificates under the Reichsbank agreement. Other foreign bonds were mixed.

Sales totaled $8,391,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate maturities sagged one-tenth of a point.

Stocks Lose Ground; Leaders Less Active

Declines Remain Moderate, Averaging 1.3 Points as Trading Reflects Professional Operations; Volume of Turnover Drops to 1,070,770.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Stocks drifted lazily to a lower closing today.

Losses for shares were moderate and volume remained light. The market plainly lacked incentive for much shift of position either way, and seemed to be largely in the hands of professional traders who sold in the afternoon after the list had failed to follow an early rally by the oils.

With basic industrial statistics still testifying to a slackening of productive activity, Wall street is currently awaiting light on what the fall season has in store for business. Particular importance is attached to the eventual trend because of the code regulations which soon should be in full swing; meanwhile, the financial community is in a state of uncertainty.

A feature of today's stock trading, which totaled 1,070,770 shares, was the inactivity of many market leaders. Allied Chemical, General Motors, Santa Fe American Telephone and others turned over in limited amounts. Steel issues again found their support thin, both U. S. and Bethlehem losing about a point and a half. Westinghouse, Case, Union Carbide, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific were off around 1 to 1½. For General Electric, Chrysler, National Biscuit, American Tobacco "B," North American, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio and U. S. smelting the losses were fractional.

Seaboard up more than 2, was a strong oil, but other members of that section lost heart after their forenoon effort. Alcohol issues were soggy. Homestake Mining lost several points, apparently because traders sold on the "good news" of the dividend expansion. American Telephone, whose July earnings increased rather sharply over a year ago, was steady to firm.

Corning Grade Oil Price Is Increased Ten Cents

Pittsburgh, Sept. 7 (AP).—An increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of corning grade crude oil in Buckeye pipe lines was announced today by purchaing agencies. The new price is $1.05.

All Pennsylvania grades advanced 10 cents yesterday.

Stocks—Prices drifted lower as leaders became less active. Losses averaged 1.3 points. Professional operations were reflected in trading. Sales volume decreased to 1,070,770 shares.

Bonds—Dull trading caused the market to sag irregularly. Losses averaged one-tenth of a point. Sales totaled $8,391,000.

Curb—Steadiness in prices yielded under a dribbling of selling and numerous losses of fractions to 1 point were recorded. The turnover decreased to 231,000 shares.

Wheat—Uncertainties of the Government crop report, due Monday, caused wheat to slump. Rural hedging in Canada was blamed also. September wheat sold at 83⅛; May at 90⅞.

Cotton.

Crop report uncertainties caused cotton to decline 13 to 17 points after an early advance. December sold at 9.22, October, at 9.01.

Rubber.

Crude futures closed easy. September sold at 6.87, December at 7.22 to 7.23.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was steadier. It sold 5 points higher, at 3.65. Refined was unchanged, at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was quiet. Rio No. 7 sold at 7½, Santos No. 4 at 9.

Silver.

Bar silver was steadier. It sold in New York ¼ higher, at 37 cents per ounce.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London at 131 shillings.

Dollar.

The United States dollar stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.54½ to the English pound; 5.64 cents to the French franc, and 34.38 cents to the German mark.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Flour—General Mills, Inc., summarizing activities of approximately 90 per cent of the flour mills in the principal milling centers of the United States, reports a cumulative production since June 30 of 10,052,155 barrels compared with 10,946,374 barrels in the same period of 1932.

Pig Iron—Demand is reported exceedingly dull due largely to the fact that foundrymen have not yet perfected their costs. The August out of blast furnaces was slightly lower and it is believed the general tendency will be uniformly downward in September.

Paints—Some lines have been able to book business for immediate shipment, but buying enthusiasm apparently is lagging, especially in varnish gums. So far orders that have been placed for fall delivery are small in the aggregate.

Essential oils—Some satisfactory orders already have been placed, but dealers say it is still too early for immediate September business. Price fluctuations at present are narrow and no unusual activity has been noted.

Chemicals—Although there has been a seasonal let-down in the demand from steel and other consuming industries, dealers are fairly cheerful over prospects for future business. The recent lull has been welcomed by producers in view of the tight position in caustic soda, chlorine, muriatic acid and formic.

Wool Market.

Boston, Sept. 7 (A. P.) (U. S. Dept. Agr.).—The finer grades of Western grown wool are moving freely and prices are very strong. Graded strictly combing 64s and finer territory wools bring 80-82 cents, scoured basis, while original bag lines of similar quality and good strictly combing staple sell at around 80 cents. Good French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags bring 77-79 cents scoured basis and short French combing lines are firm at around 75 cents.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

The position of the Treasury September 5 was: Receipts, $22,942,590.21; expenditures, $32,631,871.89; balance, $1,197,714,685.21; customs receipts for the month, $4,195,298.26.

Receipts for the fiscal year to date (since July 1), $392,484,861.91; expenditures, $624,206,633.40 (including $218,196,582.54 emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $231,721,771.49.

Reserve Bank Credit Rises by $37,000,000

Daily Average Advances Total $2,304,000,000; Under '32 Period.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended September 6, as reported by the Federal Reserve Banks, was $2,304,000,000, an increase of $37,000,000, compared with the preceding week, and a decrease of $26,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

On September 6, total Reserve Bank credit amounted to $2,330,000,000, an increase of $32,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponded with increases of $56,000,000 in money in circulation and $12,000,000 in member banks reserve balances, offset in part by an increase of $11,000,000 in Treasury currency, adjusted, and a decrease of $25,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c.

Bills discounted decreased $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco; $2,000,000 each at Boston, New York and Philadelphia and $8,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks. The system's holding of bills bought in open market and of United States bonds showed virtually no change for the week.

Holdings of United States Treasury notes increased $14,000,000 and of Treasury certificates and bills, $23,000,000. Changes in the amount of Reserve Bank credit outstanding and in related items during the week and the year ended September 6, 1933, follow, shown in millions of dollars:

Dutch Investor Is Confused by Events in U. S.

Amsterdam Watches Results of NRA; Faith in Dollar Grows.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Amsterdam financial market, which follows Wall street more closely than any other in Europe, has been thrown into complete confusion over the American situation by the swiftly moving events on this side of the Atlantic.

Deeply suspicious of any form of currency manipulation, Dutch investors to a considerable extent unloaded their holdings of American securities during the rise in Wall street, which culminated in July.

The wealthy capital center is now anxiously watching the NRA. Highest banking quarters express the earnest hope that the experiment prove successful, and that its objectives may be achieved without recourse to drastically inflationary measures.

Fears of Dollar Lessen.

Holland is less fearful of dollar depreciation than it was early in the summer, when gold was streaming out of the Bank of the Netherlands, and Dutch funds were being transferred to London. But Holland was too close to the postwar inflation in Germany to be anything but alarmed at currency tinkering.

The Dutch gold standard received support from an unexpected quarter. When the Dominions began bringing pressure on England this summer to reduce the pound sterling in its ratio to the gold currencies, Dutch funds which had been sent to London on the theory that sterling was fully depreciated, and the guilder perhaps not, began to go home.

The trim barges of the Amsterdam canals began to tie up in front of the austere gray stone Bank of the Netherlands, bringing yellow metal back, to be sloaded on the little four-wheeled truck which is pushed across the pavement to enter the bank through a low archway protected by a heavy iron gate.

Dangers to Gold.

But it is recognized that further sharp depreciation in both sterling and the dollar, as against the gold currencies, might make the position of the Dutch gold standard difficult.

In the meantime, the Amsterdam Stock Exchange, which resembles the New York Exchange, both in its prompt settlements and the organization of its trading floor, more than any other European exchange, is becalmed.

American securities listed there are more numerous than in any foreign market save London, and arbitrage with New York remains an important part of the trading. The financial news in the morning newspapers is concentrated on Wall street, the Amsterdam lists having been published in the afternoon editions.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Although business on the stock exchange was restricted today, prices were cheerful. Home rails, however, lost ground on realizing. Gilt-edged securities opened firm but closed under the best in some cases. German bonds registered renewed weakness owing to nervousness regarding that country's financial position and international issues drooped slightly. The market closed steady.

Paris—Irregularity in the foreign markets influenced quotations on the bourse, prices declining after recording earlier gains. The closing was irregular.

Berlin—Despite the small business done, prices on the boerse were resistant. Irregularity developed later owing to the decline in steel shares. The closing was quiet.

Bank of England.

London, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 1,203,000: circulation increased 1,223,000: bullion decreased 7,000; other securities increased 447,000: public deposits decreased 20,506,000; other deposits increased 20,046,000: notes reserve decreased 1,221,000; government securities increased 340,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 46.64 per cent, compared with 47.26 last week.

Rate of discount 2 per cent.

Bank of France.

Paris, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 51,000,000; sight balances abroad unchanged; bills discounted at home decreased 573,000,000; bills bought abroad decreased 13,000,000; advances increased 75,000,000; circulation increased 1,723,000,000; current accounts decreased 1,947,000,000.

Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

Metal Market.

New York, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—COPPER—Quiet; electrolytic, spot and future, 9 asked.

TIN—Easy; spot and nearby, 45.10; future, 45.37.

IRON—Quiet; unchanged.

ZINC—Barely steady; East St. Louis, spot and future, 4.65.

ANTIMONY—Spot, 6.87.

Steady Curb Market Yields Under Selling

Numerous Losses Listed as Turnover Declines to 231,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Forenoon steadiness in the curb market gave way to a dribbling of selling in the late trading today, which resulted in numerous closing losses of fraction to more than a point.

Trading remained in the doldrums, sales approximating 231,000 shares, compared with 262,000 Wednesday. A moderate demand for oils caused a slight stir in the initial dealings, but gains in that category were reduced at the finish. Gulf Oil canceled a 2-point gain and then sagged a point under its previous closing.

Offerings in leading utilities were fairly persistent. Recessions of about a point were registered by Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric and Commonwealth Edison. Kreuger Brewing advanced 1 in active dealings, but other members of the distilling group were narrowly mixed.

Aluminum Co. of America suffered a major loss, sagging 4 points. A. O. Smith lost 3 points while other shares conceding around a point included Bristol-Myers, Newmont, Lake Shore Mines and Sherwin-Williams.

Power Production Gains During Week

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Electric power output for the week ended Sept. 2, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute today, was 11.8 per cent over the like period a year ago, the smallest increase of the summer. The comparative gain for the previous week was 13.5 per cent.

Production totaled 1,637,317,000 kilowatt hours for the current report, an increase of approximately 7,000,000 kilowatt hours over the week ended August 26, and comparing with 1,464,700,000 kilowatt hours for the week ended Sept. 3, 1932.

In the Rocky Mountian district, output last week was 23.1 per cent over a year ago, compared with a rise of 27.1 per cent in the previous week.

Other districts reported the following gains over 1932; New England, 12.7 per cent compared with 16.5 the previous week; Middle Atlantic, 6.8; per cent against 10.2; Central industrial, 17.4 per cent, against 18.2; West Central, 1.9 against 3.8; Southern States, 9.9 against 11.6; and Pacific coast 5 per cent against 5.9.

Newberry Sales Increase.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—J. J. Newberry Co. reports August sales at $2,847,362, an increase of 11.7 per cent over the same month last year.

Wheat Slumps On Fears of Crop Report

Pressure of Rural Hedging in Canada Is Blamed; All Grains Down.

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Uncertainties attached to expected Government crop reports made their disturbing influence felt ahead of time today, and wheat prices tumbled almost 2 cents a bushel.

Although the September crop summary from Washington is not due until Monday, buyers back away from the grain pits nearly from the outset, and values reached their lowest level just before business ended.

Pressure of rural hedging sales of wheat at Winnipeg, with quotations there upheld only by an artificial minimum limit, had more or less bearish effect here.

Wheat Closes Weak.

Wheat in Chicago closed weak, 1⅞ to 1⅞ under yesterday's finish; corn, 1⅛ to 1⅜ down; oats, 1 to 1⅛ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to an equal advance.

Right after the opening, the Chicago wheat market received a jolt from an authoritative estimate that feeding of domestic wheat to live stock this season would amount to only 65,000,000 bushels, compared with 138,000,000 in 1932. Another disconcerting factor was enlarged shipments from Russia, 944,000 bushels this week, against 286,000 the week previous.

Selling of May wheat by Eastern houses, presumably in the nature of a liquidation, was a feature of the late dealings, when the market touched its bottom figures for the day.

Downturns in Prices.

Downturns of wheat prices were in the face of indications of a probable decrease of more than 500,000,000 in this year's wheat production of Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia, as compared with 1932.

Diminishing of domestic wheat arrivals, together with persistent drought in Argentina, also was virtually ignored. Some buying of wheat for mills took place in Chicago, but otherwise the interest of purchasers appeared to be nearly at a minimum, especially on the part of speculators and the general public.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat, and as a result of weather that forced the corn crop fast toward maturity.

Provisions averaged lower, governed mainly by the course of hog values.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—August sales of S. H. Kress & Co. totaled $5,416,829, against $4,861,610 a year ago, an increase of 11.4 per cent.

Industrial Rayon Corporation today declared a dividend of $1, payable October 1 to holders of record September 18. Three months ago the dividend was increased to 75 cents from 50 cents.

Total freight loadings of the Pennsylvania Railroad System last week were 102,965 cars, as compared with 97,579 in the previous week and 80,619 a year ago.

August sales of J. C. Penney Co. rose 32.1 per cent over the same month of 1932, totaling $13,203,842, against $10,747,070 a year ago.

August sales of S. S. Kresge Co. amounted to $9,920,932, an increase of 12.6 per cent over a year ago.

Stocks of zinc in the United States on August 31 totaled 100,247 short tons, as compared with 109,140 at the end of July, and 133,153 a year ago, says the American Zinc Institute. Production last month aggregated 33,550 tons, against 30,905 in July, and 13,611 in August, 1932.

Although signs of a lull in Canadian business activity are now "clearly discernible," the slackening is not only more gradual than a year ago, but also seems less general, says S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. "Thus," he adds, "while the heavy industries are not so active as a month ago, those of the secondary class have either maintained or actually improved their position."

Early reports of freight loadings on the country's railroads last week indicate a gain over the previous week. The first nine roads to report traffic on their own lines moved 146,884 cars, compared with 143,437 in the week ended August 26, an increase of 2.4 per cent.

August output of Dome Mines, Ltd., a gold producer, came to $367,321, as compared with $359,520 in July.

Further Order On Gold to Be New Weapon

(Associated Press.)

The new Executive order requiring holders of gold to file returns with the Treasury, asserting this to be the case is to be made the Government's principal weapon in its drive against gold hoarding.

This was divulged yesterday by Attorney General Cummings, who said this method offered a much simpler form of prosecution than action based upon the actual holding of gold.

The Executive order in question, signed by President Roosevelt on August 29, requires that before September 18, every person or firm having more than $100 in gold bullion or gold certificates shall fill out prescribed forms issued by the Treasury.

In the meantime, Justice Department agents are interviewing again each known gold horder in an effort to have him comply voluntarily with the requirements of Mr. Roosevelt's orders. This method, Cummings said, has proved extremely effective to date.

When the first antihording order was issued, he added, more than 5,000 individuals had gold in their possession and were interviewed. That number has been reduced to 320 holding an average of about $4,100 each. The Justice Department today in a statement said:

"The list of names of persons and firms allegedly in possession of gold and failing to return the same, as sent to the field offices on August 26, contained 320 names, representing a total amount of gold in hoarding of $1,313,553.61."

To Build Modernistic Span.

Boston (U.P.).—Modernistic design has been extended to drawbridges. A new span to be built across the Mystic River in suburban Medford will feature an invisible draw, with machinery, counterweights and all else concealed.

Spain's Unemployment Found Less Than in Most Countries

Madrid, Sept. 7 (AP).—The first official statistics on unemployment in Spain show that the country is comparatively free from this social and economic burden which is gravely affecting other nations. There are recorded only 285,898 idle Spanish workmen, a little more than 1 per cent of the nation's population of about 25,000,000.

It is stated, however, that the facilities of the government data bureau do not completely cover the country and the figure may be somewhat larger. The figures were compiled from city, town, province and labor bureau statistics, with official statements from all labor organizations, except the Anarco-Syndicalists, who refused to aid the census workers.

The report shows that an additional 258,939 workers are on a partial employment basis of from three to four days weekly.

The greatest lack of work was found in agricultural occupations. This is considered by investigators to be due to the general agricultural market depression, the reluctance of land owners to invest in developments while the complicated agrarian reform project is being implanted, prohibitive tariffs against Spanish products such as England's recent duty on oranges that cost Spain a large sum in lost fruit, and turbulent labor conditions.

The provinces most affected by unemployment are Jaen, 27,734; Badajoz, 21,874; Cordoba, 21,481; Sevilla, 21,320; Malaga, 12,893, and Cadiz, 9,055.

One of the big factors contributing to the unemployment in the Andalusian provinces was the slump in the olive oil market.

The total agricultural idle are reported as 153,304, with 187,714 working part time.

Workers in the chemical industries are the next greatest sufferers, with 54,221 idle and 12,860 working part time. The chemical industries include fertilizer factories, dye works for textile manufacturers in Catalonia, and some manufacturers of medical preparations.

Steel and metal workers are third with 7,742 unemployed and 16,415 part time. The other occupations affected are widely distributed. The total idle in Spain's largest cities is reported as follows: Madrid, 27,642, and Barcelona, 24,541.

There is little evidence that unemployment is increasing in Spain perceptibly. Conditions which brought about the present situation have existed about two years, and the general international crisis has contributed its share. The government has under consideration several projects aimed at decreasing unemployment, such as public works and the land development under the agrarian reform.

Estates Company Formed in Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 7.—As a step toward the establishment in this country of a firm of "estate agents," and as the basis for the formation of cooperative investment trusts, patterned after those popularized in Great Britain, the Scottish American Co., has been organized in Chicago by a score of prominent business men and a group of experts in estate planning and management.

These men, it was stated, control capital investments totaling well over $100,000,000.

The organizers include: John R. Winterbotham, Hamilton Allport, Luther S. Hammond, jr., and Shreve Cowles Badger. Among the announced subscribers to the company are: Harold F. McCormick, Kellogg Fairbank, John V. Farwell 3rd, Walter P. Paepcke, Harry C. Edmonds, Charles S. Dewey, Alfred Shaw, Huntington B. Henry, Carter H. Harrison, jr., Alfred Hamill, Alfred Cowles 3rd, and Col. George T. Langhorne.

Texas Gulf Oil Leases More Pumping Wells

New York, Sept. 7.—Texas Gulf Producing Co. announce the acquisition of two leases aggregating approximately 230 acres, in the new Greta Field in Refugio County, Tex. This brings the total producing area controlled by Texas Gulf Producing Co. up to 809 acres, including the Barber's Hill salt dome of 579 acres.

The entire acreage represents estimated gross reserves of close to 40,000,000 barrels. According to Sidney A. Judson, the company's chief geologist, development work already completed in the newly acquired field has proven up a substantial portion of the holdings.

Two months ago the Greta area was wildcat territory, without any oil production, in consequence of which the company was able to obtain these properties at a nominal cost. Since then 10 wells have been drilled in the area, several of which had an initial production of over 1,000 barrels a day.

Twenty additional wells are now being drilled in that field. One hundred and fifteen acres of this area is considered proven, 65 acres are semiproven and 50 acres prospective for oil production in the 4,400-foot sand.

The Greta acquisition is estimated to add about 4,350,000 barrels to the company's previously estimated reserves, and at current posted prices for crude oil represents a large addition to the company's assets.

The company further announces the bringing in of a new well, Kirby 3-11 in the Barber's Hill field, with an initial output on the first day, August 30, of about 1,100 barrels, which has since increased to 1,730 barrels per day.

Canada May Drop Peg Rule on Grain

Winnipeg, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Winnipeg Free Press today says that rumor is current that the "peg" will be withdrawn from the wheat market in the near future.

"Officials of the Winnipeg grain exchange are silent on the subject," the paper adds, "but others prominent in the trade believe the price restrictions will be removed at an early date."

Minimum prices for wheat and coarse grains were established August 15 by vote of the exchange membership. The October wheat future was pegged at 70¼; December, 71⅝; and May, 76¾ cents per bushel. "Abnormal conditions surrounding other markets," were given as reason for the action. A vote of the general membership of the exchange will be necessary to rescind the resolution adopted three weeks ago.

Wall Street Marts Open Tomorrow

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Because the governors of the New York Stock Exchange have taken no action on an extension of the Saturday holidays, Wall street today expected that the market would be open Saturday of this week, unless the officials should decide otherwise in the meantime.

The week-end holidays began July 29 to extend through September 2, to relieve the pressure on brokerage firm clerical staffs incident to heavy trading. Volume of business has since decreased sharply.

Governors of Commodity Exchange, Inc., announced today that trading in silk futures on Saturdays would be suspended for an indefinite period. This action was taken, the announcement said, "in view of the fact that the silk trade has already signed the blanket code and business within this industry will be closed entirely on Saturdays."

Cotton Rally Trimmed to Final Losses

December Sells at 9.22 as General Market Drops 13 to 17 Points.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—With business restricted by uncertainty over tomorrow's Government crop report, trading in cotton was quieter today.

An early advance was followed by declines under Southern selling and liquidation. December contracts, after selling up to 9.42 in the forenoon, broke to 9.22 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was unchanged to 2 points lower under overnight selling orders from the South, which, however, were absorbed by trade buying and covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables.

May Demand Explained.

A renewal of the demand for May, which had been noted during yesterday's late trading and was again attributed to interests connected with operations in seed-loan or cotton-option contracts, helped the tone of the early market and prices worked up during the morning, the market at one time showing net advances of about 6 to 7 points.

The early buying of May was supplied after purchases estimated at about 10,000 bales, however, and prices turned easier under Southern hedging and liquidation promoted by the action of the wheat and stock markets.

Active months sold off about 20 to 21 points from the best and within 9 or 10 points of the low prices touched on the decline of last Tuesday. Closing prices were at the lowest of the day.

Condition of Crop.

Another private crop report placed the condition at 68.7 and the indicated yield at 11,826,000 bales. On the average, recent private reports had pointed to a condition of around 65.5 and an indicated crop of 12,106,000 bales.

According to a canvass made during the morning, New York Cotton Exchange members on the average are expecting a crop of around 12,352,000 bales compared with the Government's indication of 12,314,000 bales last month.

Exports today, 52,376, making 684,269 so far this season. Port receipts, 27,735. U. S. port stocks, 2,989,406.

SUGAR—Raw was steadier today and spot prices 5 points higher, at 3.65. The sales reported, including some concluded the previous day, were 9,000 bags of Philippines and 21,000 bags of Cuban afloat at 3.65 and 24,000 bags of Cuban from stores at 3.65. It was believed that refiners would still pay 3.65 for sugars in suitable position, but offerings were light and generally held at fractionally higher levels.

Changes in futures were narrow, but the tone was steady and the market closed 1 to 2 points net higher. Sales were 1,600 tons. The market opened unchanged to 2 points higher and gained another point on some positions. Demand was not aggressive, however, and there were reactions of a point on some positions under liquidation and selling by commission houses, although on the whole trading was light. Operators in general displayed a waiting attitude pending greater certainty over the political situation in Cuba, and with some announcement expected from Washington in regard to the sugar code there was a disposition to defer commitments and await further developments.

In refined, list prices were unchanged at 4.70 for fine granulated but second hands were steadier and a little better inquiry was reported with holders asking from 4.60 to 4.65.

COFFEE—Eased today under commission house liquidation, but transactions were limited reflecting the indecence of a national Brazilian holiday. Santos opened nominal and closed 1 to 4 lower. Sales, 2,000. Rio opened 1 to 3 points lower and closed 5 to 7 lower. Sales, 1,000. Closing quotations: Santos—September 8.15, December 8.35, March 8.45, May 8.54, July 8.61. No. 7 Rio—September 5.91, December 5.94, March 6.06, May 6.13, July 6.20.

Spot coffee quiet. Santos 4s, 9 cents. Rio 7s, 7½. Cost and freight offers included Santos Bourbon 3s nad 4s at 8.80 to 8.85.

Federal Group Urged to Curb Foreign Loans

Latin-American Bondholders Sponsor Nation-Wide Drive for Action.

New York, Sept 7.—The Latin-American Bondholders Association, incorporated in 1931 as a membership nonprofit-making organization for the purpose of aiding investors in more than $1,500,000,000 of defaulted Latin-American bonds, is sponsoring a country-wide petition for the immediate creation of the proposed Corporation of Foreign Security Holders authorized under title two of the securities act of 1933.

The weight of the association is thus thrown into the increasing agitation among foreign bondholders generally for a "new deal" with respect to $7,000,000,000 worth of these securities, of which several billions are already in default.

On August 28 the association sent out a letter to a selected list of dealers, banks and individual investors in foreign bonds throughout the country, inclosing a printed memorial to the Federal Trade Commission which stated that the necessary work of adjusting these foreign bond issues can only be undertaken by concerted action of the bondholders under the auspices of the Federal Trade Commission "without further costly delay to American citizens now suffering hardship and loss of income."

Replies to Letters.

Within a few days replies and signatures were received by the association from more than half of the letters mailed on August 28 and scores of additional replies are being received daily at the association's offices at 120 Wall street. Many of those who reply have also requested additional copies of the petition for the purpose of obtaining further signatures.

According to Fred Lavis, president of the association, protective committees are an absolute necessity when bonds go into default, and, when properly operated, a great boon to investors, but most unfortunately, this type of activity lends itself too readily to abuse and can easily degenerate into a racket.

Hence the necessity for Federal sponsorship for such protective committees with respect to foreign bonds, placing their activities above suspicion.

Statement to Commission.

In the association's memorial to the commission it is stated:

"In order to put a stop to the continued exploitation of the citizens of the United States, who hold external dollar bonds of foreign countries which have floated their loans in this market and which are now failing to make payments under the loan contracts, we join earnestly in urging you, through the President, to take the necessary steps to bring into immediate being the corporation of foreign security holders.

"There are foreign bonds outstanding, which should come under the protection of such corporation, to the extent of approximately seven billions of dollars. This is much more money than any possible collections of the much discussed inter-Governmental debts. The situation grows daily more deplorable; remittances which could be made to pay interest on the bonds are deliberately withheld; the market prices of the bonds are thus artifically depressed and the foreign borrowers are thus enabled by devious methods to repurchase their own bonds at sacrifice prices, to the obvious and enormous prejudice of the innocent holders of the bonds.

"Believing that the hundreds of thousands of citizens and voters of the United States, whose interests are thus grievously and vitally affected, are justly entitled to the relief provided by Title II of the securities act of 1933, which Senator Johnson introduced, and that the immediate creation of the Corporation of Foreign Security Holders can provide the only effective remedy, we again and earnestly urge that you take immediate steps to create the corporation.

Statements of Debtors.

"Too many foreign debtors either tell our citizens who invested their money in good faith what they will or will not do, or refuse to pay them anything, and so depress the market price so that these foreign governments can buy back their bonds at 10 or 15 cents on the dollar," commented Mr. Lavis upon making public the text of the joint memorial petition. "The securities act of 1933, passed last May, authorizes the Federal Trade Commission to create a Corporation of Foreign Security Holders, but so far nothing has been done about it, and in the meantime our citizens who hold these foreign bonds are being exploited by the foreign governments which issued them.

"It is estimated that about half a million Americans own bonds of foreign countries, and it is hoped that in one way or another they will make their wishes felt in Washington to the end that there may be no further delay in forming the corporation and putting it to work. The exploitation must be stopped at once, and steps must be taken at once to reach some basis of adjustment or agreement which will insure some resumption and the continuance of interest payments, at least."

The replies, both signed copies of the petition and individual letters, received by the association indicate that feeling is intense among the holders of these securities with regard to the attitude of defaulting debtors and they are emphatic in demanding prompt action by the Government.

Petersburg Has Deficit From Delinquent Taxes

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 7 (Spl.).—Because of failure to collect taxes Petersburg ended the fiscal year with a deficit of $144,174.16, the annual report of William F. Spotswood, city treasurer, revealed.

Other causes for reduced revenue include smaller returns from licenses, fines and highway allocations. The income of the city during the year was $1,351,378.46.

Flood Menace Trails Storm On Rio Grande

Disease Also Is Danger as Texas Towns Begin Rebuilding Work.

Harlingen, Tex., Sept. 7 (AP).—Hammers rang throughout the hurricane-swept area of the lower Rio Grande Valley today as residents, undaunted by their enormous losses, began repairing shattered homes and business buildings.

A revised death list stood at 22 and the number of injured at several hundred. Throughout the territory, stricken by a great storm Monday night and Tuesday morning, Army ambulances moved today into rural districts, seeking additional dead or injured.

Estimates of property damage still ran around $10,000,000, with loss of the citrus crop virtually complete.

Some fears were expressed that a sizable flood might develop on the lower stretches of the big river as a result of torrential rains around Monterey, Mexico, and on the upper Rio Grande. The Weather Bureau advised immediate notification of a forthcoming flood to "all interested parties."

A more pressing threat was the danger of disease. Medical officers and city authorities urged all inhabitants to be careful to drink only water they knew to be pure and hundreds were inoculated against typhoid.

Most of the water had receded from Harlingen, La Feria and San Juan, but the highway into Harlingen still was under a foot of water for 4 miles.

Texas Session Called.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 7 (AP).—The Texas Legislature was called by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today to meet in extraordinary session next Thursday to consider emergency legislation.

Chief of the subjects for consideration was issuance of $20,000,000 in bonds with which to augment Federal relief funds.

Sorority to Visit Capital.

Five hundred members of Delta Delta Delta Sorority are expected to attend the convention at Virginia Beach next June. A postconvention boat trip to Washington is planned for June 28, 1934.

Red Cross Will Resume Making Braille Books

Making Braille books for the blind will be resumed in the District of Columbia Chapter, American Red Cross, 1730 E street northwest, about October 1. Groups will be organized in the printing and processing work; in the shellacking and also in the binding departments. A class organized in Braille transcribing will meet on Thursday afternoons. This course consists of ten lessons and instruction will be given by a blind expert. There will be no charge for tuition, the only cost being for equipment used. Mrs. L. A. Wolfe, of 5338 Forty-first street northwest, is in charge.

FirePrevention WeekArranged

Roosevelt Fixes Oct. 8-14; Perils Pointed Out in Proclamation.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday proclaimed the week of October 8 to 14 to be observed as fire-prevention week. The proclamation said:

"It has been a commendable custom for the President of the United States to request the annual observance of fire-prevention week throughout the country. It is a week set aside for the purpose of informing the public of the dangers of fire to life and property. Fires which are largely preventable take a cruel toll of many lives and destroy property exceeding $400,000,000 in value each year. Of late, progess has been made in reducing the Nation's fire loss, and this fact should encourage continuous vigilance and alertness so necessary to decrease the hazards of fire.

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning October 8, 1933, to be observed as fire-prevention week. To prevent our enormous waste by fire, the cooperation of all citizens is requested, and the organizations, groups and individuals interested in fire prevention are asked to take the leadership in instructing the public in the simple precautionary measures advocated as fire-prevention safeguards."

World-Wide Tribute Is Paid Viscount Grey

Messages Attest Esteem for Former English Foreign Secretary.

Christon Bank, England, Sept. 7 (AP).—All England today mourned Lord Grey of Fallodon, former foreign secretary, who died early this morning at the age of 71 after being seriously ill for a week.

The little telegraph office near Fallodon, the late viscount's beautiful home on the Northumbrian coast, bore witness to the world-wide esteem in which he was held. Tributes streamed in all day from all parts of the world.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at Embleton Paris Church and in Newcastle Cathedral, and the body will be cremated at Darlington. Another memorial service will be held Monday in Westminster Abbey.

King George sent the following message to the sister of the late viscount:

"I received the news of the death of my old friend Lord Grey with true regret. Lord Grey will be gratefully remembered by his devoted services to his country during three successive reigns, and in those eventful years proved himself not only a distinguished statesman but a great Englishman. The queen and I assure you and your family our heartfelt sympathy."

Hoover Pays Tribute.

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP).—Former President Herbert Hoover paid tribute today to the late Viscount Grey of Fallodon, the British Foreign Secretary during the World War. Mr. Hoover's statement said:

"All Americans give Viscount Grey a high place in history by which he ameliorated many of its dreadful results."

Antivaccination Clubs Dissolved in Germany

Weimar, Germany, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Thuringian ministry of interior dissolved antivaccination socities today. A decree issued by the ministry penalized any public antivaccination activity.

Coast Guard Given $1,531,945 by Ickes

New and Repair Projects Provided in Grant.

An allotment of $1,531,945 of public works funds to the Coast Guard was announced yesterday by Administrator Ickes.

The amount includes $317,075 to repair recent storm damage to Coast Guard property, and fire damage at the stations at Lewes, Del., and Chicago.

Of the total, $1,000,170 is for new construction projects and $214,700 for reconditioning projects.

The Curtis Bay, Md., station will get a $45,000 supply building. At Virginia Beach, Va., a $10,000 communication storehouse and garage will be constructed, while the station building there also will be reconditioned at a cost of $12,000. The Wachapreague, Va., station's boathouses and launchway will be reconditioned at a cost of $8,000.

Approximately $500,000 will be used to buy lifeboats and surfboats.

Chicago Packers Faced With Sanitary Problem

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Local packing house authorities tonight said that as a result of the Government's slaughter of pigs in efforts to raise prices that fertilizer was being produced faster than it could be disposed of and a sanitary problem had developed.

Packing houses have been instructed, if necessary, to give the fertilizer away, but pigs still come to market in such numbers that fertilizer piles are mounting.

1,500,000 Jobs Traced To Return of Legal Beer

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—The return of legal beer to the United States has provided jobs for 1,500,000 persons, Joseph Obergfell, of Cincinnati, a brewery union official, estimated today.

The 3.2 brew also brought a sudden boom in the business of his union, the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal and Soft Drink Workers, Obergfell reported. The number of brewers enrolled dwindled to 12,000 before beer came back, he said. Since then, 37,000 new members have been taken in.

Dairy Head Vague On Effect of Code

McInnerney Emphasizes High Butter Record.

New York, Sept. 7 (AP).—Thomas McInnerney, president of National Dairy Products Co., said today that the present feature of the dairy industry was the increase in production of butter and the substantial storage of that commodity, which recently reached the largest total on record.

The five-year average supply of stored butter on August 1, he said, is 128,497,000 pounds, but this year the total was 150,907,000 pounds. He added:

"It is not yet possible to say what the increase in operating costs will be throughout our territory as a result of the NRA code. In the central and Western zones, where the code is operative, the difference is approximately 5 per cent."

Sportsman Dies in Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 7 (AP).—Lloyd F. Layne, 41, nationally known builder and sportsman, died at a hospital here today after a brief illness. Death was attributed to pneumonia.

Night-Blooming Cereus Bursts After 45 Years

Morris, Ill., Sept. 7 (AP).—After 45 years, a night-blooming cereus burst into flower at the home of Mrs. J. W. Johnson last night.

Several hundred townsfolk called to see the two lily-like white blossoms, 12 inches in diameter. The plant has been in the home 50 years.

Woman and Baby Killed In Plunge From Hotel

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 7 (AP).—Mrs. J. H. Logan, 23, and her daughter, Elaine, 2, plunged to death today from a seventh-story window in an apartment hotel.

Mrs. Logan's husband, a traveling salesman, was reported to be in the hurricane-stricken lower Rio Grande Valley. Police believed the child was in Mrs. Logan's arms when they fell.

Girl Ill of Sleep Potion.

Mary Dunning, 18, of 508 G street southeast, was taken to Gallinger Hospital yesterday suffering from an overdose of sleeping powders. Her condition is undetermined.

700 Strike, Charge Mill Flaunts Code

Textile Workers in New Orleans Quit Jobs.

New Orleans, Sept. 7 (AP).—Seven hundred workers in the Lane Cotton Mills today went on strike against mill conditions which they charge "flagrantly violated" the National Recovery Act and the textile code.

S. Odenheimer, president of the mills, requested police guards for the plant, but officers reported no disturbances.

James Hardeman, president of the United Textile Workers, said the strike had been called "to bring the turbulent situation to a climax."

"Every principle and every part of the NRA has been violated by the Lane Cotton Mills," Hardeman said. "It is a case of too much work and too little pay."

Capital Woman Attempts Suicide.

Lidia J. Bartlett, 20, of 1005 Eleventh street southeast, attempted suicide yesterday, police said, by swallowing insect paste. She was taken to Emergency Hospital, where her condition was pronounced serious.

IMPORTANT

Please bear in mind that the $22 price is effective only during this sale, and that the Hecht Co. reserves the right, should conditions warrant, to terminate the event without notice!

$22

We can't get any more suits like these to sell at anywhere near $22. Why, just the other day our buyer walked into the Sheldon plant. He wanted to buy some more suits . . . and the wholesale prices asked were very near our present retail sale price. Which just goes to show you what conditions are. If you buy in this sale now, you will save money . . . if you put off buying until later on, you will have to pay many dollars more. Remember, only one more week to go. Hundreds of men have already profited! How about you? There is still a plentiful variety . . . in material, style, pattern and color. And we can fit any man . . . up to size 54 long stout.

Grant Ousts Vines From National Net Tourney in Straight Sets

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY - THREE is going down as the year of the fallen champions. Sports' passing show of national title holders has been riddled this year by a steady fire of upsets. Ellsworth Vines is the latest to fall.

Vines, eliminated from the national tournament yesterday by diminutive Bryant Grant, joins a distinguished company of fall champions. At this writing no major sport has escaped the scourge of upsets.

Turfdom's 3-year-old champion, Broker's Tip, was the first to fall. The Bradley horse, winner of the Kentucky Derby, reigned only for a week. He more than met his match in the Preakness when Head Play, a nose back in the Derby, won the Pimlico classic. Broker's Tip, a poor last, was called into retirement.

Two Notable Boxing Upsets.

Boxing underwent two notable changes in the line-up of champions. First to fall was the lightweight title holder, Tony Canzoneri, who staked his crown against Barney Ross in Ross' home town of Chicago and lost it in what smacked of a home-town decision.

But the heavyweight championship of the world was also to change hands. For the second time in history, America was to be unable to boast the king of the heavies. Jack Sharkey met the giant Primo Carnera at the Long Island Bowl, and the title passed in the eighth with Sharkey groveling in the resin.

Another bout, bereft of a championship setting, nevertheless recruited another notable figure for the company of upset victims. Max Schmeling, who was robbed of his world crown in the Sharkey bout, came back to fight his way up again and was stopped cold by the wild-swinging Max Baer, the underdog from the Coast.

Turbulent Tennis Season.

Tennis has witnessed its most turbulent season in the realm of champions. The Vines debacle yesterday in the national tournament follows close on the heels of previous upsets in the battles across the nets both here and on foreign soil.

Vines was stripped of his Wimbledon crown earlier in the summer by the Australian Pat Crawford, and then led his American Davis Cup team to Paris to be beaten by the under-rated English squad. The upsets continued through the finals of the Davis Cup play when Fred Perry and Bunny Austin engineered the victory over Henri Cochet's French forces, holder of the title for seven years.

But the real pay-off in tennis came two weeks ago when Helen Wills Moody failed dismally in her attempt to match Molla Mallory's record of eight straight national women's titles. Meeting her fellow-Californian, Helen Jacobs, for the tenth time, she was soundly beaten before defaulting.

Golf Is Exception.

Only golf has salvaged a bit of glory for its champions. Virginia Van Wie, alone of the champions, was able to repeat her 1932 success in winning again the national women's crown.

Gene Sarazen, winner in 1932 of the British Open, the American Open and the Professional title, succeeded in retaining only his pro crown. Denny Shute took the British Amateur and Johnny Goodman the American Open.

And that brings up to Ross Somerville, the Canadian, who is defending his American Amateur crown at Cincinnati next week.

His Happiest Day, Says Vines, Beaten

New York, Sept. 7 (U.P.).—Stretched out on a rubbing table, five minutes after he had been dethroned as national tennis champion by little Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, Ellsworth Vines turned to reporters when they asked how he felt and said:

"Tthis is the happiest day of my life."

When the reporters expressed amazement at his peace of mind after losing his title, Vines replied:

"Yes sir, I never felt better, now that that thing is off my mind, I'm going to play in the Pacific Coast championships and then take a long, long rest. And you can tell the boys they had better watch out for me next year, for I'm going to go after them."

Pirates Beat Giants, 14-2; Cut Lead

Pound Parmelee, Luque, Reduce Margin to 5½ Games.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The Pirates enjoyed themselves thoroughly at the expense of four New York pitchers today and slammed out a 14-to-2 victory that made it three out of four for the series so far and reduced the Giants' lead to five and one-half games.

From the first inning, when the Corsairs sent Roy Parmelee to the showers and rapped Adolph Luque lustily to score five runs, the issue never was in doubt.

Terry Uses 17 Players.

Bill Terry, New York manager, used 17 players in a futile effort to halt the Pirates, and indications were that he would shoot Carl Hubbell, his ace southpaw, who was knocked out Tuesday, back at them in the series final tomorrow.

In contrast to the poor form of the New York flingers, Heinie Meine was in fine form. He never was hard pressed after the Buccos handed him a big lead but he turned back nearly every Giant threat in fine style. Mel Ott's double and Gus Mancuso's single in the second netted one Giant run and Recruit Phil Weintraub got the other with a homer in the sixth.

McElvenny Enters Federal Net Final

RALPH M'ELVENNY'S thunder continued to roll ominously yesterday as he eliminated Frank Shore, 6—4, 6—4, at the Columbia Country Club to swing into the finals of the Government employes tennis tournament.

Dark horse of the Washington Grove tournament, McElvenny, former intercollegiate star from Stanford, defeated Shore for the second time since he came to the District to work for the Treasury several weeks ago.

In both sets yesterday McElvenny showed beautiful net and back court play, zooming the ball across with deadly accuracy to run up a 5—2 lead in the first set and a lead by a similar count in the second.

McElvenny will battle Staubly, of District, for the championship Sunday. Staubly yesterday won his semifinals match from B'ade, of Treasury, 6—4, 6—3.

In the doubles semifinals Wallenstein and Goldsmith won from Allen and Cowley, 9—7, 3—6, 12—10.

Atlanta Youth Victor Over Champion

125-Pound Dixie Lad Wins, 6–3, 6–3, 6–3, in Stirring Upset.

Quist, Australian Star, Eliminatees Allison in Fourth Round.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.).—One hundred and twenty pounds of gamecock tennis energy, wrapped up in the diminutive frame of Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, jr., of Atlanta, Ga., exploded right under a flock of official noses today and blasted the two-time defending title holder, Ellsworth Vines, jr., of Pasadena, Calif., out of the national men's singles championship in three one-sided sets.

By scores of 6—3, 6—3, 6—3, that were startlingly decisive in every particular, the 22-year-old Southerner sprang the major upset of the tournament, injecting himself unceremoniously into the front rank of American contenders and climaxed a sensational fourth round of play.

Australian Beats Allison.

Vines' Davis Cup mate, Wilmer Allison, also was decisively eliminated by the sensational 20-year-old Australian, Adrian Quist, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2. The last two Japanese entries fell by the wayside in a day that was heavy with heat, humidity and surprises.

Grant was not even conceded the distinction of battling the defending champion on either the stadium or adjacent grand-stand turf but he made a thorough job of victory on the clubhouse court while several thousand spectators schambled, fought and sweated in their effort to catch a few fleeting glimpses of the day's biggest jolt to the favorites.

Keyed to High Pitch.

Only the club officials and their guests, in easy chairs on the west side clubhouse veranda, had an unrestricted view of Grant's audacious play and fiery battle for every point. He was keyed up to the greatest game of his career expressively irritated by his failure to be "seeded" better than tenth in the American list and undeniably peeved at being denied the stadium soptlight so far this week. Grant let loose a barrage of shots that soon had Vines "back on his heels," fumbling for the shots he was accustomed to rely upon and playing shakily in every department of the game.

If "revenge" was what Grant sought for being slighted by tournament officials, he got a full measure of it. He bombarded Vines from the outset, outvolleyed the champion and broke through his vaunter service no less than 7 times in three sets: Not even those most pressimistic about the Californian's chances of making a comeback, after his disastours season, were prepared for such a trouncing.

Vines Loses Last Title.

Not since the challenge round was abandoned in 1912 has a defending champion failed to reach the quarter-finals, nor does the record reveal a titleholder so badly beaten. Vines thus lost the last of the major tennis crowns he wore in 1932 as the world's No. 1 star and passed out of the picture abruptly. He lost his Wimbledon title to Jack Crawford, dropped both of his Davis Cup matches to the British aces and yielded his share of the national doubles championship with Keith Gledhill.

"Grant simply had too many shots for me and I haven't an alibi," Vines said afterward but his conqueror was more charitable, re-

Cochet to Play Pros, but Not For Money

PARIS, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—The question of what constitutes a professional tennis player and just how closely the line should be drawn today was put squarely to the French Tennis Federation by Henri Cochet, who announced he would play with and against professionals in a Franco-American series beginning here September 23, but would not accept pay for his efforts.

Under the present rules, Cochet automatically forfeits his amateur standing when he engages in a match with professionals where admission is charged, which would make him ineligible for Davis Cup play and reduce French chances of regaining the famous international trophy from Great Britain.

Cochet, himself, in announcing that he would team with Martin Plaa, French pro, in the series against William T. Tilden 2d and Bruce Barnes, insisted he would remain an amateur.

Writers' Fund to Benefit.

"I'll play against Tilden," Cochet said, "but as an amateur. My share of the gate receipts will be split between the sports writers' pension fund and the Lyons football club.

"I'm a business man and I will remain a business man. If, one day, changes are made in tennis, perhaps I'll change my point of view, but for the moment I repeat I'll remain an amateur."

Cambridge Cricketers In Match Here Today

The Cambridge Vandals will play a special cricket match, open to the public, with a selected team, headed by L. McCormick-Goodhart, on the latter's estate, starting at noon today.

The Vandals are members of the regular Cambridge varsity team. They are touring the country in exhibition matches, having already played in Chicago. From here they go to Philadelphia and New York, then set sail for Bermuda for further exhibitions.

Steele Throws Sarpolis in 24 Mins.

THE Ray Steele-Dr. Karl Sarpolis wrestling match at Griffith Stadium last night ended in favor of Steele by virtue of a novel piece of business injected into the proceedings. Up to the end of the bout, which was over in 24½ minutes, the good doctor, in his best bedside manner, was holding his own by the simple process of rendering all of Steele's best holds null and void through the medium of pressure applied on the nerve centers.

The end came when Sarpolis, attempting a flying scissors, made a nonstop flight around Steele and wound up in a 3-point landing on Referee Benny Bortnick. Bortnick fell to the floor with a thud, and the doctor crawled over to administer first aid, or something.

While the good doctor was engrossed in his errand of mercy, Steele stole up behind him, and, without a soul other than 4,000 spectators being aware of his evil intent, administered a series of body slams that completely finished the good samaritan.

Doctor Button Pusher.

The Sarpolis process of massaging nerve centers, familiarly known to rassle fandom as "pushing the button," he used to extricate himself from numerous embarrassing positions. Once or twice, when Steele found himself in apparently inextricable holds, he attempted, with indifferent results, to steal the doctor's stuff and "push the button."

On one occasion, while enmeshed in a heroic "splits," Steele made the grave error of "pushing the button" on his own legs. After several fumbles he finally located his opponent's kneecap, but was unable to locate the "button." After playing "button, button, who's got the button?" for several minutes, Steele finally gave it up and resorted to straight wrestling thereafter.

In the supporting features Abe Coleman puffed out a 30-minute draw with Jacques Humberto, Dick Shikat and George Zaharias drew in 30 minutes, Paul Boesch threw Jack Zarnas in 18 minutes with a series of flying tackles and Gino Garibaldi pinned Pat O'Shocker in 42 minutes with a body press.

Gehrig Shines In 12-8 Win Of Yanks

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—With Lou Gehrig again leading the way, the Yankees putslugged the St. Louis Browns to win their second straight game, 12 to 8, today.

Gehrig drove in five Yankee runs, clouting his twenty-fifth home run of the season with two aboard, a double and a single. Neither George Uhle nor Garland Braxton could go the route as St. Louis scored three runs in the first and the Yanks came right back with five.

Jones Quells Washington Threats

Nats' Lead Shrinks to 8½ Games; Kress' Hit Decides Fray.

Sox Held to One Hit for 8 Innings; Home Boys Fizzle in Ninth.

BRAIN-TRUSTER MONTE WEAVER, holder of degrees from two institutions of higher learning, and one-time professsor of mathematics, flunked out yesterday on a little problem involving three base hits and the Nats went down to defeat.

How to scatter three base hits with the least damage stumped Weaver, and the White Sox triumphed. It almost seemed, also, that injustice triumphed, for it was a three-hit game that Weaver pitched for the Nats, who made no runs for him. As far as run-making was concerned, the White Sox made next to nothing, and won the ball game, 1 to 0.

Out there giving battle to Weaver was the smiling pan of Sad Sam Jones, who wriggled in and out of menacing positions all afternoon, to render the Nats' eight hits useless while scattering these blows over as many different innings. That was Weaver's mistake. He gave up two of the Sox's three hits in the ninth and inherited his defeat.

While Yankees Win.

The upshot of the matter is that the Nats found a full game lopped from their lead by the Yankees, who slaughtered the Browns up in the Bronx and pulled to within 8½ games of Washington, which still is no margin to view with alarm.

But if Weaver did not deserve defeat, neither did the canny old Jones, who was out there pitching with both his arm and his head, and brought all his cunning to bear in the Nats' ninth when it seemed that they were going to blast the ball game out from under him and prolong their winning streak to six straight.

But in the collision of streaks—the White Soxs' string of six straight defeats and the Nats' record of five straight victories—both were fractured when Jones snuffed out the ominous Washington rally in the ninth.

One Hit in Eight Innings.

Going into the ninth, Weaver had a one-hit game in his possession, the outgrowth of a no-hit performance for five innings. He came out of the ninth with a one-run deficit when Red Kress, with the Soxs' third and last hit of the afternoon, drove over the lone run of the day.

And then, with one out, the Nats unleashed a fine-looking threat. Fred Schulte smashed a single into right field and Joe Kuhel moved him to third with a double down the right-field foul line. Cliff Bolton went in to bat for Ossie Bluege and Manager Fonseca ordered him passed, to fill the bases.

In went Sam Rice to bat for Sewell. Jones was as unruffled as Mme. Pompadour. He served three balls and a strike to Rice. A high pitch was called the second strike and Rice glared at Umpire Geisel. The third strike came down the middle and hit Catcher Grube's glove unmolested. The worst was over.

But there was still Pinch Hitter

Snow Play Wins Spectacular Stretch Duel in Lincoln Fields Feature Race

Race Decided Just Before Finish

Gay Follies ¾ Length Behind Winner; Third to Beech Tree.

Hadagal Lands $2,170 Race at Belmont by Five Lengths.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP).—In a spectacular stretch finish, Jack Howard's Snow Play, ridden by Jockey Charley Corbett, conquered Gay Follies in the top race at Lincoln Fields today. Three-quarters of a length separated them on the post in the 5½-furlong sprint. Beech Tree saved the short end of the purse.

Tallulah, favorite, darted to the front and opened a comfortable lead on her rivals rounding into the stretch turn, but weakened in the final jumps to the wire. Snow Play, slow in finding her racing legs, gained momentum down the long stretch and grabbed the purse by a narrow margin.

Snow Play paid $5.26 in the $2 straight mutuels and ran the distance in 1:07 3-5.

Hadagal Belmont Victor.

Belmont Park Race Track, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP).—The Champagne, one of the oldest stakes for 2-year-olds and considered a trial for the rich Futurity, resulted in Warren Wright, jr.,'s colt Hadagal springing into wide prominence by his galloping victory here this afternoon. The son of Sir Gallahad III breezed home by five lengths to capture the $2,170 winner's share of the purse. It will be the first race at 6½ furlongs down the Widener straightaway course and Hadagal's fast time of 1:17 2-5 automatically became a track record.

Sergt. Byrne, a 50-to-1 shot, provided plenty of excitement by gaining the place position. A length farther back came Kawagoe, driving to the show a half-length before Blue Again. The Greentree entry of Spy Hill and Earnings was favorite, but neither made any impression. Hadagal paid 7 to 1.

Gay Joe Wins at Detroit.

Fair Grounds, Detroit, Sept. 7 (AP). Gay Joe, extreme outsider in the betting, won today's feature race at Detroit. Lucky Light, the favorite, was off to a bad start in the 5½-furlong dash for 2-year-olds, but came fast in the stretch to finish second, with Wise Dream, the early pacemaker, finishing third.

Six 2-year-olds went to the post in the feature. Gay Joe paid $21.80 to $2 to win.

A bad spill near the three-sixteenths mile post marred the sixth race today, as Jockey J. Cassard, on Dark Coleen, tried to come through a small hole. He was unseated and his mount went down, jarring Stimble, who stumbled and unseated Jockey J. Pollard.

Cassard was removed to a hospital, suffering two fractured ribs. Pollard was uninjured. The accident was the first on the track since the opening last Saturday.

STRANGE as it seems, dull, soft lead is a highly important ingredient in fine optical glass, such as is used in the best glasses, microscopes and other instruments. The lead is mixed with glass as lead oxide in amounts ranging up to 82 per cent of lead oxide. This gives a content of 75 per cent metallic lead in the glass.

In other words, for every pound of finished glass, 12 ounces is pure metallic lead. For fine table and cut glass the lead oxide content is about 33 per cent, or 31 per cent for the lead itself.

Many other kinds of glass have lead in varying quantities, and even the glass in an electric light has a certain amount of lead.

The Chicago river naturally emptied into Lake Michigan, eventually finding its way through the St. Lawrence river into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but pollution of the city's drinking water from sewage carried by the river made it necessary to change the course and drain the river into the Mississippi basin, where it is carried into the Gulf of Mexico.

Although it reaches the sea at a point many hundred miles from where it used to, diversion carried it but 36 miles off the natural course. The river was diverted through a canal which joined the south branch of the Chicago river to the Illinois river at Joliet.

At the Post . . .

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Lincoln Fields, Sept. 7.

Looks like the great Bennings has hit a slump. I can remember when two winners was a big day. I had the favored Social Service in the opener and then saw my choices well up in most instances, but beaten for six races. However, in the last, His Last gave me a substantial $14.78 mutuel and saved the day from being a total loss.

Mike tried to drag me to the fair again tonight, but I waved him aside and dragged out the speed books. I believe I have some spots tomorrow that will provide real dough for you and a chance to brag for me. BILL.

First race—Bill Orange ran out of the money for me the other day. However, that was a tough field. Better suited in this and goes for the Bennings marbles. First Regiment and Single Stripe for the other awards.

Second race—Legal Gamble has been a disappointment to his handlers. A hard-worked maiden that seems likely to graduate among these. Cloudet is the one to beat. Recommended by the clockers. Silva for the rest.

Third race—This race is full of members of the We-Beat-Each-Other Club. For tomorrow I'll take Portcodine, Votan and Broomshot. Ladykin gets in with only 102 pounds, and could be dangerous.

Fourth race—Doctor Klein, there or thereabout all summer, is assigned only 100 pounds in this sprint. If he is to win, this is the spot. Grey Kitty and John Mill to be ready if the top fellow makes mistakes.

Fifth race — Wacoche was scratched from that heat the other day. I'm picking him up again. Has good trials, and I understand he is ready to beat this kind. Benevolence and Mumsie to complete the money picture.

Sixth race—Gift of Roses puts it on for the boys sometimes. Should be turned loose here. Princess Camella has that recent fine race to recommend her. Bahamas startled the boys with a good effort the other day. Could be third or better tomorrow.

Seventh race—Sister Zoe is kept well fed for situations of this nature. Certainly steps when opposed only by her sex. Looks like another one of those races. Battling Girl and Blameless to do the chief chasing.

Eighth race—El Cidio did me wrong in that last, but I'm waiting for that $20 or better mutuel. Breaks from the rail tomorrow, and a good ride will turn the trick. Good and Hot and Lahor for second and third.

Chart of Lincoln Fields Races

(Associated Press, Thursday, September 7.)

WEATHER CLEAR. TRACK FAST.

FIRST RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $900; claiming. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:17. Winner, W. F. Axton's ch. f. (2), by Politian—Delysia. Trained by Wayne Lewis. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:00 4-5, 1:06.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOCIAL SERVICE, $4.66, $2.88, $2.12; PEGGY GAL, $5.02, $2.54; SHESAHONEY, $2.22.

SOCIAL SERVICE worked her way clear before reaching the turn, came away without need of pressure when entering stretch and won easily. PEGGY GAL, beginning slowly, but never a great distance back, closed with good speed. SHESAHONEY, away fast and under strong urging the first five-sixteenths, was given a breathing spell on the turn, but did not threaten seriously when under strong riding in the stretch. FOLAS FLAG, weakly handled, raced wide and, under stronger riding, might have been closer up. BETTY U had no mishap.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:40½. Off at 2:45. Winner, R. McGarner's b. g. (6), by Sweep On—Rosa Lee. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:13 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARTIE FLYNN, $4.14, $3.64, $2.72; POLLY'S FOLLY, $12.66, $8.96; VERY WELL, $5.52.

MARTIE FLYNN, steadied while slightly outrun the first three-sighths, came through on inside of several horses when entering the stretch and coming around MONK'S BELA and VERY WELL, held on well, outstaying POLLY'S FOLLY. Latter, far out of it for half a mile, closed with a rush. VERY WELL had speed from start was mauched used racing MONK'S BELA into submission, yet fought it out gamely. LAMP BLACK began fast and raced fairly well in the drive. CONCISUS was taken back repeatedly. MONK'S BELA quit.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:10. Off at 3:13. Winner, D. E. Mickitt's b. g. Threatened Ousting of Armour as Congressional Golf Pro Arouses Members

Head of Club Considering Action

Koons May Overrule Board After Talking With Armour.

Many Members Threaten to Quit Club if Pro Is Let Out.

INDIGNANT at the action taken Wednesday night by the board of governors in requesting the resignation of Alex (Sandy) Armour, professional at the club since 1928, a group of members of the Congressional Country Club banded together yesterday in an effort to fight the move, and seek retention of the former Scottish hero of the World War.

Feeling ran high at the club when members learned that the board had voted to oust Armour as pro because of what officials declared was an "economy move."

Some members, however, discredited the announcement that "economy" was involved, declaring that Armour's resignation was being asked because of other reasons. A group of prominent members have threatened to quit the club if the board carries out its action, it was reported.

No Formal Action Taken.

John C. Koons, who is chairman of the board and president of the Congressional Club, stated last night that Armour had not been informed officially of the board's action. Koons has the final say in the matter and is expected to confer with Armour in a few days, after which he will make his decision, it is understood.

Armour is not under contract, it is said. However, should he resign, he will probably remain with the club through January 1. Armour's resignation would affect the personnel of the golf shop, since he employes assistants and helpers.

Members of the board, in requesting Armour's resignation, also announced that T. B. Horner, manager at the club for the past year, would not be retained.

Armour is a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, and is a native of Scotland. He has been a golf pro for 15 years. He succeeded his more famous brother, Tommy, at Congressional the year after the latter won the national open crown.

Cornwell Junior Medalist.

Winning medal honors with an 84, Page Cornwell yesterday stamped himself as the big favorite to win the annual Columbia Country Club junior golf championship that will be concluded today.

Cornwell started off right. He posted a 43—41—84 to nose out 18-year-old Harvey Johnson by 1 shot in the qualifying morning round. Johnson came to the eighteenth hole needing a par 4 for a 38 and a tie with Cornwell, but overshot the green with his second, chipped up weakly and took a 5.

In his first-round match, Cornwell walloped Dale Geddes, 7 and 6.

Results in flights:

First flight—Page Cornwell beat Dale Geddes, 7 and 6; Junior Dodd beat Harvey Johnson, up.

Second flight—Sam Watkins beat Billy Turner, 9 and 8; Al Skinner beat Solon Kennan, 1 up, 20 holes; Bobby Shelton beat Pinky Harmon, 1 up; Carl Corby drew bye.

Third flight—Mike Gormely beat Pete Wilson, 3 and 2; Marty West beat George Flathers, 3 and 2; Buddy Martyn beat Jimmy Murphy, 8 and 6; Frank Mostus beat Tom McLachlen, 2 up.

Mrs. Pray's Team Wins.

Gaining revenge for a previous defeat, a 16-woman team, captained by Mrs. L. G. Pray, turned back a contingent led by Mrs. B. C. Hartig, 17 points to 14, yesterday at the Manor Club.

A feature of the matches was Mrs. Pray's victory over the youthful star, Helen Dettweiler. Mrs. Pray scored 2½ points against Miss Dettweiler.

Beaver Dam Title Play.

First-round matches in the annual Beaver Dam Country Club women's golf championship will begin at 1 p. m. Sunday, with five flights of 36 golfers competing.

Mrs. Ora Emge, defending champion, is pitted against Mrs. J. McCarty in her opening match.

Here are the pairings and starting times as announced by Cliff Spencer, pro:

First flight—1, Mrs. Ora Emge vs. Mrs. J. McCarty; 1:05, Mrs. N. Waldron vs. Mrs. D. R. Hutchison; 1:10, Mrs. A. Fischer vs. Marie Wallace; 1:15, Mrs. J. Irwin vs. Mrs. R. C. Mitchell.

Investigation Cops Departmental Title

Investigation yesterday defeated the Government Printing Office by the sound margin of 10-6, to annex the championship of the Departmental League. Duffy, the winning pitcher, held the G. P. O. to five small hits.

Investigation banged out 17 hits, Shapiro and Riley each getting three hits in five times at bat and Snyder, Morris and Duffey batting a high average.

Wash. Grove Tennis Final Due Tomorrow

The final match in the Washington Grove tennis tournament, between Ralph McElvenny and Barney Welsh, has not been definitely scheduled for Saturday at 3:30.

McElvenny, the former intercollegiate star from the Pacific Coast, has plowed through all of the best opposition offered him so far with remarkable ease, and is generally conceded a better than even chance to upset the public parks champion.

To defray expenses of the tournament, the committee has decided to charge an admission of 25 cents to the final match. The Washington Grove courts are located about 4 miles the other side of Rickville.

With Hook And Line . . .

By Jean Monk.

IF you hear over your radio within the next few weeks announcement of a popular song, entitled, "Why Rock the Boat? Rock Fish," or something, written by Al Lewis, Murray Mencher, Al Sherman, Gerald Marks or Charles Tobias, don't be surprised.

These "Songwriters on Paradise" have just closed a week's engagement at the Earle. And last Tuesday night, after the last show, directed by W. R. Schwalm, of the Earle, one of the incurable fishermen of Washington, they went to Piney Point, where Capt. J. L. Goldsborough, ace of big rockfish boat captains, was standing by.

At 1:45 a. m. this human fish hawk, Capt. Goldsborough, anchored his boat over that pile of rocks 1 mile out from Tall Timbers. Not a cloud in sight. The water was smooth like glass. A full moon was in the sky. What a perfect setting!

Big Rockfish Responds.

There were four dozen soft crabs tucked away in the captain's bait box. No. 10-O hooks were baited with whole crabs. Lines were cast over. Lewis sang softly "In the Valley of the Moon," and a big rockfish responded "Why Not Take, Al, of Me?"

Then the fun began. Believe it or not, these songwriters, at sunrise, returned with 47 of the largest rockfish that have ever been taken from the waters of Tall Timbers. The fish ranged in weight from 2 to 22 pounds. Not 222 pounds.

This column recently reported a catch of 70 blue fish caught trolling near Solomons. Through a typographical error the 70 appeared in print as 700. Capt. C. N. Cragg, of Galesville, instinctively sensing an error, addressed an inquiry to another fishing editor of this city. But his guess was bad. That was one error the recipient of his letter did not make. We credit him, however, for a remarkable display of good judgment.

Frank Del Vecchio and his wife tried their luck yesterday at Tall Timbers and returned with six of these big fellows. I saw three of them that looked to be easily in the ten-pound class.

Frank says Capt. Goldsborough's boat was considerably damaged by the recent hurricane, but that it was quickly put in shape again He says Tolson's Hotel was not damaged and that business is going right along as usual.

Channel Bass Return.

A. H. G. Mears, Wachapreague, writes September 5 to say that the channel bass have returned. He says one boat landed two of them that day. Usual good run of flounders, sea bass, croakers and porgies. One boat returned with 31 trout. Channel bass are running large now, averaging around 45 pounds each.

These big gamsters visit Wachapreague, Chincoteague and Ocean City every season during the months of June and September. They trade up the shore in June and down again, bigger and fatter in September. This year, however, for reasons known only to themselves, they did all their trading at Wachapreague and Chincoteague, doffing their fins at Ocean City. They make a run on the place during September.

A. C. Keefer, Dr. Oscar Wilkinson, with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Smith fished out from Point Lookout Hotel Sunday and Monday. Their first trip was to the Middles where they found only wind and waves, and they returned.

They anchored in Cornfield Harbor, one of nature's protecting elbows which she attaches here and there to rivers and other navigable waters; and there, tucked snugly away from the whitecaps of the bay, they helped themselves to an assortment of fish: trout, bluefish, croakers, spot, mullets. No large ones, and no flounders. Flounders are usually plentiful in Cornfield Harbor.

Average About a Pound

Keefer says the spot were the nicest he ever saw. They averaged about a pound apiece. That's the Norfolk spot. They are plentiful every year about this time from Point Lookout to Cobb Island in the Potomac.

Weaver Loses 3-Hit Game to White Sox

Dave Harris to contend with. Jones contended with him to the extent of a high pop foul to Grube and earned his 1-0 shutout. Those three runners on base, finally left.

One of those six walks that Weaver distributed led to his downfall. A double by Mule Haas with one out in the sixth, had been the only hit off Weaver. But then Al Simmons lashed a single into center with one out in the ninth and a pass to Appling moved him to second. Red Kress brought him prancing home with another single to center and Weaver had scattered his hits unwisely.

Buddy Myer started a lightning double play to deliver Weaver from further danger at that time, but the Nats couldn't deliver for him against Jones in the ninth.

National Capital League Crown to C. & P. Nine

The C. & P. Telephone nine yesterday won the championship of the National Capital League by defeating the P. E. P. Team 6-3, in the second play-off game. Terry pitched for the winners, allowing only four hits.

Gropp, C. & P. center fielder, got two hits in three times at bat.

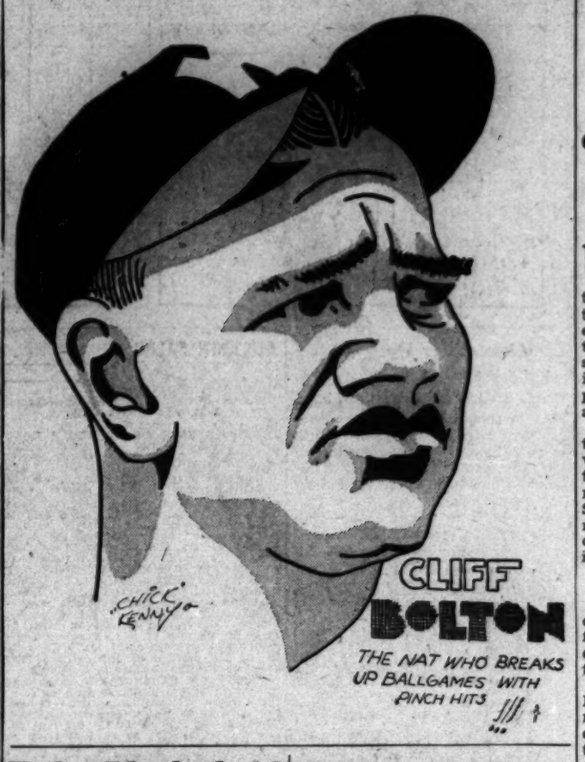
Postrait No. 21 —By Chick Kenny



Tribe Blanked, 6-0 By Athletic Rookie

Philadelphia, Sept. 7 (AP).—Hurling shutout ball as he made his big-league debut, Johnny Marcum, rookie righthander, pitched the Athletics to a 6-to-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians today, giving the A's two straight in the four-game series.

Appearing on the mound for the first time since Connie Mack bought him from Louisville, Ky., in the American Association, Marcum, big and rangy hurler, held the third-place Indians to five hits, struck out four men and showed coolness and steadiness in the pinches for his victory.

19th Victory for Dean As Cards Blank Phils

St. Louis, Sept. 7 (AP).—The Cardinals pounded Ragland and Berly, Philadelphia pitchers, consistently and hard today while Dizzy Dean held the Phillies to seven scattered hits and St. Louis won 10 to 1.

The victory was the nineteenth credited to Dean this season and the thirteenth straight home game won by the Cards since Frankie Frisch became manager.

Reds' 20th Shutout As Dodgers Win, 2-0

Cincinnati, Sept. 7 (AP). — Walter Beck proved stronger than Red Lucas in a mound battle today and the Dodgers came through in the eighth inning to defeat the Reds, 2 to 0. It was the twentieth time the Reds have been shut out this year and Beck gave them only five hits in doing the stunt.

Passes, Punts Stressed at C. U. Drill

Cards Extended in Two Sessions; Oliver Flashes Fancy Toe Work.

UNDER the rays of a baking sun, the Catholic University grid squad frisked about yesterday in their first uniform practice this year. Coach Berman stiffened the routine considerably, centering much attention upon the line scrimmage, although tackling, passing and punting also played an important part in the morning and afternoon practice.

By special concession, Tom Oliver, the Flying Cardinals' punting star, was allowed to unloose some real toe work, although his formidable rivals for kicking honors, Johnny Sniscak and Francis Santry, were required to work under wraps, as is customary during the early training period.

Two Dependables Missing.

Left tackle, Lloyd Stafford, and center, Jack McDonald, were absent from the workout yesterday, but are expected to report within a day or two.

George Lentz, formerly trainer at Dickinson Seminary, who was announced yesterday as the successor of Louis Brunelle, Catholic U.'s trainer since 1930, will assume his new duties immediately.

16th Win for Warneke As Cubs Beat Braves

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP).—Gabby Hartnett scored both Cub runs, one on a homer and the other after doubling, to give his battery mate, Lon Warneke, his sixteenth victory of the season and the Chicago Cubs a 2-to-1 decision over the Boston Braves today.

Wally Berger accounted for the Boston rally with his twenty-sixth home run of the season.

It was the Cubs' fourth straight victory and the Braves' sixth straight defeat, and enabled the third-place Chicagoans to gain a game on the league-leading Giants, whom they now trail by 6½ games.

Byrd May Take More Antarctic Lands for U. S.

Explorer, Guest at White House, Reveals Plans for Expedition.

Additional territory around the South Pole may be claimed for the United States and natural resources will be investigated, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd said yesterday in announcing plans for his second Antarctic expedition.

With a crew of 70 scientists and adventurers, he will sail from Boston September 25, to spend two years at the globe's end.

"We feel recession of ice should have left 500,000 square miles of land about the South Pole," Byrd said. Most of it, he pointed out, should lie between the pole and South America, adjoining Evelyn Byrd Land, claimed for the United States on his first Antarctic trip. He intends to "fly beyond the pole" and explore an area large as the United States and Mexico.

The expedition is expected to reach the previous base, Little America, January 1. It will have two ships, the Pacific Fir, and the Bear, Coast Guard cutter.

Byrd was uncertain whether supplies left at Little America could be recovered. These included gasoline caches, the trimotored plane Bernt Balchen piloted over the pole, wireless towers and supplies. The expedition will take new motors for the plane left there.

A guest at the White House, Byrd came away with the President's assurance the Government would give aid in case of need. Col. Jacob Ruppert, here with the explorer, and John D. Rockefeller, jr., were revealed among backers of the trip.

Many men on the first expedition will return this trip.

Grant Beats Vines In National Upset

marking: "I don't believe it; he was off his game."

Breaks through Vines' service in the sixth and eighth games decided the first set. After the champion ran up a 3-1 lead in the second set, the only advantage he enjoyed in the entire match, Grant turned on a stroking blast that gave him five successive games and the set. He pierced Vines' service three times in a row. Again in the final set, Grant broke up the proceedings with two service breaks, in the sixth and eighth games. When he forced Vines to hit wildly for the last point, Grant threw his racquet high in the air, and gave a yell that echoed all over the place.

Shields Ousts Nunoi.

It was the toughest kind of a day for the favorites, with the sole exception of Frank X. Shields, the giant New Yorker who loomed more conspicuously than ever at the outstanding American "hope" after whipping the steady Ryosuke Nunoi, second ranking Japanese, in straight sets, 7—5 6—2, 6—3. Nunoi had ousted George M. Lott, jr., the day before, but he was no match for the powerful Shields.

Both top-seeded foreign aces, Jack Crawford, of Australia, and Frederick J. Perry, of England, were given sensational duels by young Americans, another of whom, Gregory Mangin, of Newark, sprang a major surprise by outlasting the deliberate Japanese No. 1, Jiro Satoh, in five prolonged sets, 6—2, 3—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2.

Crawford Beats Wood.

Most of the gallery of 7,000 spectators remained until darkness was settling over the stadium to see Crawford emerge the winner of a tense two-hour duel with slim, blond Sidney B. Wood, jr., of New York. This match developed some of the tournament's greatest tennis before the Anzac pulled himself out of the crucial spot of the fourth set with a 6—4, 6—4, 2—6, 8—6 victory.

Wood had set point in the tenth game of the fourth set after running Crawford ragged for a stretch of several games. He lost this opportunity, however, then double-faulted to lose the eleventh game and offset a rally in the twelfth game by again dropping his service in the thirteenth.

Perry likewise needed all his resources to come from behind after dropping two of the first three sets and beat Keith Gledhill, "unseeded" Californian, who upset Frankie Parker yesterday and appeared headed for another surprise conquest until the British ace pulled his game together after the rest interval. Perry, despite a dangerous lapse in the final set, after piling up a four-game lead, won by scores of 6—2, 4—6, 1—6, 6—3, 6—3.

McGrath vs. Sutter.

Darkness finally ended the day's play with seven of the eight quarter-final brackets filled and Vivian McGrath, 17-year-old Australian phenomenon with the two-fisted backhand, leading the third ranking American, Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, in the fifth set of a battle for the other place. McGrath put on a brilliant comeback in the twilight stages of the contest and the scores stood 6—3, 4—6, 3—6, 6—3, 3—1 in his favor. The match will be resumed.

The quarter-finals, in the upper half, bring together Grant, the "giant killer" and tall Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, who swept aside H. G. N. Lee, in one of the few swift matches of the day, 6—0, 6—4, 6—4.

Perry's opponent will be Adrian Quist, who gave one of the finest exhibitions of the tournament in eliminating Allison, second ranking American. Quist surprised even his Australian teammates by his superlative performance. He is ranked only No. 4 at home and is chiefly noted as a doubles player. he caught Allison on something of an off-day and simply annihilated the Texan with his speed, control and service.

In the lower half, Shields plays Mangin, while Crawford will oppose the survivor of the Sutter-McGrath match.

Giants Buy Dressen.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 7 (AP).—In desperate need of a reliable third baseman to replace their stricken star, Johnny Vergez, the New York Giants tonight obtained Charley Dressen, former Cincinnati Red infielder from Nashville in the Southern association.

Dressen is to report to the club Saturday in Cincinnati.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, Holding a Bankruptcy Court. In the matter of Cooperative Restaurant Corporation, a corporation, bankrupt. In Bankruptcy No. 2917. To the creditors of Cooperative Restaurant Corporation, a corporation, of the City of Washington, District of Columbia: Notice is hereby given, that on the 22d day of August, 1933, the said Cooperative Restaurant Corporation was duly adjudicated a bankrupt; and that the first meeting of its creditors will be held at my office in the Investment Building, Fifteenth and K streets northwest, Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of September, 1933, at 10 o'clock a. m., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the officers of the bankrupt corporation, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting. FRED J. EDEN, Referee in Bankruptcy.

Utility Board Chairmanship To Bring Fight

Clayton and Maj. Emig Are Mentioned to Succeed Gen. Patrick.

Resignation of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired, as chairman of the District Public Utilities Commission, yesterday precipitated a fight over the naming of his successor.

Acceptance of the resignation was announced at the White House with an expression of regret by the President. Gen. Patrick's decision came as a surprise to many despite the fact that he frequently expressed a wish to retire.

Clayton and Emig Urged.

The name of William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilties committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, who has been a champion of utilities users for years, immediately was advanced as one of those who would be presented to the President for consideration as Patrick's successor.

Friends of Maj. Clayton S. Emig also advanced his name. Maj. Emig has been active in the Dupont Circle Citizens Association, and his friends are counting on his acquaintance with Frederic A. Delano as an aid. Maj. Emig would have the opposition of most of those who would advocate appointment of Mr. Clayton.

Other Names Mentioned.

Others who have been mentioned include George E. Sullivan, attorney; Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, and William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel. Keech has been actively engaged in Utilities Commission matters as people's counsel, and Roberts has been officially designated by William W. Bride, corporation counsel, to aid the Utilities Commission in its legal battles.

Especial importance attaches to the President's selection because of the several major matters which are rapidly coming to a head before the commission. These include gas and telephone valuations and rate cases.

Tomb Will Be Decorated By Auxiliary Saturday

Mrs. Jean Bowers Thompson, of Elgin, Ill., national president of the Auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will place the insignia of the auxiliary in the amphitheater at Arlington National Cemetery in a ceremony at noon Saturday. Following this she will lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. All Washington members will attend.

Afterward Mrs. Thompson will attend the meeting of the advisory board of the Womens Patriotic Conference on National Defense at 2 p. m. at the Mayflower Hotel.

100 Years Old and Never Felt Better in Her Life!

Post Staff Photo.

Mrs. Mary True Allyn, 2707 Adams Mill road, will celebrate her 100th birthday, but to her it will be just another birthday which have been coming and going a long time. She is much more interested in current events than in birthdays and things of the past.

Utility Board Gets Traction Merger Plans

Details Are Not Divulged Pending Study by Officials.

Details of the street railway merger set-up will not be announced until the Public Utilities Commission has completed study of the plan submitted yesterday.

Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, would not comment on any phase of the proposed organization which representatives of the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. presented. However, he did say that probably by the first of the week the plan would be made public. It is understood that the proposal includes full details as to the financial make-up of the new firm which will purchase the Washington Rapid Transit Co. and give the city bus and street car transportation under one company.

Following tentative approval by the commission the plan must be approved by stockholders of the two companies.

Religious Order Inducts 2 Youths

St. John's Students Don Vesture at Rites.

William John Quinn and Carl J. Mess, both of St. John's College here, were invested yesterday in the religious habit of the Christian Brothers at Ammendale, Md. Quinn received the name of Brother Dionysius John; and Mess, Brother George.

Mess was cadet major of St. John's battalion. The ceremony was witnessed by the students and professors of the Ammendale Normal Institute and a delegation from St. John's.

After a year of intensive study of the rules, vows and constitution of the order, the young brothers will go to the Catholic University, where they will enter upon four years of additional collegiate studies.

Twenty-six others representing Eastern cities were also invested.

Optimist Club Aims Told in Radio Talk

Optimist Clubs' efforts on behalf of American boys was told by Joseph A. Burkart, chairman of the boys' work committee of the local club, in a radio talk over Station WMAL last night.

More than 100 junior Optimist Clubs are functioning in the United States, Mr. Burkart said. The local one is prominent, he added. The junior clubs, he explained, sponsor the needs of youth reared in poverty. Mr. Burkart was introduced by Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest.

Never Again!

Hungry Panhandler Takes Clock and Shoes From Host at Breakfast.

Henceforth Leonard Cramlitt, 300 E street northwest, probably will be in the hard-hearted class so far as panhandlers are concerned.

Touched by the hunger plea of a man in Seaton Park early yesterday, Cramlitt took the man home for breakfast of ham, eggs and French-fried potatoes. While the man was eating, Cramlitt left on an errand. When he returned the man was gone, and also a pair of new shoes and an alarm clock.

The clock was found where it had been given for a small loan. At the First Precinct Station a man wearing new shoes was locked up for intoxication. Cramlitt identified his shoes and recovered them.

The man, who said he was Claude Hughes, 34, 1211 Thirteenth street northwest, was charged with petty thievery.

Mrs. Mary T. Allyn Proud of Her Blue Eagle Membership.

Current Events Interest Her; Kin Reached America in 1630.

"I never felt better in my life!" Thus spoke Mrs. Mary True Allyn, 2707 Adams Mill road, who will be a century old Sunday.

Interviewed at her home, Mrs. Allyn appeared to be more interested in current events than in her age. Possessing an active mind and the agility of one of much younger years, she readily expressed her convictions on national affairs.

"I believe President Roosevelt's recovery program is one of the most remarkable achievements I have witnessed," she said. "I am a Blue Eagle member and believe it should be supported 100 per cent. Being a strong temperance advocate, I will be sorry to see the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. Allyn says she owes her health to moderate life and the New England climate. She was born and reared in Ritchfield, Conn., where her ancestors settled in 1630. She is the last of her immediate family, having had three sisters who reached the age of 90.

A birthday party will be held at her home. Mrs. Allyn's five children, three daughters and two sons, will be present.

Boy in Jewish Home Hurt in Bathroom Fall

Paul Howe, 12, an inmate of the Jewish Foster Home, is in Gallinger Hospital with injuries received yesterday when he fell on a bathroom floor.

He has laceration and possible fracture of the skull.

Firemen's Parade Pictures Shown at Fox

Motion pictures of the firemen's parade on Labor Day, sponsored by The Washington Post, are on exhibition as part of the show at Loew's Fox Theater.

The "shots," taken by the Fox Movietone News, will remain on the Fox screen through Monday.

German Note Valueless, Men Held for Probe

100-Mark Bill Passed at Hotel Found to Be of Worthless Series.

Two men were held for investigation last night in connection with passing of a worthless 100-mark German note on a clerk at the Dodge hotel late Wednesday. Police said they probably would be charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

The note was given by a man who registered as Albert Schwartz, 28. He spoke with a German accent and said he had just arrived in this country. The clerk accepted the note in advance payment for a room and gave him change from the $32 exchange value allowed for it. Subsequently the note was found to be a 1920 series which is worthless.

Schwartz, with a man giving has name as David Schmidt, was arrested Wednesday night at the Ambassador hotel. Police said they had a bundle of the German notes in their possession.

Optimism Needed, Kiwanis Club Told

Strickland Gillilan Tells Need of Courage.

All that rings is not gold, neither is cheerfulness necessarily optimism.

Such is the opinion of Strickland Gillilan, well-known humorist, as expressed yesterday at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

"Some people think that this thing that looks like a chessy cat is optimism," he said. "That is not optimism any more than a cheerful idiot is. Optimism is not constant cheerfulness, but the cheerfulness that comes from hope and courage. Optimism puts a ray of hope into every tear of discouragement."

He stressed the need of optimism, saying "these are times when we must have optimism in this country."

District Gets $325,000 Fund For Building

$100,000 Set to Preserve Monument; Mount Vernon Aided.

The Public Works Administration yesterday allotted approximately $33[illegible] for construction projects in the District of Columbia.

The allocations included $100,000 for preservation of the Washington Monument, $50,000 for preserving trees in the District, and $32,000 for Arlington Memorial Bridge construction, to be used in completing retaining walls and sidewalks on approaches.

Another $31,100 was made immediately available for repair of damage resulting from the storm of two weeks ago. Eight small bridges and approaches in Rock Creek Park, washed away, will be replaced with part of the fund.

Buildings to Be Repaired.

Altogether, $161,925 was allocated for repairing and reconditioning public buildings, including $27,000 for a roof on the Navy and Munitions Building and $15,903 for repairs to the Internal Revenue Building.

Allotments for other work on public structures included $2,000 for repairing the State Department Building; $1,074 for the Land office; $1,020, Patent Office; $6,890, Lincoln Memorial; $672 more for the Navy and Munitions Building; $1,900, Interior Department building courtyard; $5,000, removing old State Department chimneys, and $3,121, roof of the old Postoffice Department Building.

Thirty thousand dollars was set aside for the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway water supply system: $15,000 for Mount Vernon Memorial Highway drainage, and $2,340 for resurfacing the roadway in the rear of the Navy and Munitions Building.

Allotment to Treasury.

The Public Works Administration alloted $1,526,091 to the Treasury Department for equipment and administrative overhead in planning building projects already approved.

Altogether, Public Works Administrator Ickes yesterday made a total of $17,000,000 available for construction work in 30 States, including $13,500,000 for slum rehabilitation.

Of this, $12,000,000 was tentatively authorized to be lent to a limited dividend corporation in Cleveland, to finance a low-cost housing project. A $500,000 loan to St. Louis for another low-cost housing project was conditionally approved, as was a $1,000,000 loan to Euclid, Ohio, for similar purposes.

The administration allotted $1,521,945 to the Coast Guard and $2,279,474 to the National Parks, Buildings and Reservations Commission.

Dinner Honors Arthur Heaton

Renovize Campaign Head Is Feted by Building Trades Body.

Arthur B. Heaton, architect, who inaugurated the Renovize Washington Campaign, was tendered a testimonial dinner last night by the Building Trades Employers Association at the Continental Hotel.

Speeches congratulating Mr. Heaton on the success of the campaign were made by Claude Owen and Robert J. Cottrell, president and secretray of the Washington Board of Trade, and E. J. Murphy, past president.

Entertainment was given by Miss Erna Embrey, Miss Jessie Werner, Earl Walls and George Lambert. Logan Pingree, president of the Building Trades Employers Association, presided.

Need for continuing the campaign was stressed by Mr. Owen. He pointed out that permits for repair work have increased $1,000 a day since the campaign started. Direct accomplishments of the campaign thus far have been completion of the renovized house and the Renovize Exposition.

Blue Eagle Terms Explained to Chest

Permanent Codes Exempt Charity Units.

The Community Chest has received a letter from Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the National Recovery Administration, clarifying conditions under which hospitals, charitable and social welfare organizations can quality for the display of the Blue Eagle.

The questions of display of the Blue Eagle had already been taken up by the Community Chest of Washington, and its hours have been so arranged as to bring it within the necessary code. The local Chest already displays the Blue Eagle.

So far as permanent codes are concerned, it is not expected that codes will cover hospitals, charitable or social welfare organizations in general, as they are not engaged in trade or industry. There is nothing to prevent any of these organizations from signing the President's reemployment agreement and conforming to its provisions.

This does not mean, however, that they are under any compulsion to do so, other than that resulting from a desire to cooperate wherever appropriate and so far as possible with a general program of reemployment at shorter hours and higher wages.

Strike Is Ended At Steel Sash Factory Here

Crittall Company Employes Agree to Await Code Draft.

Striking workers at the Crittall Manufacturing Co., 1224 Twenty-fourth street northwest, steel window sash firm, were back on the job yesterday, Charles C Anthony, sales manager, announced.

Inability of the company to take action regarding the weekly wage reduction necessitated by adoption of the blanket code recently, was explained to the employes at a meeting before working hours yesterday. Plans for a code for the Solid Section Steel Window Industry were considered at a three-day meeting of trade associations of the industry at Cleveland, ending yesterday. Results, of this meeting, expected to bring a change in the present arrangement, will be submitted to NRA headquarters.

Anthony reported the spirit was good among workmen yesterday. Only two of them, he said, receive as little as 38½ cents an hour, and they are willing to work on that basis until the code is settled.

Two Youths Caught During Park Robbery

Two 21-year-old youths, whom police say were caught in a robbery, were bound over to the grand jury yesterday.

They were Jack Short and Wesley Crocket, both of 2120 G street northwest. Park Policeman R. D. Livingston testified he found the pair robbing Cleet Crawson, Elizabethtown, N. C., in Seaton Park.

Young Nomad

Orphan Hobo, 16, Coming Here on Freight, Held but Unworried.

Although only 16, John Ben, of nowhere, is a seasoned knight of the road.

He blew into Washington on a freight train and was charged with being a fugitive from his parents. But it developed that he has no parents and his nearest relative, an uncle, is himself a hobo.

At the receiving home, the handsome blue-eyed youth is unconcerned.

"I don't care what they do with me," he says. "I've been discouraged too many times."

Loop Bus Told To Run During Rush Periods

Southwest Service Is Not Patronized Well in Middle of Day.

The Southwest loop bus which the Public Utilities Commission was experimenting in the use of a 5-cent fare will operate during rush-hour periods.

The service, operated hitherto in the slack period in the middle of the day, was not patronized sufficiently to be continued.

The commission yesterday ordered the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to change to the morning and afternoon rush service. It operates from Twelfth and G streets northwest to Fourteenth and Water streets southwest.

Dry Agent Freed On Traffic Charge

Catching Policeman's Arm in Car Door Not Proven in Court.

Two traffic charges against Karl O. Speiss, prohibition agent, were dismissed in Police Court yesterday when E. Russell Kelly, attorney for Speiss, proved that neither of the technical violations charged against Speiss had been proven.

Speiss was arrested by Policeman E. C. Comingore after the officer had allegedly hurt his arm when Speiss raised the window of his car and pinioned the policeman's arm.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt dismissed Comingore's charge. The second, brought by Policeman F. V. Kirchman, met a similar fate when Attorney Kelly demonstrated that the violation, if any, had not been consummated when the arrest was made. Speiss will be tried September 20 on a charge of assaulting Policeman Comingore.

34 Employes Of Geological Survey Fired

These Were Among 74 Men Ordered Back After Rating Scandal.

Thirty-four of the 73 employes dismissed from the Geological Survey in July, but ordered back to duty when evidence of tampering with efficiency ratings was discovered, yesterday were again separated from the service, as the Interior Department wrote "finis" after a minor bureau scandal.

Secretary of Interior Ickes decided to retain on a full-time basis 13 geologists in the group originally slated to go. Thirteen other geologists were placed on a rotative furlough and 13 draftsmen and topographical engineers, on indefinite furlough.

Glavis Directed Inquiry.

The revised list of furloughs and dismissals was announced after Secretary Ickes completed action on the report of Louis R. Glavis, director of investigation, who made an inquiry into the survey's rating system.

Ickes declined to make public the text of the Glavis report. He disclosed, however, that two instances where efficiency ratings had been altered were uncovered. On information supplied by Glavis he had ordered the dismissal of one employe charged with tampering with ratings, and the demotion of another charged with obstructing the investigation.

Dismissals Held Necessary.

Department officials explained it was necessary to dismiss 34 of the 73 employes originally slated for separation in order to keep within appropriations. Of those separated, however, 13 come under the involuntary retirement clause of the independent offices act, and will receive retirement compensation.

Ickes recently promoted Ronney C. Shelse, chief clerk of the distribution section, to be chief clerk of the Geological Survey, and assigned John J. Madigan, formerly chief clerk of the survey, to succeed Ronney. Frederick J. Burrows, former assistant chief of the engraving division, has been dismissed.
